

T H B R H O D O D E N D R O N

RETRO SPECT

APPALACHIAN STATE UNIVERSITY 1991 - 1992

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2010 with funding from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

-

1992

volume 70

Appalachian State University
Boone, NC 28608

Table of contents

index

142 sports

110 special interest

87 portraits

56 academics

31 student life

2 student life

Photo By: Keith Jackson
D. J. Campbell passes the ball for another ASU touchdown.

Photo By: Keith Jackson
A stand-up comedian gets laughs from the crowd.

The crowd cheers for the Mountaineers.
Photo By: Jenny McClellan

Daryl Gent breaking from a long day at the office. Photo by: Hak Ung

The Class of '92

1992: the highly anticipated senior year! Since the day you started college you have looked forward to the day that you could say you were a senior. The very idea of being able to say, "I'm graduating in May" seemed so far away. Remember your first day at Appalachian? Everything seemed so new and strange. Your sense of direction flipped and did topsie turvies until you did not know which way was up. And even though you probably do not want to admit it, you were just as lost as everyone else. You gradually learned where everything was on campus and then, you Wataugan-you, became a pro at finding your way around. You learned to relax and to take it easy, not constantly looking at your watch, worrying if you were two minutes late to class.

Lines, lots of lines awaited us as freshmen four years ago. The first line was a line of traffic. U-Hauls, vans, trucks, and cars loaded with clothes, TV's, beaming parents, and anxious freshmen seemed without end. Since then we have seen many changes over the years. We vaguely remember the BI and the infamous wheel of death. We certainly remember how H'Appy's once entertained us before Legend's took over. We watched football games at Conrad Stadium. We have seen the beginning and completion of the new business building and Trivette Hall. We even have some memories of D.D. Dougherty House that once sat across from Varsity Gym. And who could forget Brother Jim? Remember the first time we entered Rankin Science Center . . . and the relief we felt after the last class of freshmen Biology was over and we never had to enter that madman's playground again?

There were times where we felt the whole campus come together for support. The community and campus mourned the loss of Jeni Gray. We all watched as the events of the Gulf War unfolded. We buckled down and waited out Hurricane Hugo which swept through Boone, flooding apartments, downing trees, and canceling classes.

We have seen our college costs rise by $1,200 in four years.

A lot of melted snow has gone under the bridge.

Seniors

Appalachian
STATE UNIVERSITY

We are the seniors

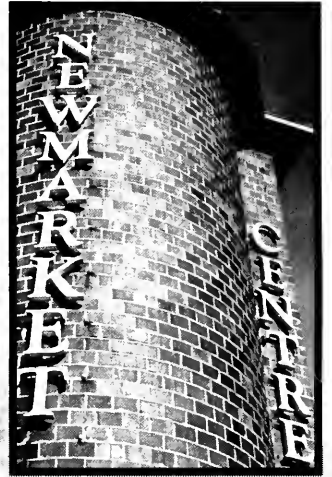

Jason Bruno at his part-time job. Photo by: Hak Ung

We're outta here in May to play more Nintendo. Photo by: Keith Jackson

Now we're finally seniors. The countdown began. Only 180 days until graduation. Appalachian's Senior Committee constructed many activities to help us make the most out of our final year as undergrads. Led by president, Stephanie Lineberry, in addition to many dedicated club members, the Senior Committee distributed cups, hats, T-shirts, stationary, and four newsletters a year. They also coordinated Senior Week, Picnic on Sanford Mall, and contributed the Class Gift to ASU.

With the help of the Senior Committee, and a few of our friends, we became consumed with getting everything in: football and basketball games, parties, going out with friends, and all the college culture we could, as if we would never get the chance to do so again. Our new worries were internships, graduation invitations, gowns and just plain getting out of school. Soon the countdown reached one week, then only one day. Questions began to pierce through our euphoria. What had we really learned? We all know by now how to properly drink tequila, but what about knowledge that will help us out in the "Real World"? Are we ready to go out into the business community? What about marriage and a family? What will I do if so-and-so happens and I don't know how to handle it? Well, ready or not, here we go!

Changes

Have you ever thought about all of the changes that have taken place at ASU since you were a freshman? The West Wing Cafeteria stopped serving supper, and campus security evolved into a police force with guns. Not only did changes take place on campus every year, but the town of Boone experienced several transformations of various nature, to say the least.

The happening spot for us as freshmen was H'Appy's. Everyone remembers H'Appy's right? Then there was the election that changed it to Legends, and the name of H'Appy's became just another distant memory.

While we are mentioning things that are now a part of our past, we cannot forget Depot Street Bar & Grill. This place had its moment in the sun for almost two years. Then following along the same path as many other gathering places that tried to exist, its efforts to remain open became futile. We had to say "Adios" to the place that had booked the Black Crows before they became nationally known. However, Depot Street is not alone on a long list of bars and hangouts that opened and/or closed all within the last four years. Amadeus, Ca'Teddy's, O'Malleys and Geno's are among the other ghosts of nightspot's past.

Coach Sparky Woods was the coach to watch in the fall of '88. But Sparky moved on to the Gamecocks, and Coach Jerry Moore came in to fill some pretty tough shoes. The '89 football season was action-packed as Coach Moore brought with him the new "A's" on the football helmets, names on the players jerseys, and a big win over Wake Forest University!

We also got a new cafeteria, Trivette Hall, that gave us a chance to experience a little bit of Italian right here on campus. In addition to the new business building, better referred to as COB for lack of a better name, these two places were among the biggest additions to ASU. However, if you ask some students who were here when we became the first university in the Southeast to install condom machines, they might argue that this has been the biggest addition to campus. Besides, it's not every university that gets called Condom U. by late-night host David Letterman.

So many changes have taken place that it is hard to account for them all. Macado's moved to town, and The Rock bolted. Do you remember The Rock? Litchfield Theaters became the newest movie attraction, as well as Blockbuster, and we all gained the opportunity to go to The Flick for only one dollar.

ASU and Boone have changed with time. As seniors, it's easier to appreciate what has come and gone. Nothing ever remains the same, and who knows, we may all come back as alumni one day and see that the baseball field is a lake.

HOT SPOTS

A question asked on Thursdays, and sometimes earlier in the week, around ASU was, "What are you doing tonight?" When a party, band, or other social event was going on, word traveled fast. Out of all the things going on, a few hot-spots emerged.

Chip's Lounge was the place to find those seasoned partiers who started early in the week. The lounge hosted DJ night every Wednesday, giving students a chance to jam to the latest beat of many popular groups such as Prince and Boys II Men.

Thursday night, there were usually several choices. The first was Sollicitos. The favorite Thursday night goings-on were Buddah music, bands like the Rockafellas, more recently known as Jupiter Coyote, and of course Liquid Pleasure, brought by KA. If nothing special was going on at Sollicitos, the next place to try was the old stand by, Macados. Of course there was London Calling and its short reign with $5 all you could drink. Needless to say, London Calling was king of the mountain before it was de-throned.

The Klondike Cafe was a popular gathering spot for students.

Students could chill with a cold one.

The hot-spots for weekends included parties. Small or large, it did not matter. If you could not find a party maybe AAE, The Connels, or Driving and Crying, were playing at Legends.

If you liked to start partying early on a weekday, the Sidewalk Cafe, Holley's, and the Klondike were the places to be. They all offered a place to sit outside in the sun, or in the cool winter air for those willing to brave Boone's bitter chill, and maybe have a beer with friends.

If you liked to shoot pool the place to go was Savannah Joe's. There was more than enough room to mingle with friends among the 12+ pool tables. Klondike was the place for darts.

Boone may not have had the night life that most cities have, but it had its share of places that emerged as hot-spots.

Julie Parham

GOING

GOING

GOING

The Appalachian State football team opened the 1991 season against Marshall on August 31. The game was the last season opener for many seniors like Shea Griffin, sports editor for The Appalachian.

"It seems like only yesterday I came to my first ASU football game and now here I am in my senior year. The time has flown by. I am already making plans to come up for games next year," Griffin said when asked about it being his last football season at Appalachian.

The Appalachian football team started their impressive season with a 9-3 win over conference rival, Marshall. Appalachian got the first score on the board in the second quarter when Steve Patterson, Brent David, and Tony Leonard trapped Marshall's quarterback in the end zone. The result was a safety.

After Kamal Atkins 32-yard punt return, J.K. Reaves scored a touchdown putting the score up 9-0. It was not until the fourth quarter that Marshall managed to score with a field goal.

For senior football players it was the beginning of their last season and their last chance to play Marshall. Senior Kamal Atkins said, "As a senior it felt great to beat Marshall since they are a big conference rival. We have beaten them before but this was special since it was the last time I will be in the black and gold."

For all seniors, a victory over Marshall was a great way to start their last year at ASU. It was easy to tell that it was going to be a memorable year.

Julie Parham
Janice Snyder

Craig Styron rushes down the field.

GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE

Chip Hooks adds to his record breaking total.

Photos by: Keith Jackson

ING

It was dry again in Cullowee as the Mountaineers clinched the Battle of the Old Mountain Jug for the seventh straight year. The Battle of The Old Mountain Jug was a tradition started in the 1930's when Western Carolina and Appalachian started playing each other. The jug, a replica of an old moonshine jug, is the trophy for the winning team and it stays at the home of the winning school.

The game meant more than just bragging rights. The victory made the Mountaineers Southern Conference Champions for the first time since 1987. The title qualified them for a spot in the 1-AA national play-offs. For seniors this was their last time to see the Mountaineers beat their long time rival Western. Senior Ivan Copney said, "It was great to beat Western my senior year. It was a great way to end things."

The game was a record-setting one for one of the Mountaineers. Freshman running back Chip Hooks rushed for 158 yards, which gave him 1062 for the season. He was the first ASU freshman to break the 1,000 yard rushing barrier.

Julie Parham

GOING

THE GONE GONE GONE GONE GONE TO THE NATIONAL PLAYOFFS !

Will it ever end?

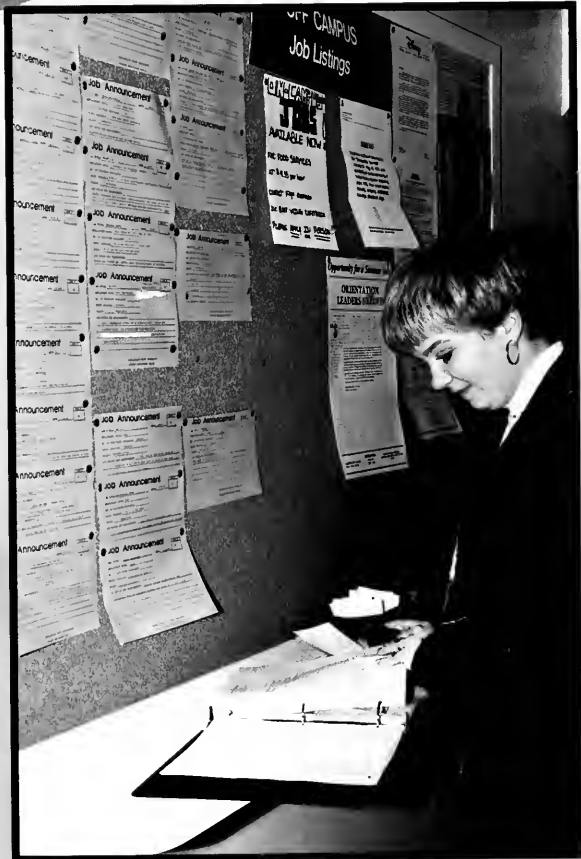

○ Tweenzies

“After graduation, I might just be a tweenzie.”

What are tweenzies? Tweenzies are graduates who find themselves in a “limbo” between college and a real purpose in life. It is a stage after graduation when you move back in with your parents so you will not have to pay rent. This happens because the only job you can find pays minimum wage and is at your local mall. Having their child become a tweenzie sometimes makes parents distraught. After all, they just spent thousands on educating you. They just do not understand that you need a little rest before you hit the real world.

Tweenzies take many different forms. One of the most prevalent is the kind that usually strikes ski buffs and people who have boyfriends or girlfriends that graduate later than they do. This type of tweenzie will not leave Boone. They tend to stay a few extra years and work at ski resorts or wait tables. They usually have at least one excuse for not leaving though, like they are interviewing on campus. However, they do plan to leave on a certain date but will actually end up moving years later.

A second type of tweenzie goes on tour after graduation. They go and visit friends they have accumulated from college. Some stay in the U.S., while others with stronger cases go to Europe to "find" themselves.

Jamie Bonden searching for a job. Photo by: Hak Ung

Fear of being a tweenzie sometimes brings on a condition called senioritis by the Career Planning and Placement Office. Senioritis usually occurs in students that find it necessary to have a job the day after graduation and make $40,000 a year. They just do not feel the need to "find" themselves in Europe, Florida, California, or wherever.

Julie Parham

"Stretch that brain!" Photo by: Kieth Jackson

Photos By: Jenny McClellan

On a rainy September 10th, thirty-nine teams gathered on Sanford Mall to compete in Appalachian's Third-Annual Razzle Dazzle. Teamwork was the focus of the six events which included "Chinny Chin-Chin," "The Centipede Shuffle," "Wild Thing Obstacle Course," "Blind Barrel Roll," "Put it On, Take it Off," and the "Seven-Legged Race."

According to senior Alan Williams, the purpose of Razzle Dazzle was to "get dirty, save face, and not look

Trying to find dry equipment was as tough as the competitions.

Razzle Dazzle

stupid." When asked for a more official goal, Jimmy Eubanks of the Intramural Office gave this response. "Razzle Dazzle is meant to kick off the year in a fun way. It is geared towards those who are not necessarily athletically inclined."

The Outlaws placed third, while the Dirty Dozen captured second. The Southern Comfort team was the first place winner. The members of the Southern Comfort team were Jodi Creager, Kevin Fox, Jeff Dudan, Cam Carpenter, Scott Brown, Ruth Eemis, and Tracey McNeil.

There were a few disappointments in the 1991 competition. Senior Brian Simmons commented, "I thought Budweiser sponsored this? There is no beer!" George Dixon, also a senior, added, "Anheiser-Busch should bring beer next year."

By the time the games ended all players had enjoyed a fun-filled rainy day. "You get the sensation of standing at the bottom of a lake," said senior Charlie Ashe. Todd Roberts, a sophomore, exclaimed, "I love the free shirts!" Senior Carol Bennett gave her own unique opinion of the festivities. "The guys have great legs!"

As the day ended, competitors shook hands and headed for drier places. Razzle Dazzle had passed again. However, Jimmy Eubanks held out hope for a spring Razzle Dazzle, maybe even a dry one.

Becky Reagan
Jennifer Rimmer

"Runners (and walkers) to your mark. Get set." Bang! Chancellor Thomas pulled the trigger as 457 registered participants started the Ninth-Annual Big Apple Road Race on Saturday, September 21, 1991. The four mile race gave ASU students, local residents, and others from across the state a chance to break personal records and have fun. The weather was all up by saying, "It's the only time of the year I get up before 10:00 on a Saturday."

The Big Apple Road Race was only one exciting event that took place throughout the year in sports. The Intramural Office was busy from the start of school scheduling teams and tournaments for ASU students. Mike Blanton, Team Sports Programmer, believed intramurals were exciting because they allowed athletes to continue the sports they played in high school, even if they were not varsity material in college.

Emily Baker

Big Apple Road Race

Intramurals

perfect and many spectators came to cheer everyone to the finish.

The first male senior to finish the race was Nicholas Lovin, of Rockingham, North Carolina. Lovin competed with ROTC for four years. He commented, "I just enjoy running and ROTC is big on this! It's kind of a competition between ROTC people." Julie Cooper was the first female senior to finish the race. "I always look forward to the Big Apple because I get a free tee-shirt and get ROTC Physical Training credit."

A new course record was set by Appalachian student Brad Dodson who finished with a time of 19:40. He stated, "I was planning on winning the race from the beginning. My friends told me I would win and I agreed to try." Although it was Dodson's first Big Apple run, he planned to return and participate again.

In addition to overall awards, special awards were also presented to the first faculty members. David Neiman and Marianne Suggs. The first staff finishers were Jack Love and Kelley O'Donnell. O'Donnell was also the overall female winner with a time of 26:36.

Barbara Daye, Race Director and ASU's Assistant Vice Chancellor for Student Development hoped the race would be even more successful next year, if that's possible." One dedicated senior summed it

Runners competed and had fun on a brisk Saturday morning.

Photo By: Amy Page

HALLOWEEN '91

Halloween brings out the animal in all of us.

Beast Man!

"Out of the night and the fog and the gloom, these three. Doom shall come to thee." Halloween is one time of the year when evil pervades the hearts, minds, and spirits of the little ghosts and goblins that beg from door to door. But at Appalachian State, Halloween was just another reason to abandon school work and do whatever the heart desired. Some school organizations and local businesses helped ASU students in their search for the ultimate Halloween thrill by providing a variety of activities.

For the movie connoisseur, A.P.P.S. Films presented some classics. "Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde" and "The Raven" were shown at I.G. Greer. In addition to these classics, A.P.P.S. presented a traditional ASU classic. "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" appeared at Legends on October 30. After the movie, A.P.P.S. Stage Shows arranged a Halloween party with a costume contest.

For the music connoisseur, several bands ventured through the dark, ghost-laden streets of Boone to perform at local clubs. Johnny Quest, with the Pygmies, performed at Legends on Halloween night. The Cloud Rats also appeared at the Klondike Cafe.

For those who wanted an adventure, The Southern Appalachian Historical Association presented the Third Annual Horn in the West Halloween Festival which featured the "Haunted Forest Trail" and "Dark Illusions."

With all of these activities, ASU students had no excuse to sit in their rooms (Unless they wanted to watch Alfred Hitchcock reruns with a loved one). The University and the community offered many activities to thrill and chill the spirits of all willing ASU students.

Photos By: Jenny McClellan & Darrell Laughlin

Smoke'em if you got'em!

It takes all kinds.

Black History

MONTH

"I only hate that it is one month out of the year," said Tammy Tolbert, president of BSA, regarding Black History Month. February 1992 was a time for all ethnic backgrounds to focus on the history of African Americans and to explore their culture and heritage.

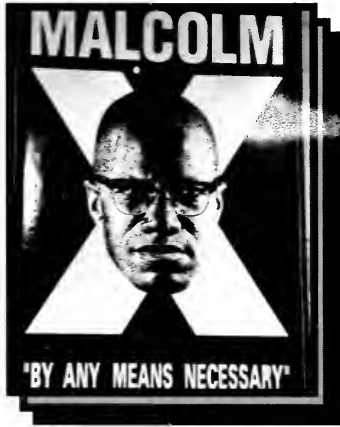

Did you know that Shirley Chisholm was the first black woman elected to the U.S. Congress, serving seven terms? That Matthew Henson raised the flag on the first American expedition to the North Pole? That Coretta Scott King and her husband Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. worked side-by-side for civil rights for the human race?

BSA put together many displays in the library and in the BSA office to commemorate Black History Month. Lecturers inspired students of all ethnic backgrounds. Willie Fleming, director of African American Student Development, gave ASU students an insight into "Blacks in the Bible." African American career workshops were also held.

Overall, Black History Month was productive. Tolbert believed that black history needed to become a greater part of our educational system. Since we had celebrated Black History Week, then Black History Month, Tolbert hoped that someday black history would be recognized, respected, and taught to all.

Cindy Grimes

Student leader Reggie Murphy displays some works of famous black authors.

Campus Religion

The closeness in the Canterbury group is obvious.

Joining any of the religious Christian groups at Appalachian State was a great way to make new friends and become closer to old ones while sharing religious beliefs. There were several different organizations that gave Mountaineers an opportunity to grow spiritually with one another after class and on the weekends.

One group, Intervarsity, had thirty to forty members who helped the freshmen move into their resident facilities in the fall of '91. Their vision, said President Bobby Austin, was to "build collegiate fellowship, which develops disciples who embody biblical values and engage in ethnic diversity with the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Another group, The Wesley Foundation, was led by Scott Smith and sponsored by the Methodist Church. The Wesley Foundation focused on the six "f's": fun, food, fellowship, friends, family, and foundation.

The Baptist Student Union was another group at ASU where students gathered for devotion. Byron Green, president of BSU, stressed that all denominations were welcome. BSU members participated in social ministry by visiting rest homes weekly.

Besides their regular meetings, which were headed by Brian Messick, Campus Catholic Ministry came together every Wednesday night for dinner and fellowship.

Tracy Carrier, the president of The Lutheran Student Association, said the thirty-five member group celebrated Martin Luther's birthday every year by eating a German feast of knockwurst and cabbage.

Direct Current's president, April McKie, said that the members of her group came together and related today's world to Christianity. She commented that they were "a body of believers allowing people to express their needs no matter how big or small."

Kelly Gatlin, president of Westminster Fellowship stated, "Our small group did a lot of outdoor activities, such as backpacking and caving. We related our adventures to religion by using group effort and cooperation, and by following the rule 'love one another.'" Friendships and fellowship were essential to each group, and allowed all members to feel a sense of togetherness and unity. It was a joy for the participants to be a part of something, especially when it had a positive influence on their lives.

Amy Turner

Members of the Canterbury group feed the body as well as the spirit.

These students prepare to spend a night in fellowship.

Photos by: Hak Ung

HOMECOMING 1991

Homecoming 1991, "Fire on the Mountain." It was the day before the big game. The excitement blazed through the streets of Boone. Seventy clubs and organizations participated in the parade by decorating floats and floating through downtown. Residence halls were fired up during the spirit yell. When the alumni poured into town, everyone was ready for the big day.

The big day came. Faculty, students, staff, and alumni drudged through the blustering, wintery chill, sleet, and snow to support the ASU Mountaineers. They demolished the Mississippi College Choctaws by a score of 31 to 23. Because the game was a run-away, most of the Mountaineers got to participate.

Other activities occurred during half-time. All of the men waited patiently for the Homecoming Court to appear. Tracie Peterson was crowned Homecoming Queen and Michele Ribiero won Maid of Honor.

Well, the cheerleaders cheered us to a victory. The band celebrated each high point of the game, and the Mountaineers made everyone proud to belong to ASU. But the game was over. What was left to do after the exciting, memorable day? Celebrate the victory all night!

Cindy Grimes

Tracie Peterson was crowned ASU 1991 Homecoming Queen.

FIRE ON THE MOUNTAIN

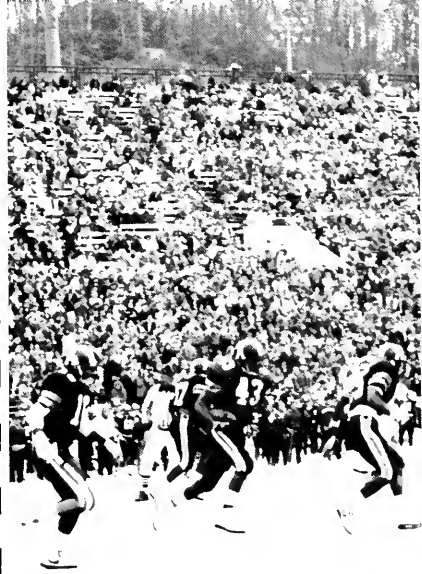

Photos By Keith Jackson & Darrell Laughlin

Doughton Hall's RSA president, Lisa Smith proudly accepts the Chancellor's Cup for her resident hall.

Miss Doughton Hall, Hugh Seinberg (WHAT?), waves to his fans.

HOMECOMING 1991 F
HOMECOMING 1991 F

HOMECOMING 1991 F
HOMECOMING 1991 F

Marching Band

Sitting here in our room, wishing we were at Sollicito's, we ponder times gone by, remembering our trials, tribulations, and triumphs. North Carolina's Band of Distinction had once again ignited those all-too-familiar feelings of awe and inspiration. Appalachian State University's Marching Band, directed by the infamous Joe Brashier and his faithful shadow Charles Crabbe, demonstrated its musicianship and marching tenacity. Despite a band camp imbued with tragedies, we did prevail in the end.

The 1991-92 season's repertoire included music from Holst's "The Planets," a patriotic salute to the military, a Beatles/"here-you-go-hippies" show, a Blues Brothers extravaganza, and a show featuring music by the one and only Andrew Lloyd Webber. These shows were performed at home games where the band cheered on ASU's football team. After the game, we entertained the fans with a barrage of Appalachian favorites, including "Amazing Grace," "Carolina in the Morning," and "Tennessee Waltz."

We also performed for several thousand high school students at Mooresville's and ASU's band competitions. With gaiety and high spirits, we victoriously led the Homecoming parade to add to the band's list of accomplishments. Oh joy divine! The thrill of it was almost equal to that of showing up for Saturday rehearsals at 8:45 in the morning. All in all, we had an excellent season.

The band's group of fine-feathered fowl (first year band students) were exceptionally enthusiastic about their prestigious status as "duckies". The band's ensemble of ducks sported the first-ever duck leader and valdeductorian. The class graduated cum laude.

Fifty seniors also participated in the organization. Looking to the future, we knew that this was the end of an era. Even though a few of these dedicated band members were no longer with us, we had confidence in the new and returning band students to carry on the tradition of superiority. "Carry on Mountaineers!" As Dr. Brashier would say, "You have the finesse of a hog," constructive criticism at its best.

Rance Greene
Natasha Johnson
Kim Williamson
Tabitha Woody

Pam Grady adds a cheerful sound on the playing field
ASU's lead trumpet players blast their way across the field

Lead Drum beats to the drum.

3rd. Bass & Nikki D.

Boone got a taste of rap on September, 25. 3rd Bass rocked the house at Legends. 3rd Bass, from Brooklyn N.Y., combined references to commercials, old television shows, and nursery rhymes with strong lyrics to send their message. According to 3rd Bass, their music was designed to make people think.

3rd Bass performed hits from their most recent album "Derelicts of Dialects," including their top 40 hit "Pop Goes the Weasel," as well as tunes from their first album. The band also did some Vanilla Ice bashing while in Boone. They felt that pop imposters like Vanilla Ice were going to kill rap music.

3rd Bass was joined by female rap artist Nikki D, who was best known for her hit "Daddy's Little Girl," and KMD. They are featured on 3rd Bass's albums. Hardcorps, with their blend of metal and rap, also helped get the show started. A good time was had by all and Boone got a needed change of pace.

Julie Parham

Photo by Keith Jackson

Pop goes the Weasel, the Weasel. Photo by Julie Parham

Drivin' -n- Cryin'

Clouds of smoke floating through the darkness, a sea of people rippling with excitement and anticipation, and waves of people suddenly flaring up and then crashing down. This was the scenario as the near-capacity crowd filled Legend's to see Drivin' n' Cryin' on November 21.

The stage was filled with equipment. Benches groaned under the weight of stacks of amplifiers. Guitars waited in the ranks for their predecessor's strings to give under the pressure of the musicians' driving hands. And last but not least, the drums stood bold and strong, as they waited for their encounter with the drummer who would beat them until they reached their ultimate potential.

As the equipment waited with fear and pride, Drivin' n' Cryin' stormed out on stage, causing an uproar in the ocean of people. The musicians intimidated their instruments and forced them to produce deafening effects. Close to the front, some peaks reached 122 decibels (The pain threshold is about 126 db). Blowing away the sea of people and clouds of smoke were over 30 raging, pumping woofers.

As the night went on, the storm dwindled and the tide went out. Drivin' n' Cryin' came, conquered, and left the town of Boone. The ocean of people, deaf and drunk, went their merry way. They will always remember the band that rocked the house down, Drivin' n' Cryin'.

Cindy Grimes

Drivin -n- Cryin at ASU Photo's by Keith Jackson

Many Appalachian State students cite skiing as one of the main reasons for attending the University. Every ASU student has the perfect opportunity to take advantage of the snow-covered slopes.

During the winter of 91 and 92, the beginner and the pro enjoyed evenings of skiing at reasonably cheap rates. Several slopes were open for each individual skier's taste: Appalachian, Ski Beech, Hound Ears, Mill Ridge, and Sugar Mountain.

Many ASU students live for skiing, a thrill in which one can risk life and legs. "Skiing is, in my opinion, absolutely the best sport known to humankind and the discounts available to ASU students make it easier for the average money-starved student to enjoy," said David Waechter, an ASU student and avid skier.

However, other students had different opinions. "Strap sticks on my feet and go down a mountain?" said senior Dan Masters. "Never."

Cindy Grimes

The pulsating waves pushed to the shore. The warm, powerful, erotic scent of salty air blew through sun-drenched hair. The exhilaration of the hot, moist, sticky sand pushed its way through grasping toes. The beach. Everyone was as frivolous and free as the sea gulls that frequented the serene beauty.

But Spring Break at the beach was another story. "The beach" was still the same, but the inhabitants had changed. ASU students flocked to the beaches of Florida, or anywhere there was sand, surf, and sun.

As soon as the spring semester started, ASU students started planning for Spring Break. The break gave ASU students an opportunity to relax, to be irresponsible, to meet new people, and to have memorable experiences, something they didn't have time for when classes were in, or did they?

Cindy Grimes

...DUCTED BY
...IT & ASSOCIATES, Inc.
...Keelings Road West
...reensboro, NC 27110
... (919) 299-1186
... 81064

WILL SIT WITH
2nd, 3rd, or part-time. Exp.
969-6369 or 377-9409

304 Child/Adult Care Needed

FREE RENT for neat reliable female who can provide 1-2 hrs evening assistance to 30 yr. old paralyzed female. 922-3369.

IN-HOME BABY CARE needed starting 4-92. Hours M-F, 7:30 - 9:00. Relts. required. 761-1841, even 922-3369.

LIVE IN SITTER for 2 small boys. Must be over 40, non-smoker, min. salary. Must have driver's license & relts. 650-9527 iv mgv.

LOOKING FOR CARING Person to watch my 3mo old, in your home or mine. Relts required. Knottwood Area. 659-7810

MATURE, CARING WOMAN 3 days/wk. 2 young children. Relts req. Country Club area. 765-9348

NEED A NON-SMOKER to care for a toddler. Must be flexible and have references. 993-8457

SECURITY BLANKET CHILD CARE

EXCELLENT package. Apply benefits package. 198 Park SALEM CARRIERS, 198 Park Plaza Dr. (off Patterson Ave.) Winston-Salem, NC

310 Technical

LAB TECHNICIAN Chemistry/biology degree preferred, full time. Call for appointment: 996-2841.

PROJECT MANAGER

STRUCTURAL STEEL Prefer proven steel industrial management experience. Will consider at least 5 years general construction project management with multi-ence. Must be able to perform in fast tract environment with multiple responsibilities. Must be strong individual with excellent people skills. Salary range $25,000-$40,000 depending on experience. Send resume to: Aiden Steel, C/O

Director of Surgical Services/Operating RM Supervisor Full time. Come grow with us as we start a new surgical program

CONTACT: DAVIE CO. HOSPITAL Human Resources Dept. 1-800-274-5504

HOME HEALTH RN's, CNA, PT Needed Immediately. 1 yr exp. Medical Personnel Pool 768-6977

LABSTAFFERS, INC.

219-316-0045 OR 1-800-726-LABS

LPN's

Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital, Inc., a 160 bed JCAHO facility has immediate openings for LPN's Monday through Friday, 4:00 p.m. until 12:00 midnight and Saturday through Sunday, 8:00 a.m. through 8:00 p.m. These positions are in our Medical/Surgical Unit and Long Term Care Facility. We offer competitive salary and benefits package. Please contact Jeff Seaward, Personnel Director, Hugh

300 EMPLOYMENT

- Accounting.....312
- Administrative.....314
- Child/Adult Care Needed...304
- Child/Adult Care Offered...303
- Clерical/Secretarial...311
- Computer Professionals...338
- Employment Services...325
- General Employment.....328
- Help Around the House Offered or Needed.....302
- Job Opportunities.....315
- Managerial.....318
- Medical.....328
- Part-Time Employment...316
- Professional.....322
- Restaurants.....320
- Retail Sales/Management.....319
- Sales/Sales Managers.....301
- Schools-Instructors.....305
- Situations Wanted.....317
- Teachers.....310
- Technical.....321
- Telemarketing.....324
- Trades-Skilled and Semi-Skilled.....306
- Trucking.....304
- Word Processing/Data Entry.....304

What to do after Graduation

760-1997 A MANAGER: COMPUTER DEPT

305 Situations Wanted

Have you gotten a job yet? This was a question that many seniors were asked. Finding a job was at the top of the list of worries for most seniors. The Career Development Center was a place to get help with your job search.

The Office of Career Planning and Placement offered many valuable services to seniors. One of the most useful services was on-campus interviews. As many as eighty companies a semester came to Appalachian to interview prospective employees. Graduating seniors were eligible to interview but had to complete an orientation workshop first. This service placed many seniors in jobs.

The Career Development Center also offered workshops for seniors, as well as for underclassmen. They offered a workshop that gave students helpful tips in writing their resumes. An interviewing workshop was also offered. This helped students to prepare for interviews, and gave them helpful hints on how to be marketable to a prospective employer. An to a Prospective Learning Workshop was offered for underclassmen.

The Career Development Center helped students decide where to start on their career path, and also helped them deal with some of the anxiety associated with going into the real world.

The weak economy made the job search a lot harder for the Career Development Center, but they were able to help many seniors find the jobs that were available. They also prepared many seniors for the world they were about to encounter by polishing their skills.

experience. General job duties for this position include: the research, configuration and installation of PCs and local area networks. Design and instruct classes on PC sign and instruct classes on software packages. Consult with users on PC needs and problem resolution. Design and program PC software as needed.

We offer an excellent and flexible benefits package as well as a competitive salary structure commensurate with experience. For prompt consideration, please send resume with salary history and requirements to: Employment Recruiter, INTEGON, PC Box 3199, Winston-Salem, NC 27152.

EOE

All applicants will be required to undergo a drug-screening as a part of the pre-employment process.

★ ★
MAKE SURE YOUR RESPONSES TO BLIND BOX ADS IN THE WINSTON-SALEM JOURNAL GET TO THE CORRECT ADVERTISER. ADDRESS YOUR CORRESPONDENCE TO:
Box J—
★ ★

BOX NUMBERS ARE USED TO PROTECT THE ANONYMITY OF THE ADVERTISER. THE IDENTITY OF BOXHOLDERS IS CONFIDENTIAL

301 Schools-Instruction

COMPUTER TRAINING • ELECTRONICS
• WORD PROCESSING AT

LOCAL CONST. CO. needs lead carpenter. Own truck & hand tools. Long term employment. All benefits. 1-yr. Temp. 761-6167 Exp & rels required.

MECHANICAL INCLINED WRIGHTS Must be able to weld & have basic reading exp. Blueprint reading 1-yr. Temp. 75

312 Accounting

KEEPING/CLERICAL: de- 5 yrs work

care facility. Must be certified about long term care regulations. Send resume to Box 27103, Winston-Salem Journal, EOE

MEDICAL SEC./RECP. For surgery office. Experience in prescription, Ints. & Computers. Good photo and good phone manner necessary. Resume to: 27103, Maplewood Ave. W-3, NC 27103

NURSE for busy Internal Medicine Office. Must be RN or LPN. Experience preferred. Salary negotiable. Reply to: Maplewood Internal Medicine, 27103, Maplewood Ave. W-3, NC 27103

2 positions available. 1 in finishing lab, 1 in maintenance and front office. Winston-Salem, NC. 27103

PHARMACY Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital is seeking a full-time Competitive salary. 1999 package. Please send resume to: Personnel Director, Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital, 1000 E. Ikin, Winston-Salem, NC 27103

PHYSICIANS A group practice. Needed for large group practice. 24 and 6

espi

Academics

.....

Chancellor Thomas and the Vice Chancellors

Chancellor John Thomas smiles for the camera.

Photo By: Ron Seils

Appalachian State University was in good hands under the leadership of Chancellor John Thomas and his four dedicated Vice Chancellors: Dr. Greg Blimling, Dr. Ward Zimmerman, Dr. Harvey Durham, and Dr. James Strom. They all clearly enjoyed their jobs, and agreed that the best part of that joy was working with ASU students. Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs, Dr. Ward Zimmerman, remarked that he enjoyed the "residential family feel" of the University.

The Chancellor and the Vice Chancellors set high goals for the future of ASU and its students. Dr. Greg Blimling, Vice Chancellor for Student Development, wanted to see all students get involved with some activity or organization at some point in their college career. Said Blimling, "Research shows that the more we involve students, the more likely they will graduate (from our school), the more they will get out of their education, the more they will contribute, and the better alumni they will make."

Chancellor Thomas had his own vision of continuing to internationalize the college curriculum. "We live in a very small global community," he said. Thomas wanted students to have a greater appreciation for other languages and cultures. With that in mind, Thomas attended the Centro-Linguistico Converso, a language school in Costa Rica near San Jose. For one month, Thomas was involved in an intensive study of the Spanish language. While there, he lived with a host family in the small village of Santana. This experience helped him get a better understanding not only of the language, but of the culture as well. While in Costa Rica, Thomas learned to respect a different culture's perspective. Thomas strongly encouraged students at ASU to get involved in the study abroad programs.

Janice Griffin

c o n v o c a t i o n

an ASU tradition

Appalachian State celebrated its 92nd birthday with Convocation 1991. Retired Lieutenant General Thomas Kelly was the visiting speaker. Kelly served as the Pentagon's spokesman during Operation Desert Storm. He was director of operations for the Joint-Staff and was responsible for all operations of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps. Kelly had received many awards and decorations, including the Army Distinguished Service Medal.

Lt. Gen. Kelly delighted the students and faculty with his speech entitled, "Pride: America is Back." Kelly told the crowd that, in his opinion, "War is evil. A just war is the lesser of two evils."

Kelly spoke about Operation Desert Storm. Kelly said, "Strong leadership, well-trained soldiers, and support from the American people made Operation Desert Storm a success."

In keeping with the theme of his speech, Kelly added, "Americans should feel good. We have shown the world that we are the best."

Not everyone agreed with ASU's choice of Lt. Gen. Kelly as the Convocation speaker. Some students and faculty felt that a speech on war was inappropriate for an academic gathering. Marketing professor Eva Hyatt said, "I don't see how another rehash of yet another act of violence contributes to the celebration of this university's history. The association that is made disheartens me as a member of the academic community."

Students and faculty disagreeing with the choice wore white arm bands, symbolizing peace. Literature was given out at convocation entrances, asking questions such as, "Is military conquest ever valid basis for pride?" and "Does our newly-found pride encourage us to ignore aspects of America which we should not be proud of (poverty, homelessness, unemployment etc.)?"

Other students and faculty that chose not to attend Convocation held a counter or alternative convocation on Sanford Mall to celebrate in a manner which they felt was more appropriate.

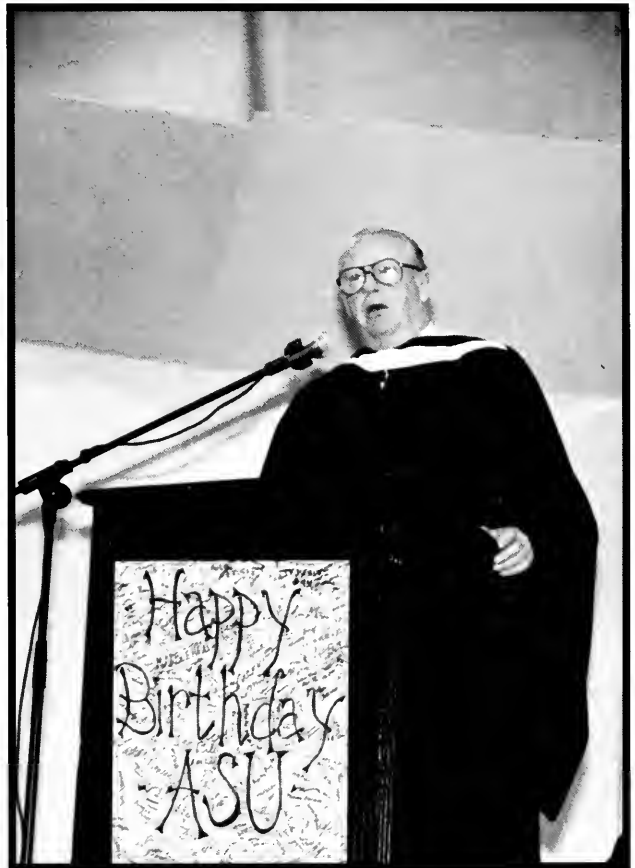

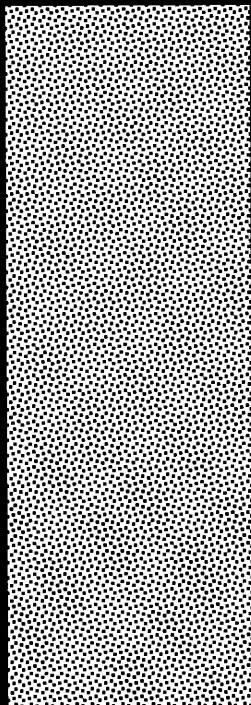

Photo By: Jenny McClellan

Julie Parham

Arts & Sciences

highlights

According to the English department chairman, Dr. Loyd Hilton, "Most of what the English faculty does is meet classes and grade papers—not all that spectacular, but absolutely essential."

Despite this image, the English faculty did find time to engage in more leisurely pursuits. On the day of the Big Apple Road race they livened the atmosphere in Boone by dressing up as the characters from Robin Hood. This cast, composed of Dr. McLaughlin, Dr. Arnold, Dr. McEntee, and Dr. Miller, brought many smiles and second glances.

After a long and excellent career, Dr. Hilton, Chairman for 23 years, retired after the Spring 1992 semester. He said that his stay at ASU "has been very rewarding." It will be hard for many students and faculty to remember the English department without thinking of Dr. Loyd Hilton.

Scott Plaster

Drs. McLaughlin, Miller, McEntee and Arnold dress up as the characters from Robin Hood

Photo By: Jenny McClellan
Dr. Hughes is willing to share his knowledge about the U.S.S.R..

Appalachian State had its own resident expert on the U.S.S.R. . Dr. Albert Hughes of the Sociology Department had visited this diverse country six times, twice in 1991.

In May of '91, Dr. Hughes spoke about American society to students at Kharkov University. Several of the things Dr. Hughes said shocked the Soviets. For instance, they were surprised that Dr. Hughes' wife ran a business. The students were also stunned at the high homeless and unemployment rates in our country, about the fact that some people lived in private homes instead of apartments, and that American society was so calm. The students had thought that Stallone and Schwarzenegger movies were characteristic of American life. The high cost of college in the U.S. surprised them the most. In contrast, college was free in the U.S.S.R. . Prospective students took an entrance exam, and accepted students were then given full scholarships and money for educational and living expenses.

Dr. Hughes talked about the common misconceptions that Americans had about Soviet society. Dr. Hughes also met with KU's Sociology Department to discuss the possibility of an exchange between the two universities. He spent an exciting week in the U.S.S.R., staying in the home of a Russian family.

On the second trip in late June through July, Dr. Hughes took a group of twenty-five high school students on a three week tour of the U.S.S.R. . The group went to six cities, including Moscow, St. Petersburg, Kiev, and a small town called Ivanova. The students visited with people in their homes, went to cultural sites such as the Russian Orthodox Cathedral, and various museums. "The program was meant to expose students to Russian culture," said Dr. Hughes.

When asked what the students learned, he replied, "We learned that they love Americans, are curious about our lifestyle, think we all drive sports cars, and have gold credit cards." The students on the trip found out that life in the U.S.S.R. was not very desirable. The conditions were crowded and food was extremely hard to come by. "They learned to appreciate the life in the U.S.," said Dr. Hughes.

However, Soviet life was not as bad as the students thought. The Soviets were health conscious, were involved with improving the environment, and were pressuring their city government to improve more services. The goal of the trip was reached. Both groups came away more knowledgeable about the other.

Amy Lyndon

Business in the Soviet Union

International Relations Association

If you found it difficult to make it to United Nations' meetings, the International Relations Association was the place for you.

Sponsored by the Political Science Department, the IRA was "an organization dedicated to increasing the understanding and appreciation of foreign and international affairs." In order to do that, the IRA sponsored mini-model U.N. meetings. These conferences were held at high schools each semester. The IRA also sent students to other model U.N. conferences at other college campuses. The subjects under discussion were similar to the ones the real U.N. was discussing at the time of the conference. The Security Council was represented as well as all four General Assembly committees: Legal, Political and Security, Social and Humanitarian, and Economic and Financial. The subjects under discussion were the admission of the Baltic States into the U.N., peace in the Middle East, chemical weapons, the World Debt, Persian Gulf reparations, and refugees in Europe, Africa, and Asia.

To prepare to discuss these topics, the "delegates" wrote to the missions of the countries they were representing and asked for recent policy statements concerning their topics. Delegates also checked into their countries' background. For example, they had to know special developments that would influence that country's view of the subject.

The IRA attended a model U.N. Conference at Yale University on October 4-6 and one in Atlanta on November 7-9. The IRA sponsored the Tenth Model Security Council for college students for the North Carolina Political Science Association. The group also sponsored a conference at ASU October 18-20 and one for high schools October 23-24.

Anyone could have been a part of the IRA as long as they had a commitment to do their job. Students did not have to be political science majors or even very knowledgeable about world events to join. The IRA counted as one hour of independent study credit per semester. These students also gained a valuable experience.

Amy Lyndon

Photo By: Ron Seils

Dr. Connolly retired this year after a long and productive career.

Dr. Connolly

An Appalachian State Physics professor, Dr. Walter C. Connolly, retired at the end of the Spring 1992 semester. Well? Professors retire all the time, right? Even department chairpersons step down occasionally.

But what made this loss so unique and important was that Dr. Connolly was not only a Physics professor, but the founder of ASU's Physics department.

Before coming to ASU, Dr. Connolly had already compiled a long list of accomplishments. He had taught at the U.S. Naval Academy and Auburn University. He also worked as a research scientist and developer. In 1955, he worked on the prototype for an atomic reactor for aircraft carriers.

After this already-illustrious and interesting career, Dr. Connolly came to Boone in 1963 and founded ASU's Physics department. During the early years, he was not only the chairman of the department, but the secretary and the janitor as well. As he described it, "It was a real pain in the butt in those days." Dr. Connolly remained the chairman until 1974, when he stepped down to give others a chance at administration. He decided he would rather spend his time teaching.

Dr. Connolly excited his students nearly every day by doing demonstrations. The mere names of his "tricks" spark interest and curiosity: "Shoot the Monkey," "Burning Peanut," "Imploding Can," "The Cheshire Cat," and "Fiber Optic Laser Tree." In one of his demonstrations, he fried a hotdog weenie with 120 volts of electricity. Once during this demonstration, a man in the back of the audience said, "But sir, that's dangerous!" Dr. Connolly replied, "Sure it is, but so is crossing the street."

The reason Dr. Connolly did so many demonstrations lay in his philosophy of physics. He said, "I think physics is exciting. We live with it. It's around us all the time." By demonstrating physics principles as they occur in everyday life, Dr. Connolly brought excitement and understanding of physics to many of his students. With his warm wit and gentle nature he charmed their hearts.

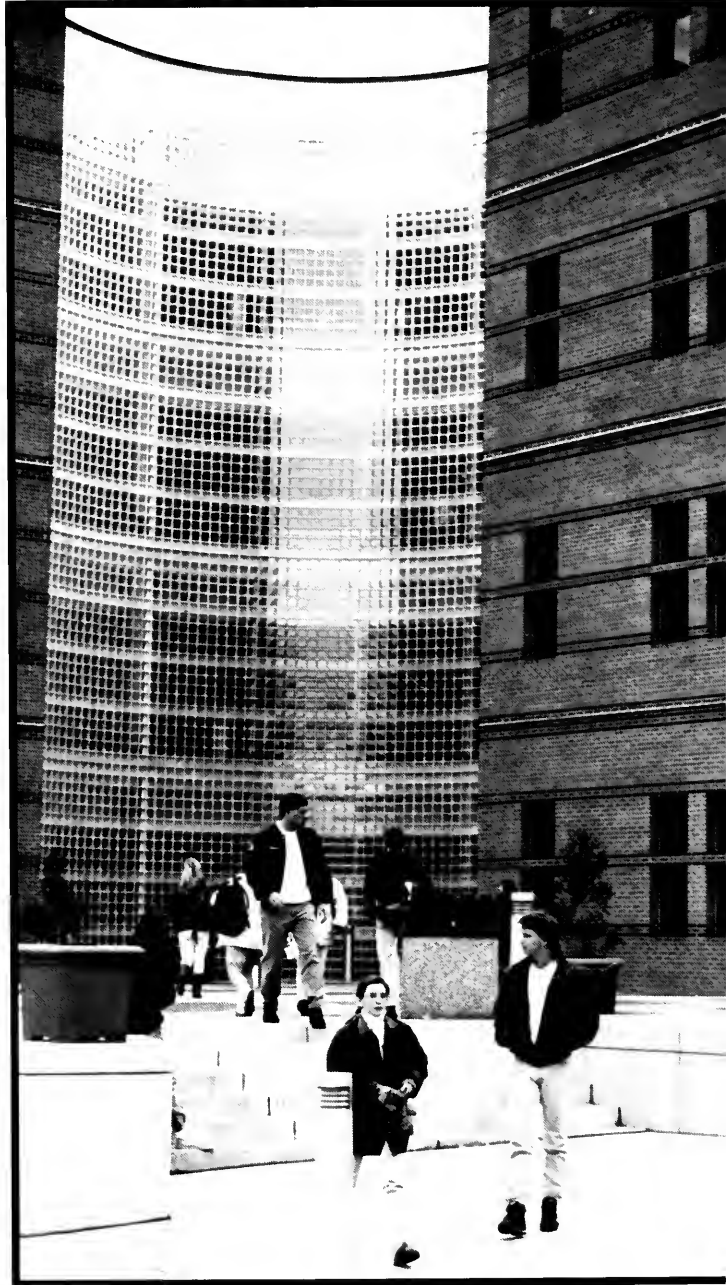

Dr. Connolly turned 70 in May of 1992, reaching mandatory retirement age. When asked whether he would have continued to teach if he had the choice, he said, "I don't know. I can't say. I like to teach. I may miss it a tremendous amount." It was certain that his former students would miss him also.

Scott Plaster

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Rush hour is every hour at the C.O.B.

In the summer of 1991, the College of Business sponsored a study abroad program to beat them all. Imagine spending four weeks in Sweden, learning about the culture and the international business practices of the countries surrounding it. This program responded to the "globalization of the world economy", according to one of the trip's leaders, Dr. Timothy Forsyth. The main benefit of the study abroad program, said Dr. Forsyth, was that "it opens the student's eyes to different cultures and business practices." Being in a foreign country also gives confidence to travel and interface with people." Dr. Forsyth said this was the major impact upon the students who chose to participate in the program.

While in Sweden, the twenty students in the program took one or two of the courses offered: International Marketing and International Accounting. The courses were held just as if the student were at ASU, with classes held at Gothenburg University during the week and their weekends free to explore the city of Gothenburg, Sweden. Guest lecturers were brought in to discuss such topics as the Swedish economy and the European Economic Community. The students also took field trips to such various Swedish businesses as Volvo, Hasselblad cameras and SKF Ball Bearings.

Toward the end of the trip, after the classes were completed, the students went on a sightseeing tour of Copenhagen, Denmark and Oslo, Norway for six days. After the tour was over, the students were free to do as they pleased, seeing the sights they wished to see on their own time.

The last four days of the trip were spent in Stockholm, Sweden, called "The Venice of the North" because the city was built on various islands, like Venice. From Stockholm, the group went north to a city called Uppsalla where the oldest university in Sweden is located. The students were simply told to enjoy the day.

The price tag for this adventure was $2,300. Seeing this figure, most people would have gasped in horror. However, "by the time you figure out what you get, it isn't that expensive," Dr. Forsyth revealed. What you got was round-trip air fare from Charlotte, housing in apartments in Sweden, public transportation fees, and all fees for the sightseeing trips and tuition in Sweden. The only additional expense the students had was for food, which was not that much more expensive than in the states.

If you counted all the extra benefits, such as a greater knowledge of international business practices, lifelong friendships, the personal growth, the intellectual enrichment, a more extensive food palate, and possibly a smattering of Swedish, the rewards cannot be measured.

The classes taught in the program could obviously have been taught at ASU, yet the benefits would not have been nearly as great. All the learning did not come from a classroom. In fact, according to Dr. Forsyth, "Most of their learning took place outside of the classroom. Living in Sweden and interacting with the people and the culture gave the students more knowledge than would fit in just one course."

Amy Lyndon

As the world changes, business often becomes more international and less regional. People seeking employment in business must be able to cope with the changing political and economic environment of the world. Because of the world's ever-changing climate, the College of Business offered increasingly more study abroad trips aimed at giving students an international perspective. Students visited and studied in foreign countries for a few weeks or as long as an academic year. Through the College of Business, students experienced England, France, Sweden, and other countries. These programs were aimed at making students more aware of the international economic system and more competitive in the job market.

The CEO Lecture series was offered to prepare students for the future. Prominent business leaders visited the College of Business to share their wealth of knowledge and experience. Through these lectures, students could gain inside knowledge on such topics as the business climate and what employers stress in interviews. One lecture each semester focused on topical issues.

The lecture series was named for state treasurer Harlan E. Boyles. Boyles was a forty-year state employee and treasurer since 1976. Chancellor John Thomas said, "Boyles exhibited loyal and unselfish leadership as state treasurer."

The Distinguished CEO lecture series brought John A. Allison IV, chairman and chief executive officer of BB&T financial corporation. Allison joined BB&T in 1971 as a financial analysis manager. He served as a loan officer, regional loan administrator, banking group manager, president, and vice chairman before being named chairman in 1989.

Instructors provide students with practical knowledge.

Allison served as an example of someone who worked their way to the top. He provided proof to business majors that hard work pays off.

The College of Business was more than a school. It excelled at preparing its students to be top in their fields. The College of Business utilized vast resources to make students' job hunting a little easier.

Jon Lancaster
Julie Parham

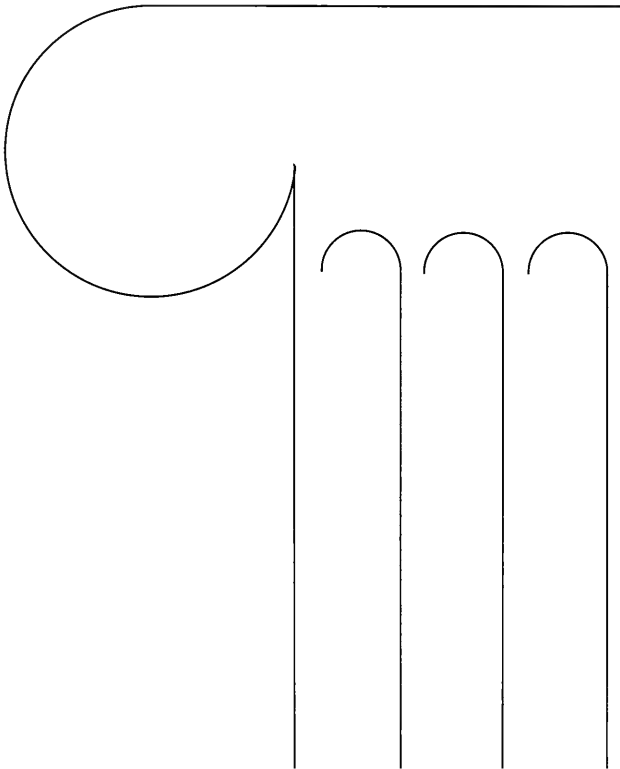

Practice, practice, practice.

business as usual.

Photos By: Ron Seils

The Department of Decision Sciences planned to offer a new major. The Production/Operations Management curriculum was offered as a concentration. The department had great success with job placement, so they decided to make the concentration a major. All the plans were set, but the budget freeze put the project on hold. They hoped to get the new major in place when the freeze ended.

The Production/Operations Management program qualified students to pursue careers in line management, quality control, and production planning.

The Department of Decision Science started an American Production and Inventory Control Society chapter at Appalachian. Response to the new chapter was overwhelming. The chapter gave students the opportunity to meet professionals in their areas of interest.

Julie Parham

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Some strange animals were running through Edwin Duncan Hall the past few years. A special group of students served as guinea pigs for two new courses tested by the Reich College of Education. The Appalachian State Teaching Fellows were the first to take "Insights Into Leadership for Teachers" and "Seminar on the At-Risk Child."

"Insights Into Leadership" was a special course required of and limited to each incoming class of freshman Teaching Fellows. Students in the course explored their individual personality traits and leadership styles and learned how to best integrate them with their classroom teaching methods. The course offered the opportunity to develop and strengthen leadership traits necessary for effective teaching. Teaching Fellows Coordinator Dr. Ken Jenkins said that the course gave students "a chance not only to look at leadership, but to see how it relates to teaching." Plans were made to offer the course to all Education majors.

The Teaching Fellows also became guinea pigs for another experimental course, "Seminar on the At-Risk Child." This revolutionary new course offered the only intensive study of at-risk students available at ASU, and one of the first and few courses of its kind in the state. Because of changing societal trends, the number of at-risk students in our schools was increasing at a dangerous rate. Therefore, it became increasingly important for teachers to be able to deal with the special needs of these students. According to Dr. Jenkins, students who have had the class "have a better knowledge of how to educate all children, rather than just some." Because of the course's importance, plans were made to make it available to other education majors also.

A group of troopers at Appalachian State continued to fight for a very noble cause. Known as the ASU Literacy Corps, these students did not battle with guns or missiles against foreign countries. They battled for the cause of literacy, enriching the lives of unfortunate allies in our community. Their weapons were patience, insight, courage, and hard work.

The Adult Literacy Training Course, LRE 3540, was made possible by a federal grant designed to address our nation's increasing illiteracy rate. Although most of the nation's adult reading instructors were compassionate and dedicated individuals, a startling low percentage had adequate training in the field. This program was designed to provide the training necessary for truly effective reading instruction.

First, the students who took the course were involved in an intensive study and practice of reading evaluation and teaching strategies. The course's instructors were Dr. Gerald Parker, Dr. Winston Childress, and Dr. Mike Marlowe. Then, through the course of the semester, each student compiled a total of 90 hours or more of actual practice tutoring adult learners. Their tutoring was done mainly at the Watauga Division of the Caldwell Community College.

This program was a positive step forward in addressing one of our nation's key concerns. Through practice and dedication, these troopers were aptly armed to enter the fight for literacy.

Scott Plaster

Dr. Ken Jenkins

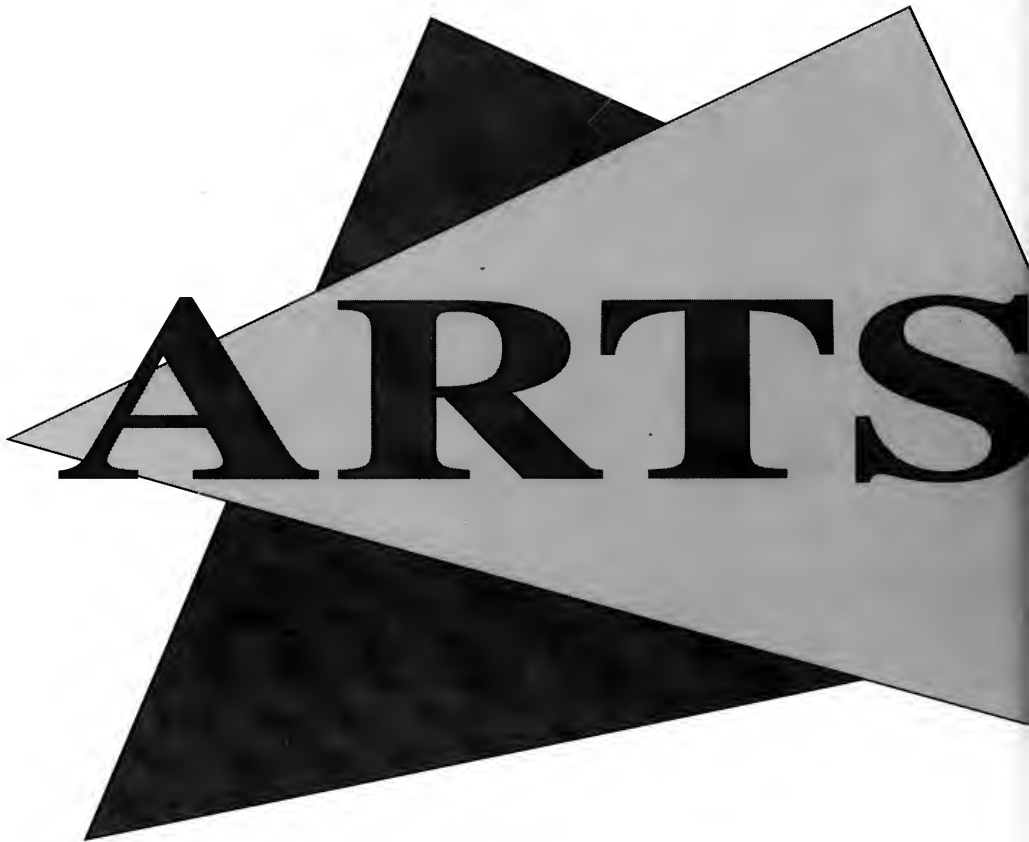

Photo By: Darrell McLaughlin

Photo By: Darrell McLaughlin

COLLEGE OF FINE AND APPLIED

Students and faculty in the College of Fine and Applied Arts were very busy during the '91-'92 school year. Each department sponsored a variety of programs, shows, and special events. The College of Fine and Applied Arts brought students, faculty, and the community of Boone together for a productive, memorable year.

Department of Technology

Tom Davidson searches for the right files.

Photo by: Hak Ung

The Department of Technology made many additions to improve quality of learning. AT&T offered to donate some equipment. The department also acquired a top-of-the-line computer, the Macintosh Quadra 900. A Voxel Network was installed for the graphics lab. And, some students received scholarships from the Printing Industry of the Carolinas Association (PICA).

Art Department

The Art Department offered several opportunities for the University to share its creativity with the community. The Faculty Art Show in the Katherine Smith Gallery was open to all students and residents of Boone. The Gallery also had students and faculty exhibits year-round for those who missed this special art show. In April, the Art Expo began, which consisted of student works and an awards presentation.

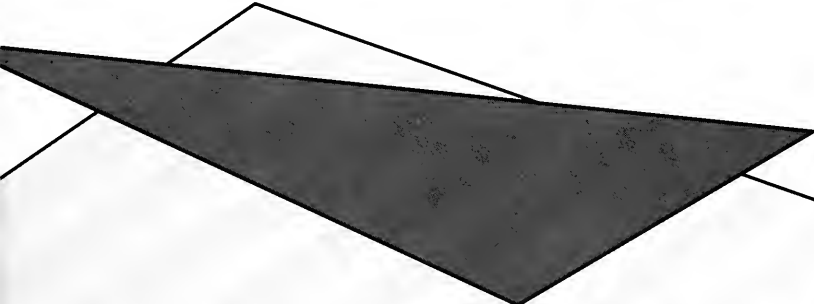

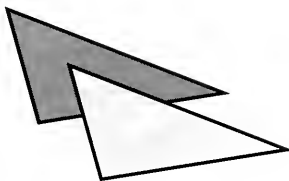

Critiques are a part of everyday life in Wey Hall.

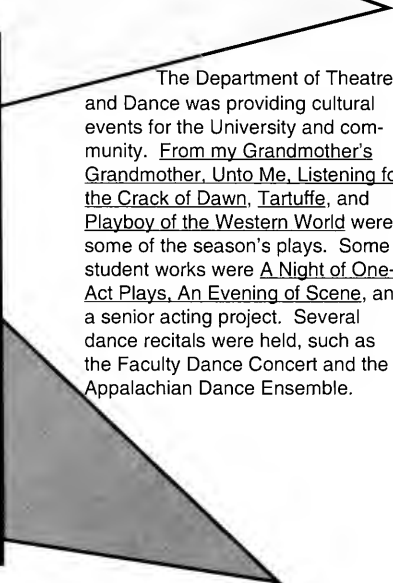

Photos by: Keith Jackson

Department of Home Economics

The Department of Home Economics kept students busy with creative programs. Design Day was a program that gave the Student Chapter of Interior Designers a chance to learn from professionals. Many off-campus speakers showed up to discuss interior design. One of the speakers was the famous furniture designer, Milo Baughman. Clothing and Textile students took a trip to New York to study fashion apparel and home furnishings. Also, Caroline Murdock, a senior in the Housing and Interiors program, won a $200 interior design scholarship.

Department of Theatre and Dance

The Department of Theatre and Dance was providing cultural events for the University and community. From my Grandmother's Grandmother, Unto Me, Listening for the Crack of Dawn, Tartuffe, and Playboy of the Western World were some of the season's plays. Some student works were A Night of One-Act Plays, An Evening of Scene, and a senior acting project. Several dance recitals were held, such as the Faculty Dance Concert and the Appalachian Dance Ensemble.

Listening for the Crack of Dawn Tim Barker, Maria Smith, and Chet Longley

Also, the chairperson of the Department of Theatre and Dance, Dr. Susan Cole, was named president of NCTC for 1992. The North Carolina Theatre Conference represents theatre educators across the state. Cole had also served terms as the organization's vice president and treasurer.

Cindy Grimes.

School of Music

A music professor leads the class with the recorder.

Composing a certain unity, students and professors used their special talents in the studies of teaching, business, creation, and appreciation of music. Interaction was promoted through Dean Arthur E. Unsworth's office, where each student was assigned a faculty advisor with whom regular appointments were encouraged to be held.

The School of Music led the students to state certification in Instrumental Music Education or General Music Education. Performance programs, such as solos and ensembles, offered opportunities to enhance learning. Functions were also offered for the non-musician.

Students learned to be skilled musicians, who would be able to operate as professionals in the future. Music Business graduates were prepared to step into the music-related world, while those majoring in Music Education became certified to teach music to all age groups.

The School of Music fulfilled its responsibility to provide the best education it could for each of its students, and even sent those who completed their requirements into the world with a graduation check. Students were not only educated in their classes, but also by interacting with each other and their teachers in an atmosphere provided by the halls of the School of Music.

Zoe Johnston

ASU music majors clap to the beat.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Photos By: Bryan Garrett

"Many of us had to take a salary cut. We went from earning $25,000 a year to receiving $5,000 from an assistantship," joked Bob Hadley, one of Appalachian State's 959 graduate students. What was the typical life of a grad student? Bob Hadley shared his experiences.

His week easily consisted of 60 hours of classes and studying, and 20 hours working. A typical assignment for one class was reading a book and the suggested readings. Multiply this work by about 9 semester hours, and graduate students read about 2,000 pages a week! According to Bob Hadley, graduate students quickly learned a special reading style called "gutting," which is reading for main points and judgments. A graduate student could "gut two or three books a night."

In a typical class, the professor expected the students to carry on an intellectual conversation about the readings. No longer did a professor lecture. Analytical ability was a must. Graduate students had to learn on their own rather than being spoon-fed by a professor. Graduate students were graded on what they had to offer the class and their synthesis of the material.

Tests were rare. Sometimes only one exam was given at the end of the four semesters. Graduate students decided when they wanted to take their exam, which consisted of an oral and written section. The oral section was the most stressful because the student was questioned by three professors for three hours! Students also completed a 100-page master's thesis, which was turned in upon graduation. The writing, and rewriting, and rewriting of this thesis took about a year.

Getting into graduate school was an honor in itself. Graduate students were the epitome of intelligence, curiosity, and motivation. They were required to have analytical ability, dedication, and be prepared for a new challenge every day. After all of their work was done, grad students could sit back and bask in the glory, honor, and pride of a job well done.

Cindy Grimes

Grad students Michael Malinovsky and Stephan Mauney are finding Graduate School rewarding.

WHO'S WHO FOR 1991-92

Name: Nicholas Shawn Asa
 GPA: 3.86
 Hometown: Valle Crucis
 Major: Computer Science and Mathematics Education
 Minor: Physics
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Teaching Fellows Scholarship Program, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Chi, RSA, ASU Theatre, Blue Ridge Community Theatre, Pi Mu Epsilon.

Name: Todd Andrew Akins
 GPA: 3.06
 Hometown: Lenoir
 Major: Marketing
 Minor: Communications
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 American Marketing Association, Wesley Foundation, International Business Student Association, Inter-Business Council.

Name: Judith Michelle Austin
 GPA: 3.45
 Hometown: Cary
 Majors: History/Secondary Education
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Teaching Fellows Scholarship Program, Teaching Fellows Executive Council Secretary, Phi Alpha Theta Vice-President, President, History Club Secretary, BSU, Gamma Beta Phi, Kappa Delta Pi.

Name: Kathryn Elaine Berth
 GPA: 3.48
 Hometown: Winston-Salem
 Majors: Marketing and Management
 Minor: Sociology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, Pi Sigma Mu, Order of Omega, American Marketing Association, SGA, Alpha Delta Pi President, Senior Committee, Appol Corps Leader, Intramurals.

Name: Leah J. Bost
 GPA: 3.62
 Hometown: Lenoir
 Major: Psychology
 Minor: English
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, Psi Chi Secretary, Alpha Chi, Psychology Honors Program, ASU Wind Ensemble.

Name: Lisa Bullock
 GPA: 2.8
 Hometown: Raleigh
 Major: Communications-Public Relations
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 APPS Stage Shows Chairperson, APPS Executive Cabinet, APPS Concerts.

Name: Sandra Mayes Burchette
 GPA: 3.16
 Hometown: Elkin
 Major: Elementary Education
 Minor: English
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Kappa Delta Pi.

Name: Everett Landor Dorsett
 GPA: 3.1
 Hometown: Lexington
 Major: Production/Operations Management
 Minor: Technology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 National Residence Hall Honorary President, American Production and Inventory Control Society, Data Processing Management Association, CRSA, Phi Eta Sigma, Resident Assistant, The Society of Childlike Grownups, O.A.F.

Name: Nader Elguindi
 GPA: 3.60
 Hometown: Charlotte
 Major: Chemistry
 Honors: Physics and Math
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Phi Eta Sigma, Delta Chi Treasurer, Order of Omega, Interfraternity Council Treasurer, Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol Vice-President, Alpha Omega, SGA, Appol Corps Leader, Chemistry Club.

Name: Brett Dixon Ellis
 GPA: 2.52
 Hometown: Matthews
 Major: Communications
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 SGA, BSU Choir, Resident Assistant, RSA, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, The Appalachian.

Name: Cathy J. Ferguson GPA: 3.57
 Hometown: Gastonia
 Major: Psychology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 The Rhododendron, ACT, Active Students in the Community, Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol, RSA, Gamma Beta Phi, Psi Chi, Alpha Chi, Order of Omega, Delta Zeta, Panhellenic Council, Psychology Honors Program, Undergraduate Research Assistants, Counseling and Psychological Services Advisory Committee, Alpha Omega.

Name: Melissa Fitz-Simons
 GPA: 3.7
 Hometown: Raleigh
 Major: Hospitality Management
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Sigma Kappa Vice President, Panhellenic Council, Hospitality Management Student Association, WASU reporter, University Singers, Appol Corps Leader, Gamma Beta Phi, Beta Gamma Sigma, Order of Omega, Intramural volleyball and bowling.

Name: Tania Lynn Free
 GPA: 3.65
 Hometown: Matthews
 Major: Health Promotion
 Minor: Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Indoor and Outdoor Varsity Track, Varsity Cross Country, FCA, Health Promotions Club, Alpha Chi, Southern Conference Academic Honor Roll, Academic Athletic Honor Roll.

Name: Daryl Edward Ghent
 GPA: 2.93
 Hometown: Marion
 Major: Political Science
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 SGA Sergeant of Arms; Director of State Affairs; Vice-President; President, Delta Chi, Order of Omega, ASU Board of Trustees, Ex-Officio Member of Boone Town Council, RSA, Interfraternity Council, Rho Sigma, University of North Carolina Association of Student Government Delegate.

Name: Sara Anne Hadley GPA: 3.3
 Hometown: Raleigh
 Major: Marketing
 Minor: German, International Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi Recording Secretary; State President, Water Ski Club co-founder, Vice-President, Water Ski Team, Epsilon Chi Omicron President, Phi Eta Sigma, Forensics Team, German Club, American Marketing Association, International Business Student Association Secretary, Study Abroad Program to Germany, University Honors Program, Western Carolina Leadership Conference Volunteer, Leadership Team, New Officers Retreat.

Name: Andrea Long Hanner
 GPA: 3.1
 Hometown: Greensboro
 Major: Psychology
 Minor: Child Development
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Alpha Delta Pi, Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol, Alpha Omega, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, North Carolina Association on Children Under Six.

Name: Bryon Keith Hartzog
 GPA: 3.74
 Hometown: West Jefferson
 Major: Computer Science
 Minor: Mathematics and Military Science
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Alpha Chi, Battalion Commander of the Mountaineer Battalion, National Society of Mountaineer Rifles Club President, ROTC Stud Club.

Name: John Edward Hogg
 GPA: 3.1
 Hometown: Morgantown
 Majors: Finance, Insurance and Real Estate
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Finance Club President, Gamma Iota Sigma, Rho Epsilon, LAP Tutor, Inter-Business Council.

Name: Lara Darlene Jenkins
 GPA: 3.67
 Hometown: Fayetteville
 Major: Early Childhood Education
 Minor: Psychology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, Alpha Chi, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Omicron Nu.

Name: Amy Renee Johnson
 GPA: 3.58
 Hometown: High Point
 Major: Marketing
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Rhododendron Marketing Director, Phi Eta Sigma, Gamma Beta Phi, Alpha Chi, Beta Gamma Sigma, American Marketing Association, Marching Band.

Name: Robert Kasserman
 GPA: 3.1
 Hometown: Reidsville
 Major: Information Systems
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Phi Beta Lambda, APICS, Marching Band, Symphonic Band, Tuba Choir, Intramural softball, flag-football, volleyball.

Name: Kristen M. Kostelnik
 GPA: 2.89
 Hometown: Hickory
 Major: Political Science
 Minor: Communication
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Watauga College, Sigma Kappa, Order of Omega, Appalachian Dance Ensemble, Rho Lambda Panhellenic Recognition Society, Panhellenic Council, SGA, College Republicans, Political Science Club, RSA.

Name: Roy C. Lightfoot
 GPA: 3.0
 Hometown: Lincolnton
 Major: History
 Minor: Sociology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Resident Assistant, RSA, Student Yosef Club President, History Club, French Club, The Society of Childlike Grown-ups, The Geritol Gang, O.A.F.

Name: Julie Carol Mabe
 GPA: 3.56
 Hometown: Greensboro
 Majors: Finance and Insurance
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Iota Sigma President, Finance Club, Gamma Beta Phi, Phi Eta Sigma, Beta Gamma Sigma, Alpha Chi, Pi Gamma Mu, College of Business Honors Program.

Name: Elisa Dawn Mackie
 GPA: 2.7
 Hometown: Granite Falls
 Major: Healthcare Management
 Minor: Health Education
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 American College of Healthcare Executives Vice-President, Inter-Business Council, Sigma Kappa, Appolrps Coordinator, ADAPT, RSA.

Name: Ellen Elisabeth Meachum
 GPA: 2.98
 Hometown: Lexington
 Majors: Finance/Risk and Insurance
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 APPS Membership Coordinator, APPS Stage Shows, APPS Special Events, Senior Committee, Finance Club, RSA.

Name: Lynn E. "Kanoot" Midkiff III
 Hometown: Gastonia GPA: 3.87
 Major: Management Minor: Music
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 BSU, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Russian Club, Beta Gamma Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Chi, Phi Eta Sigma, Gamma Beta Phi Treasurer, Honors Business Program, Graduation Marshal, Resident Assistant, Orientation Leader, Opera Theatre, Chamber Singers, University Singers, Appalachian Chorale, Glee Club, Resort Area Ministries Supervisor, Special Olympics Volunteer, Hospitality House, Sleeping Shelter Volunteer, Registration Computer Operator, Food Services.

Name: Reginald Edward Murphy
 Hometown: Charlotte GPA: 3.27
 Major: History Minor: Comm.
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 SGA Vice-Pres., Stud. Judiciary Pub. Defender, Asst. Chief Justice, Univ. Board of Judicial Review, Stud. Leadership Cabinet, WASU News Reporter, Announcer & Prog. Dir., Univ. Convocation Comm., Univ. Comm. for Financial Aid Dir., Selection Comm. for Legal Services Intern, Phi Eta Sigma Treas., Alpha Chi, Phi Alpha Theta, Pi Gamma Mu, Stud. Pub. Council, LAP Tutor, BSA Peer Mentor, Stud. Prog. Nightclub D. J., ASU Honors Prog.

Name: Deanna Lynn Murray
 GPA: 3.15
 Hometown: Asheville
 Major: English
 Minor: Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Pododendron Sports Editor, Academic Editor, Editor-in-Chief, Equinox Campus Magazine Editor-in-Chief, Student Leadership Cabinet, Russian Club, Pi Gamma Mu, College Demos, Ski Club, Intramural basketball.

Name: Marnie Loraine Nicholson
 GPA: 3.02
 Hometown: Winston-Salem
 Major: Elementary Education
 Minor: Mathematics
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Watauga Freshman Program, RSA, Resident Assistant, Resident Director, Freshman Orientation Leader, Senior Committee Secretary, ACT, National Residence Hall Honorary, North Carolina Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Name: Christina Louise Nowak
 GPA: 3.80
 Hometown: High Point
 Major: Accounting
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 ASU Marching Band, Phi Beta Lambda, Beta Gamma Sigma, Beta Alpha Psi.

Name: Shelley J. Oberle
 GPA: 3.18
 Hometown: Clemmons
 Major: Business Management
 Minor: Communications
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Women's Club Soccer Team President, Club Sports Council Chairperson, Club Sports Coordinator, Resident Assistant, RSA, Society for Human Resource Management, Intramural Soccer, flag football, racquetball, horseshoes.

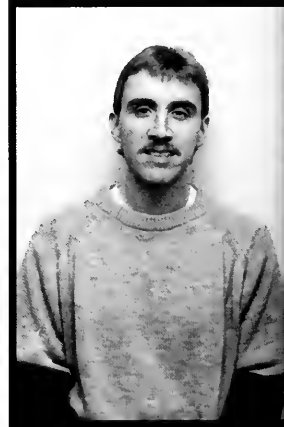

Name: Deborah Ann Osterhoud
 GPA: 3.6
 Hometown: Fairfax, VA
 Major: Political Science
 Minor: English
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Student Judicial Board Freshman Justice; Sophomore Justice; Associate Chief Justice; Chairperson, SGA, Academic Integrity Board, Student Leadership Cabinet, Code of Student Conduct Review Committee, Drug-Free University Policy Review Committee, Alpha Chi, Pi Sigma Alpha, Pi Gamma Mu, Gamma Beta Phi.

Name: Beth Rissmiller
 GPA: 3.0
 Hometown: Greensboro
 Major: Management
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Resident Assistant, RSA, CRSA, North Carolina Association of Residence Halls, Administrative Assistant for South Atlantic Affiliate of College and University Residence Halls, National Association of College and University Residence Halls Delegate, National Communications Coordinator, Society for Human Resource Management.

Name: David Alan Rosenfeld
 GPA: 2.76
 Hometown: Charlotte
 Major: Advertising
 Minor: Marketing
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Resident Assistant, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Hillel Club, SGA, RSA, Intramurals, Fencing Club.

Name: Robynn Renee Rutledge
 Hometown: Rural Hall
 Major: Economics
 Minor: German, International Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Phi Mu Assistant Treasurer; Treasurer, SGA Freshman Associate Justice, Assistant Attorney General, Deputy Public Defender, Gamma Beta Phi, Panhellenic Council Recording Secretary, Order of Omega, German Club, Economics Club.

Name: Stephen Alan Schmotzer Jr.
 GPA: 2.7
 Hometown: Raleigh
 Major: Marketing
 Minor: International Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Founding father of the Iota Pi Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega, SGA Off Campus/Community Affairs Committee Chairperson, Community Relations Board Chairperson, ASU Athletic Council, ASU Budget Council, Spirit Committee, Freshman Orientation Leader, Mountaineer Talent Search.

Name: Steve Simandle
 GPA: 3.27
 Hometown: Zionville
 Major: Applied Math
 Minor: Biology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Cross-Country Team (All Conference), Track Team (All Conference).

Name: John Sobon
 GPA: 3.2
 Hometown: Coral Springs, FL
 Major: English
 Minor: Business
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, CRSA, RSA, ACT-LINK Program.

Name: Charles L. St. Clair Jr.
 GPA: 3.49
 Hometown: Taylorsville
 Major: Graphic Design
 Minor: Industrial Technology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 AIGA Vice-President, Gamma Beta Phi, Epsilon Pi Tau, SGA, Rhododendron Graphic's Assistant, ASU Intramurals.

Name: Robert F. Steed III
 GPA: 2.76
 Hometown: Cary
 Major: Communications, concentration
 Printing Production Management
 Minor: Military Science
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Beta Kappa Student Society Vice-President, Army R.O.T.C., Commandant, Ranger Challenge, Varsity Football, RSA.

Name: Deena Suits
 GPA: 3.15
 Hometown: Grove City, OH
 Major: Criminal Justice
 Minor: Sociology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 CRSA, National Residence Hall Honorary, Resident Assistant, Phi Gamma Mu.

Name: Kerry Lynn Wagoner
 GPA: 3.80
 Hometown: McGrady
 Major: Special Education
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, Kappa Delta Pi, Reading Tutor, Sunday School Teacher, Church Pianist, Summer Program for Exceptional Children Teacher's Assistant.

Name: Daniel Christopher Walsh
 GPA: 3.76
 Hometown: Greenville
 Major: Communications/Broadcasting
 Minor: Spanish
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 WASU Sports Information and D.J., SGA, Student Affairs Committee.

Name: Laurie Anne Warnock
 GPA: 3.07
 Hometown: Spartanburg, SC
 Major: Public Relations
 Minor: English
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Public Relations Student Society of America charter member; Publicity Officer; Vice-President, The Appalachian, ASU News Bureau Intern Staff Member, Alpha Phi.

Name: Sondra Marie Watts
 GPA: 3.54
 Hometown: Winston-Salem
 Majors: Health Care Management and Economics
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Alpha Chi, Gamma Beta Phi, Phi Beta Lambda, Beta Gamma Sigma, American College of Healthcare Executives.

Name: Ana Maria Williams
 GPA: 3.72
 Hometown: Clemmons
 Major: Elementary Education
 Minor: Psychology
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 Gamma Beta Phi, APPS Special Events Chairperson, APPS Executive Council, Alpha Chi, Kappa Delta Pi, Senior Committee, Student Yosef Club Secretary, Intersarsity, RSA, Catholic Campus Ministry, N.C. Teaching Fellows Program, Appol Corp Leader, ACT-LINK Program.

Name: Tabitha Shannon Woody
 Hometown: Asheville GPA: 3.86
 Major: Social Work Minor: Religion
What organizations have you been involved in at Appalachian?
 ASU Marching Band Drum Major, ASU Symphonic Band, ASU Treble Choir, Kappa Kappa Psi, Univ. Stud. Court Asst. Chief Justice, Alpha Chi Pres., Phi Kappa Phi, Hospitality House Volunteer, Wamy Generation Exchange Volunteer, Boone Crisis Pregnancy Center Volunteer, Instr. Asst., Watauga Christian Center Member, Campus Connection, Intersarsity Christian Fellowship, ASU Music Library Employee.

Ann Absher
North Wilkesboro

Jeff Adams
Greensboro

Jon Adkins
Sparta

Todd Akins
Lenoir

John Albergotti
Charlotte

Kristen Albrecht
Charlotte

Gloria Alford
Winston-Salem

Christopher Allen
Mocksville

Julie Anderson
Arden

Lynn Anderson
Vilas

Andrea Andrews
Stokesdale

Gregg Andrews
Conover

Robert Arney
Hudson

Russell Ashburn
North Wilkesboro

Alan Ashe
Waynesville

Charles Ashe
Sylva

Judith Austin
Cary

Laura Babineau
Aiken, SC

Angela Bailey
Hickory

Jennnifer Bakalli
Belmont

Tracy Baker
Boone

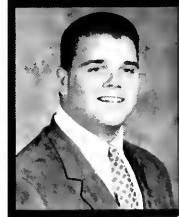

Mary Beth Baldwin
Charlotte

Kathy Ball
Edneyville

Kristie Ball Smithfield

Tommy Ball
High Point

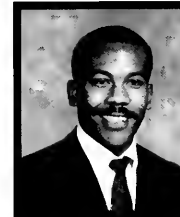

Sharon Ballen
Greensboro

Betty Ballew
Nebo

Terri Barber
Boone

William Barge
Charlotte

Ann Barker
Elkin

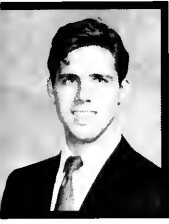

Melissa Barker
Gastonia

Jennifer Barrett
Raleigh

Nancy Bartenstein
Waynesville

Sandy Basnight
Boone

Shawn Baswell
Matthews

Steven Battle
Charlotte

Jennifer Beason
Boone

Kathy Beaty
Gastonia

Cindy Beeker
Salisbury

Ginger Belcher
Waynesville

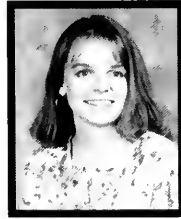

Dana Bentley
Lincolnton

Suzanne Bentley
Lenoir

James Benton
Boone

Christina Berkshire
Lake Toxway

Kathryn Beroth
Winston-Salem

Kathy Best
Clyde

Beth Bezilla
Exeter, NH

Shannon Bigger
Gastonia

CATS IN BAG BAGS IN RIVER

Libby Bigham
Charlotte

Patrick Billings
Greensboro

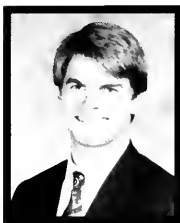

Donna Black
Boone

Carol Blackburn
Wilkesboro

Jon Blackwelder
Concord

Jon Blackwelder
Kannapolis

Paula Blankenship
Wilkesboro

Holly Boggan
Mt. Pleasant, SC

Jennifer Bolin
Gastonia

Leah Bost
Lenoir

Michael Bowers
Matthews

Nathan Bowman
Hickory

Jill Bowyer
Charlotte

Debra Boyd
Conover

Melissa Branch
Boone

Leslie Branner
Harrisonburg, VA

Amy Braswell
Morgantown

Kara Brendle
Old Fort

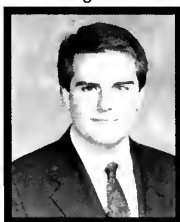

Jeffrey Brinker
Palatka, FL

Miriam Brinkley
Pilot Mountain

Shannon Brinkley
Boone

Neal Brislin
Charlotte

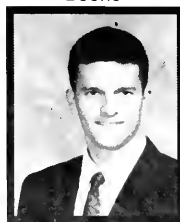

Eric Brooks
Bear Creek

Gina Brooks
West Jefferson

Beverly Brown
Winston-Salem

Jason Bruno
Winston-Salem

Angela Brunson
Raleigh

Scott Bruntmyer
Hickory

Winifred Bryan
Traphill

Marijke Buchner
Charlotte

Melissa Bullock
Wendell

Lori Bunce
Jacksonville

Jeff Burchette
Elkin

Sandra Burchette
Elkin

Carl Burgess
West Jefferson

Charm Burgess
Apex

Chris Burgess
Charlotte

Debbie Burleson
Boone

Jefferey Burleson
Asheville

Christopher Busic
Piney Creek

Allison Byrd
Boone

Rebecca Call
North Wilkesboro

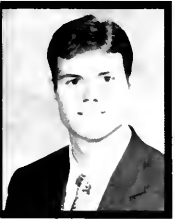

Scot Cameron
Boone

Elizabeth Campbell
Lexington

Lynda Campbell
West End

Marty Campbell
China Grove

Sheila Campbell
Rockingham

Lisa Canupp
Charlotte

Amy Capps
Oxford

Caroline Carden
Roxboro

Anna Carlson
Lenoir

Franci Carpenter
Hunterville

Monica Carpenter
Durham

Alison Carroll
Boone

Andrea Carter
Boone

Anthony Carter
Boone

Brian Carter
Greensboro

Shanna Carter
Denver

Steven Carter
Monroe

Alan Casey
Rural Hall

Jeffrey Casey
Clemmons

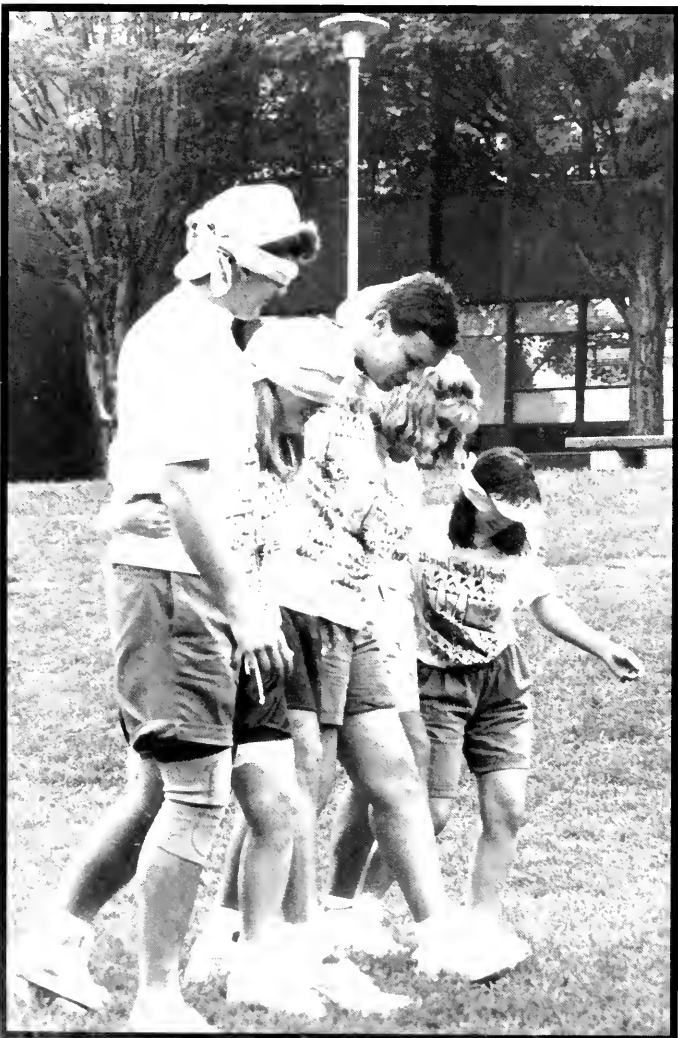

Michelle Castle
Durham

Christina Chamberlain
Winston-Salem

Damon Chappell
Elkin

Lara Charmak
Boone

Bo Chong
High Point

Darren Chriscoe
Cedar Falls

Stephanie Christian
Westfield

Christine Cirincione
Greensboro

Joseph Clark
Greensboro

Elizabeth Clary
Durham

Joe Cline
Bryson City

Mark Cline
Marion

Anna Cloer
Charlotte

Kent Clontz
Greensboro

Chris Coble
Rockingham

Melissa Cockerham
Tobaccoville

Crystal Coffey
Patterson

Kimberly Cole
Clemmons

Janet Coleman
Hamptonville

Jennifer Collins
Thomasville

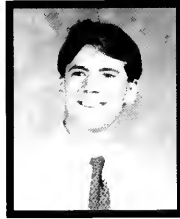

Kathy Collins
Rockingham

Vonda Colvin
Dunn

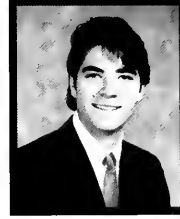

Carolyn Conner
Blowing Rock

Patrick Conrad
Sanford

Melora Cook
Pineola

Chip Cooper
Clinton

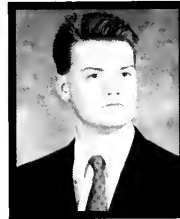

Christy Cope
Waynesville

Jacqueline Corder
Goldsboro

Tara Cornett
Crossnore

Rocky Correll
Hickory

Cynthia Council
Apex

Christine Countryman
Charlotte

Carmen Cox
Broadway

Nathalie Cozon
Charlotte

Pamela Craig
Raleigh

David Cranfill
Winston-Salem

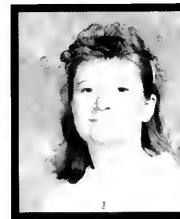

Jennifer Cranford
Thomasville

John Crapster
Salisbury

Lisa Crede
Vilas

Janet Creech
Emporia

Alan Cress
Concord

Andrea Crouch
Hudson

Andrew Curtice
Elizabeth City

Gene Dahlem
Roanoke Rapids

Kelly Dale
Matthews

Gretchen Daniel
Elm City

Jacquelyn Daniels
Tarboro

Darren Davidson
Stone Point

Julia Davidson
Greensboro

Shelly Davidson
Boone

Susan Davidson
Gastonia

Deeanna Davis
Washington

Eric Davis
Charlotte

Kaye Davis
High Point

Lucy Davis
Fayetteville

Sharon Day
Gastonia

Hannah Deaton
Charlotte

Cheryl Deese
Boone

Alison Deforest
Boone

Charles Delforge
Cullowhee

Shannon Dellinger
Collettsville

Tamara Denmark
Seneca, SC

Heather Derrickson
Raleigh

James Dewitt
Wilmington

Eric Diener
Chapel Hill

Carlton Dill
Clive, IA

Jennings Dixon
Gastonia

Johanna Dobb
Atlanta, GA

Lanny Dorsett
Lexington

Michael Douglas Stone Point

Jennifer Dover
Claremont

Kathleen Driscoll
Cary

Melisa Duckett
Leicester

Sandra Dula
Lenoir

Paul Durden
Raleigh

Tammy Duvall
Pineville

Jennifer Easen
Midland

Ronald Ecker
Satellite Beach, FL

Michael Edwards
Valdese

Carol Efrid
Chine Grove

Anna Efland
Efland

Julie Elder Taylorsville

Lisa Elder
Greensboro

Nader Elguindi
Boone

Kim Elliott
West Jefferson

Britt Ellis
Matthews

James Ellis
Old Fort

Steve Ellis
North Wilkesboro

Jane Elmore
Gaffney, SC

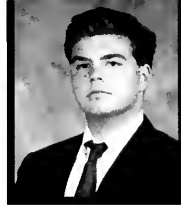

Robert Elmore
Gastonia

Wendy Epley
Conover

Lisa Eskridge
Charlotte

William Eskridge
Winston-Salem

Sarah Evans
Concord

Tricia Evans
Winston-Salem

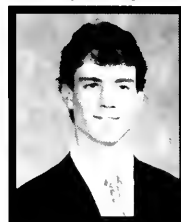

Jim Faulconer
Boone

Randall Faw
North Wilkesboro

Angela Ferguson
Chadbourn

Robert Ferris
Cary

Karin Fetta
Boone

Carmelle Finley
Newton

Chris Fleming
Sanford

Mary Forbes
Greensboro

Wendelin Ford
Cary

Natalie Forte
Charlotte

Tina Fox
Taylorsville

Angela Franklin
Icard

Jeff Franklin
Chapel Hill

Anthony Franks
Lenoir

Ellen Freas
Cary

Tania Free
Matthews

Shane Freeland
Charlotte

Michelle Fuge
Murrayville, GA

Carol Fulton
Winston-Salem

Angela Fuqua
Abingdon, VA

Nancy Gainey
Altoona, PA

Matthew Gaither
Olin

Thomas Gale
Greensboro

Lisa Gasperini
Atlanta, GA

Amy Lee Gearhart
Boone

James Gentry
Elkin

Stephen Gentry
Roxboro

Daryl Ghent
Marion

Mike Giang
Swannanoa

David Gibson
Rockingham

Angela Gilley
Eden

Brooks Godfrey
High Point

Jennifer Godwin
Mt. Airy

Carla Goins
Winston-Salem

Sarah Goodwin
Marshville

Mike Gordon
Kernersville

Bob Gosnell
Asheville

Todd Gosney
Alexandria, KY

Barry Gouge
Marion

Barry Gragg
Boone

Jennifer Gravenstine
Boone

Brandy Gray
Boone

Kelia Gray
Winston-Salem

Monica Graybeal
Boone

Caroline Green
Durham

Doug Greene
Bakersville

Mark Greene
Peachland

Marsha Greene
Elk Park

Michael Greene
Marion

Donna Gregg
Lexington

Dawn Gregory
Greensboro

David Griffin
Mocksville

Lee Griffin
Charlotte

Jeffery Grizzle
Fayetteville

Angela Groce
Hamptonville

Dina Lynn Grossman
Charlotte

Benjamil Guest
Charlotte

John Gullett
China Grove

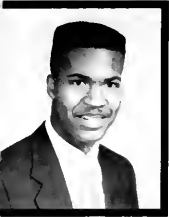

Amy Hackney
Siler City

Sally Hadley
Raleigh

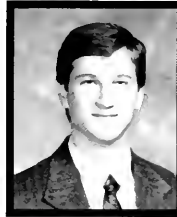

Artemus Hall
Charlotte

Karen Hall
Mocksville

Robert Hall
Asheboro

Tammy Hall
Asheville

Patti Halsey
West Jefferson

Rodney Halsey
Mouth of Wilson, VA

Mandi Hamby
Millers Creek

Elizabeth Hamer
Rockingham

Charles Hamilton
Gastonia

William Hamilton
Charlotte

Jamie Hamlin
North Wilkesboro

Deborah Hamm
Winston-Salem

Brownwyn Haney
Chapel Hill

Tamara Hardee
Fayetteville

Charles Hardin
Forest City

Wendy Hardison
Plymouth

Tricia Hargett
Charlotte

Angelia Harpe
Pilot Mountain

Slayton Harpe
Mocksville

Susan Harris
Boone

Arleen Harrison
Elkin

Charles Harrison
Morganton

Andrew Hart
Springfield, VA

Leta Hartley
Lenoir

Lisa Hartness
Cooleemee

Sam Harwell
Gastonia

Victona Hastie
Boone

Eric Hawkins
Huntersville

Jennifer Hawks
Boone

Blake Hawthorne
Durham

David Hayes
Conover

Lawanda Haynes
Harmony

Elaine Hedrick
Lenoir

Thomas Hefner
Claremont

Karen Heilig
China Grove

Oliver Helsabeck
Tobaccoville

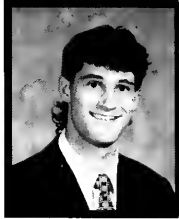

Chad Hench
Durham

Gary Henderson
Charlotte

Brian Hendrix
Hudson

Galen Henson
Boone

Sarah Hewett
Clemmons

Leesa Hicks
Marion

Melanie Higgins
Trinity

Ken Hill
High Point

Randall Hill
Stoneville

Angela Hinson
Coats

Pamela Hodges
Vilas

Lisa Hoffpaur
Winston-Salem

Ernest Holden
Boone

Benjamin Horack
Charlotte

Elizabeth Hord
Greensboro

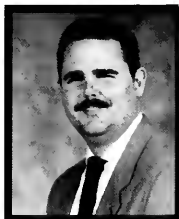

Gregory Houston
Boone

Lenore Hoyt
Weaverville

Angela Hubbard
Kernersville

Bill Huff
Mount Holly

Andrea Huffman
Hickory

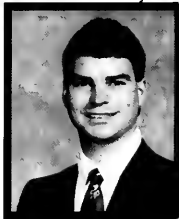

Wanda Huffman
Clemmons

Regina Hughes
Boone

Greg Humphries
Shelby

Troy Hunter
Waram

Leigh Huss
Kings Mtn

Argress Hymes
Winston-Salem

Susan Inge
Matthews

Matt Ingram
King

Kristine Inman
Mount Airy

Stacey Isenhour
Stoneville

Lisa Isom
Mount Airy

Elizabeth Jackson
Denver, CO

Jonathan Jackson
Garner

Marsha Jackson
Brevard

Pamela Jackson
Hamlet

Todd James
Greensboro

William James
Mocksville

Erika Janson
Boone

Susanna Jarvis
Swan Quarter

Lynn Jeffers
Asheboro

David Jefferson
Danville, VA

Amy Jenkins
Rutherfordton

Lara Jenkins
Yorktown, VA

Eric Joe Jacksonville

Amy Johnson
High Point

Andreenne Johnson
Morehead City

Christy Johnson
Wilkesboro

Christine Johnson
Stony Point

Doug Johnson
Franklin

Penny Johnson
Glade Valley

Edward Jones
Brevard

Kristi Jones
Kingsport

Robin Jones
Charlotte

Wiley Jones
Reidsville

Sophia Joyner
Wilson

Jacquelyn Julian
Baldwin, GA

Gail Karrier
Kannapolis

Donald Kaufhold
Charlotte

Eric Keaton
Mocksville

Kelly Keith
Raleigh

Keith Keller
Winston-Salem

Kevin Keller
Winston-Salem

Melissa Keller
Statesville

Wendy Kelly
Rockingham

John Kelton
Pensacola, FL

Tamara Kempka
Kernersville

Tina Kennedy
Roaring River

Osego Keobokile
Boone

John Key
Reidsville

Robyn Kilgore
Boone

John Kinard
Camden, SC

Tracy Kindley
Asheville

Deanna King
Charlotte

Vickie King
Rocky Mount

Katherine Kipka
Mooresville

Scott Kirby
Raleigh

George Kittrell
Wilson

Christa Knight
Mebane

Spencer Knight
Wilkesboro

Joanne Konstantopoulos
Winston-Salem

Carol Kuether
Tryon

Paul Kuhn
Charlotte

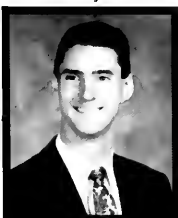

Jennifer Lackey
Wilkesboro

Andrew Lakin
High Point

Darla Lane
Boone

James Lankford
Kannapolis

Grant Lashley
Greensboro

Tammy Lawing
Conover

Tricia Lawing
Cherryville

Thomas Lawlor
Hope Mills

Lorena Lawrence
Boone

Crystal Laws
Hickory

Carol Lee
Boca Raton, FL

Donna Lenihan
Altamonte Springs, FL

Dawn Leonard
Greensboro

Regina Leonard
Mount Airy

Sheree Leonard
Brown Summit

Tina Lewis
Gastonia

Tara Lies
Aulander

Roy Lightfoot
Lincolnton

Stephanie Lineberry
Greensboro

Allison Lipscomb
Hickory

Wendy Lisk
Norwood

Sara Little
Boone

Shana Little Denver

Beverly Lloyd
Mebane

Stephanie Locklear
Red Springs

Amy Logemann
Boone

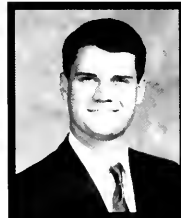

Jennifer Logsdon
Naples

Chris Long
Raleigh

Valerie Long
Monroe

Nicholas Lovin
Rockingham

Angela Lowder
Boone

Rodney Lowe
Gastonia

Eric Lubsen
Roswell, GA

Christa Lumston
Candler

Kristal Lunsford
Union Grove

Tracey Lynch
Boone

Lisa MacCaskill
Boone

Elisa Mackie
Granite Falls

Michelle Maddy
Stanley

Greg Magaraci
King

Jennifer Maile
Fairfax, VA

Sean Mallon
Mahopac, NY

Robert Maples
Zionville

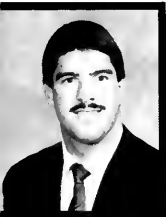

Shawn Marcis
Arden

John Markey
Charlotte

Lisa Marlow
Morganton

Charles Martin
Valdese

Cheryl Martin
Stoneville

Julia Martin
Charlotte

Scott Martin
Charlotte

Stephanie Martin
Mt. Airy

Dave Mason
Raleigh

Susan Mason
Kernersville

Daniel Masters
Thomasville

Kay Mathews
Tequesta, FL

Katie Matkins
Burlington

Sandee Matthews
Reidsville

Kathryn Mauldin
Charlotte

Greg May Statesville

Steve McAllister
Charlotte

Douglas McArthur
Chapel Hill

Stephen McCallister
Arden

Tracy McCarson
Hendersonville

Douglas McClanahan
Boone

Sandra McCloud
Boone

Parrish McDaniel
Salisbury

Beth McEntire
Randeman

Melissa McFalls
Ashville

Cynthia McIntyre
Hamlet

Lea McKinney
Statesville

Rickey McKinney
Bakersville

Sid McMillin
Harrisonburg, VA

Ellen Meachum
Lexington

Madhavi Medikonduru
Boone

Amy Medlin
Lexington

Jennifer Menzel
Charlotte

Charles Merrill
Conover

Greg Merril
Vero Beach, FL

Monica Merritt
Hillsborough

Shannon Merritt
Boone

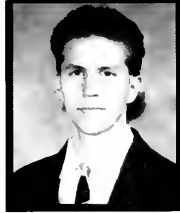

Beth Metcalf
Mebane

Bradley Metzgar
Concord

Lynn Midkiff
Gastonia

Sarah Miles
Hays

Tamara Miles
Charlotte

Angela Miller
Winston-Salem

Danna Miller
Millers Creek

Phyllis Miller
Boone

Regina Miller
N Wilkesboro

Ryan Miller
Hillsbrough

Kristy Minton
Todd

April Mitchell
Asheville

Jason Mitchell
Travelers Rest, SC

Keith Mitchell
Forest City

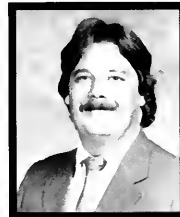

Kimberly Mitchell
Hiddenite

Laura Mitchell
Boone

Michael Mitchell
Corinth, NY

Allen Mooring
Kinston

Melissa Moose
Sherrills Ford

Sharon Moran
Boone

Dawn Morris
Concord

Donna Morrison
Mooreboro

Elizabeth Mosley
Charlotte

Kelly Motsinger
Forest City

Neil Mounce
Elkin

Brian Moynihan
Minster, OH

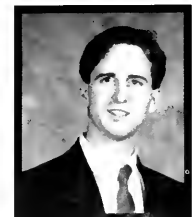

Jim Muckenfuss
Greensboro

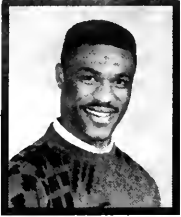

Sarah Murdock
Hendersonville

Karen Murphy
Drexel

Philip Murphy
Asheville

Reggie Murphy
Charlotte

Deanna Murray
Asheville

Julie Myers
Yadkinville

Peter Myers
Fayetteville

Shumona Nag
Boone

Jarrett Nail
Bear Creek

Ron Nalley
Montreat

Jennifer Nance
Clemmons

Jennifer Nance
Lexington

Thomas Nance
Greensboro

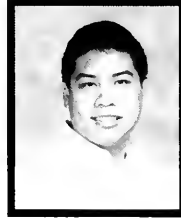

Tracy Nanney
Raleigh

Jennifer Natale
Gastonia

Tonya Nations
Gastonia

Remedios Naval Charleston, SC

Elizabeth Neel
Boone

James Newman
Eden

Michelle Newman
Elkin

Randall Newton
Davidson

Marnie Nicholson
Winston-Salem

Jim Norket
Huntersville

Cherie North
Greensboro

Jennifer Novak
Charlotte

Shelley Oberle
Clemmons

Joseph Odham
Asheboro

Christopher Ollis
Asheville

Jana Osada
Asheville

Deborah Osterhoudt
Boone

John Owen
Mathews

Alicia Pace
Eden

Kirk Page
Reston, VA

Regina Paige
Connells Springs

Julie Parham
Asheville

Melea Parkhurst
Hildebran

Judy Patrick
Sugar Grove

Jacquelyn Patterson
Statesville

Steve Patton
Charlotte

Kristin Paxton
Charlotte

Reginia Payne
Boone

Pamela Pearce
Hickory

Michelle Peeler
Hendersonville

Christy Pegram
Winston-Salem

Michelle Pendley
Spruce Pine

David Penland
Weaverville

Shelley Penson
Forest City

Regina Perkins
King

Stephanie Perry
Banner Elk

Max Peterkin
Hudson

Mike Pethel
Kannapolis

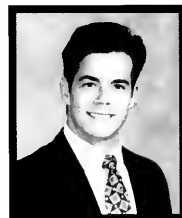

George Pettigrew
Gastonia

Patricia Phillips
Hendersonville

Scott Phillips
Boone

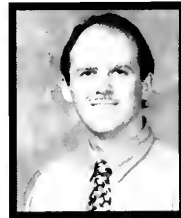

David Pipkin
Chapel Hill

Gina Poole
High Pt.

Mark Potter
Lenoir

Douglas Potts
Boone

Audra Powell
Wake Forest

Leah Prather
Wilmington

Jason Prescott
Greenville

Kelly Pressley
Monroe

Ashley Paige Price
Fort Mill, SC

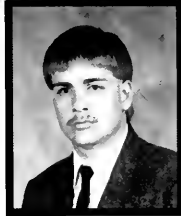

Monisha Primlani
Cary

Jill Pruett
Asheville

Teresa Pruitt
Ruffin

Timothy Pruitt
Yadkinville

Lisa Pugh
Sophia

Eric Pulskamp
Pompano Beach, FL

Amy Radford
Garner

Nathaniel Radley
Davidson

Glenn Rainey
Calabash

Konstandinos Raptis
Charlotte

Wendy Ravert
Charlotte

Lee Raxter
Gastonia

Lynne Ray
Boone

Mark Ray
Hillsborough

Rebecca Rayburn
Hertford

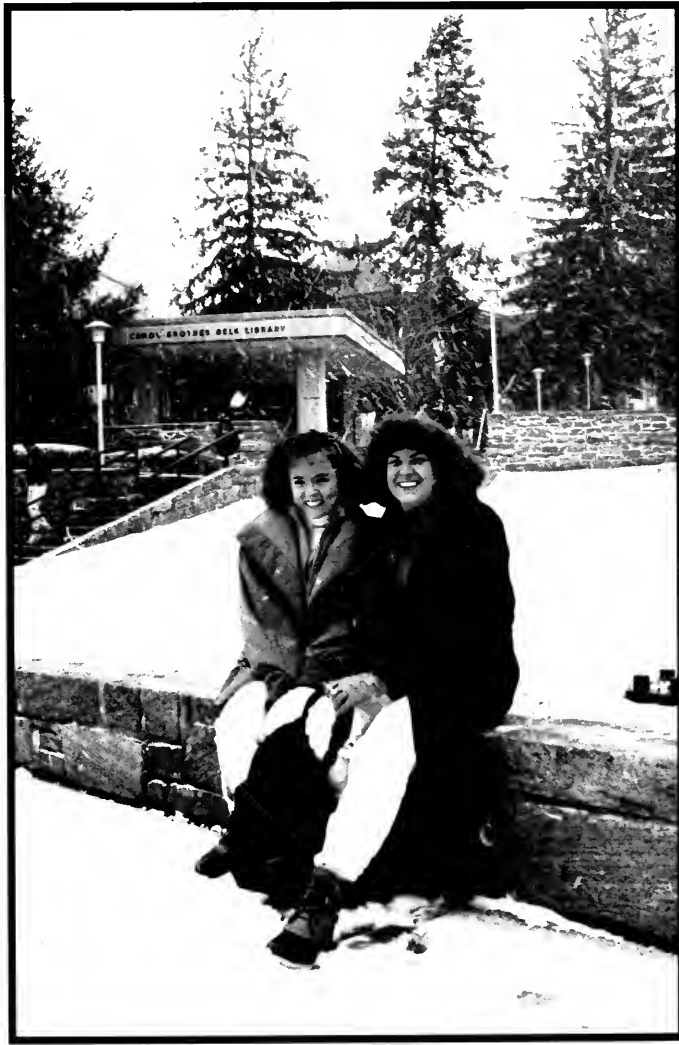

Rhoda Raymond
Elizabeth City

Connie Raynor
Wilmington

Angela Reavis
Pfafftown

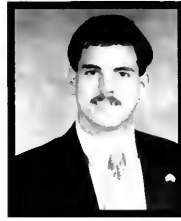

Drew Reavis
Roanoke Rapids, VA

Donald Redding
Winston-Salem

Jennie Redding
Stanley

Kevin Reece
Granite Falls

Jennifer Reeve
Charlotte

Melanie Reeves
Jefferson

Tiffany Reiss
Valdese

Brian Repass
Chapel Hill

Michele Ribiero
Fayetteville

Chuck Eric Riddle
Morganton

Randy Riddle
Marshall

Brian Rigbs
Springfield, VA

Jeri Rikard
Kings Mt.

David Ritter
Boone

Amy Roark
Warrensville

Nicole Roarke
Hickory

Vanessa Robbins
Forest City

Penny Roberson
Marble

Jodi Roberto
Banner Elk

Scott Roberts
Lillington

Mary Robertson
Pageland, SC

Laura Robinson
Salisbury

Wendy Rogers
Lawsonville

Dawn Rogers
Boone

Tmera Rogers
Taylorsville

Lisa Role
Kernersville

Tracy Lynn Rolison
Matthews

Stephanie Rollins
Shelby

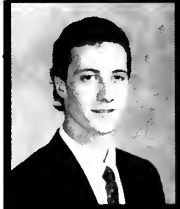

Kelly Roper
Hendersonville

Rebecca Rothenberg
Greensboro

Vernessa Rucker
Raleigh

Michael Suggles
Raleigh

Jay Runy
Fayetteville

Robynn Rutledge
Rural Hall

Natalie Sanders
Hickory

Stoney Sanders
Eagle Springs

Tabitha Sanders
Eagle Springs

Susan Sanzari
Marietta, GA

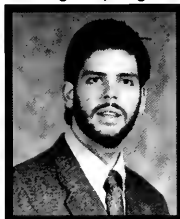

Susan Satterfield
Goldsboro

Roy Sawyer
Columbia, NC

Shavonda Scales
Sandy Ridge

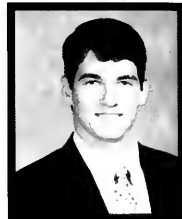

Stephen Schilles
Winston-Salem

John Schweighart
Pfafftown

Edward Scott
N. Wilkesboro

Jack Scott
Raleigh

Stacy Sears
Mars Hill

William Sebastian
Roaring River

Pamela Severt
Glendale Springs

Margaret Shaughnessy
Boone

Mike Shaw
Boone

Cynthia Shealy
Columbia, SC

Kevin Shelton
King

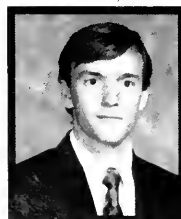

Patricia Sheppard
Saltville, VA

Wendy Sheppard
Westfield

Alan Sherrill
Lenoir

Kevin Sherril
Statesville

Brenda Shew
Ennice, NC

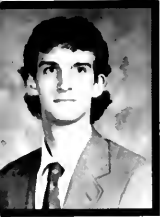

John Shipman
Charlotte

Pamela Shirley
Cary

Sharon Shoemaker
Troutman

James Shue
Raleigh

Steven Sievert
Oxford

Kristy Sigmon
Boone

Lisa Silver
Gastonia

Brian Simmons
Dallas

Elizabeth Skinner
Blowing Rock

Crystal Smith
Statesville

Dana Smith
Mt. Airy

David Smith
Mechanicsville, VA

David Smith
Brevard

Donavon Smith
Conover

Evan Smith
Marion

Greg Smith
Gastonia

Lorie Smith
Elon College

Margaret Smith
Dobson

Michelle Smith
Charlotte

Rodney Smith
Elkin

Shelley Smith
Statesville

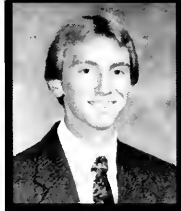

Margaret Snellgroves
Fayetteville

Payge Snow
Dobson

Janice Snyder
Denton

John Sobon
Coral Springs, FL

Ceretha Sowers
Lexington

Jill Sparks
Lawrenceville, GA

Rhonda Sparks
Reidsville

Robert Spaugh, Jr.
Winston-Salem

Susan Spears
Cheraw, SC

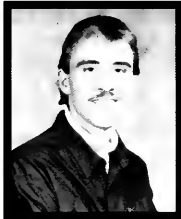

Suzanne Spicer
Lenoir

Christopher Spivey
Chesapeake, VA

Leta Spruill
Fayetteville

Charles St.Clair, Jr.
Taylorsville

Martha Stadler
Burlington

Mark Stallings
Lenoir

Avery Stamper
Statesville

Blake Stanbery
Spruce Pine

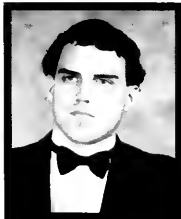

Amy Stancil
Kannapolis

Alisa Stanley
N.Wilkesboro

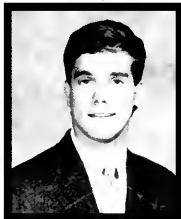

John Starr
Greensboro

Leonard Staunton
Durham

Robert Steed
Gary

Todd Steinman
Salisbury

Kimberly Stephens
Yanceyville

Marshall Stewart
Robbins

Marsha Stiles
Gastonia

Melissa Stockley
Cary

Mitzi Story
Catawba

Teresa Story
Denver

Bobby Strickland
Cary

Brandon Strickland
Boone

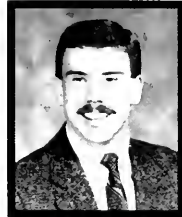

Elena Strickland
Boone

Bradley Strouse Bridgewater

Kent Strupe
Winston-Salem

Troy Stutts
Boone

Deena Suits
Boone

Susan Suttle
Valdese

Suzanne Swanson
Greensboro

Kevin Swindell
Bethel

Pamela Sword
Blowing Rock

Jennifer Talbot
Charlotte

Linda Talley
Plumtree

Elizabeth Tate
Sugar Grove

William Tatum
Fayetteville

Tracey Taylor
Greensboro

Ray Tedder
Charlotte

Monica Teeter
Mooresville

Dawn Temples
Winston-Salem

Teresa Thetford
Greensboro

Johnny Thompson
Lansing

Kelly Thompson
Spruce Pine

Glen Tippett
Durham

Denise Toney
Ellenboro

Mary Ann Toney
Ellenboro

Mark Townsend
Lenoir

Tracey Trantham
Linwood

Resinald Trapp
Charlotte

Angela Triplett
Jonesville

Shannon Trotter
Lakewood

Eric Tucker
Greensboro

Sasha Tucker
Chapel Hill

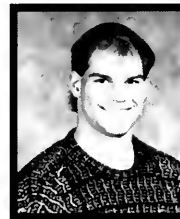

Donna Tully
St. Augustine, FL

William Turner
Rocky Mount

Kathy Turnmire
Warrensville

Gregory Tuttle
Winston-Salem

Annette Tyson
Wadesboro

Michael Vaughan
Durham

Cathy Vaughn
Hudson

David Venable
Meadowview, VA

Kristi Vestal
Yadkinville

Tara Vitale
Boone

Kerry Wagoner
McGrady

Jane Walke
Gibsonville

Andy Walker
Hays

Mitzi Walker
W Jefferson

Sandy Walker
Hays

Shauna Walker
Midland

Bryan Wall
Walkertown

Traci Wallace
Weaverville

Karyn Waltz
Troy

Kenneth Ward
Concord

Michael Warren
Walkertown

Bradley Washam
Boone

David Washco
Waxhaw

Adriane Watkins
Charlotte

Bradley Watts
Springfield, VA

Sondra Watts
Tobaccoville

Monica Waugh
Statesville

Scott Waugh
North Wilkesboro

Gary Weaver
Charlotte

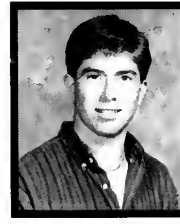

Karla Webber
Raleigh

Vicki Weir
Charlotte

Rachel Welch
Cordova

James Wellons
Burlington

Christina Werts
Winston-Salem

Anthony West
Griffin, GA

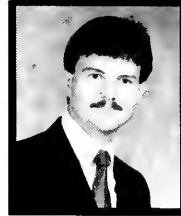

Kimberly West
Raleigh

Russell Westbrook
Efland

Amy Wheeler
Durham

Dean White
Boone

Ruth White
Taylorsville

Sam White
Dobson

Stephanie White
Lakewood, OH

Robert Wiley
Winston-Salem

Katrina Wilhelm
Statesville

Susan Wilhelm
China Grove

Nichele Wilkins
Monroe

Carol Wilkinson
King

Fredrick Wilks
Gastonia

Tracy Willard
Germanton

Alan Williams
Statesville

Melissa Williams
Gastonia

Christopher Wilmoth
Dobson

Bryan Wilson
Greensboro

Jill Wilson
Greensboro

Jonathan Wilson
Walkertown

Katrina Wilson
Arden

Kelly Winslow
Fort Mill, SC

Mark Wise
Marion

Tim Wise
Spruce Pine

Frank Wocher
Raleigh

Chrysta Wolfe
Asheville

Patti Wolfe
Ramseur

Sherry Wolfe
Charlotte

Christopher Wood
Sparta

Joseph Woodruff
Charlotte

Tabitha Woody
Asheville

Patricia Wooten
Clyde

Tonia Worley
Black Mountain

Angela Worth
Haw River

Joseph Wright
Raleigh

Kimberly Wright
Salisbury

Brett Wtherington
Boone

Beverly Wyatt
Meravian Falls

Diane Yarborough
Raleigh

Lisa Yates
Eden

Catherine Yearwood
Charlotte

Danny Yelton
Bakersville

Elizabeth Young
Cary

Marsha Zimmerman
Burlington

S pecial Interest

The Appalachian

"Fairness, accuracy, and public service." The Appalachian has promised and delivered this and more to ASU for over half a century. Perhaps that is why it is one of the most common news publications circulated to the student body.

The Appalachian was a student-run newspaper led by Kurt Ward, Editor-in Chief, and thirteen staff members, with contributions by various staff writers. The publication offered exposure and a voice for a variety of groups, causes, and individuals, without bias or undue censorship.

The paper itself was divided into three main sections: Diversions, Sports, and Commentary. Diversions gave an excellent source of information about college life. It provided entertainment, commentary, concert dates, and cultural performance information. The sports section covered all Appalachian varsity teams, as well as intramurals, club teams, and sometimes other Southern Conference schools. Commentary, which seemed to be the most widely read section of the paper, gave individuals a chance to voice their opinions through Letters to the Editor. Commentary also frequently exposed problems, concerns, and issues on campus, in the nation, and in the world. This commentary provided students with various political and social perspectives. Finally, each edition of The Appalachian listed weekly departmental news and announcements.

Photos By: Keith Jackson
Sports editor Shea Griffin obviously enjoys his job.

The Appalachian was a publication strictly devoted to informing students on issues affecting their daily lives, without forcing one view or restricting opinions. Maintaining an award-winning status, The Appalachian went beyond the call of duty to keep students and faculty well-informed.

Kelly Moxley

Canda Smith edits copy for the next deadline.

Spinning tunes for 91 Rock

Photos By: Ron Seils

The air around Appalachian State was filled once again in '92 with the sounds of 91 Rock, WASU, the campus radio station. The station sounded better than ever with its mix of classic rock and college alternative music that made all listeners turn up the volume just a little bit more.

The man at the helm of WASU's programming was senior Spencer Knight. He did not want to make a lot of changes to the sound of this year's version of 91 Rock, but those he made turned out very well.

Knight and the other three seniors on WASU's staff would not have traded their experience for anything. "I think my years at the station have been some of the best of my life," said Knight. "I'm really going to miss this place when I graduate."

His sentiments were echoed by senior Sports Director, Tom Lawlor. "Yeah, the station taught me as much about broadcasting as any class I've had in my 14 years here. Actually its only four. It just seems like 14."

With opportunities at WASU so vast, it was no wonder the station was swamped by people wanting to work there. Sixty to seventy people wanting to be disc jockeys arrived at the organizational meetings each semester. Promotions Director Kevin Hartbarger said, "It really is a learning experience. I recommend that anyone interested in broadcasting get involved with WASU."

With news, sports, public relations, promotions, and of course, on-air announcing, WASU obviously had a lot to offer the communications major.

WASU

Apps

Appalachian Popular Programs Society, better known as A.P.P.S., was a campus club that brought local and national entertainment to ASU students. A.P.P.S. consisted of five separate councils: Concerts, Special Events, Stage Shows, Club Shows, and Films. The events within each council were coordinated by that council's chairperson. Concerts only contacted larger national bands, Stage Shows brought regional and smaller bands, and Club Shows only presented local bands. Special Events served to bring various entertainment such as comedians and magicians, while Films spoke for itself.

Although anyone was allowed to join A.P.P.S., the members who had been there the longest, generally the seniors, were able to see the best and the worst of the club. A.P.P.S. provided its members with valuable learning experiences, especially in how to deal with people. It also provided a fun atmosphere and a chance to meet some unique people.

Even though the majority of the club consisted of freshmen, the chairpersons of the councils were usually seniors. A.P.P.S. benefited by having senior chairpersons because

Photo By: Jenny McClellan

Comedians sponsored by A.P.P.S. brought good times to ASU

Photo By: Todd Yohm
ka-chink, ka-chink

Photo By: Jenny McClellan

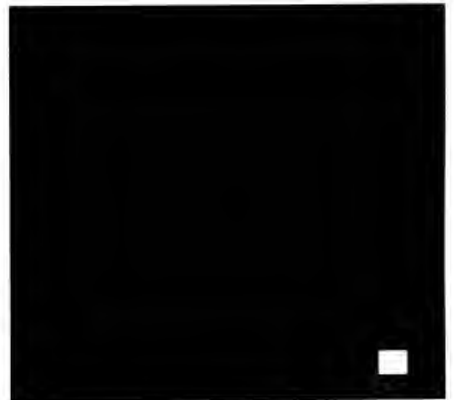

Getting the audience into the show was something comedians did best.

they were usually more self-confident and their social skills were greater than those of newer members. Because the senior members were more experienced, they usually did not have any qualms about coordinating activities with bands and school faculty.

Although A.P.P.S. was a club designed for fun, there were some members who joined because of their majors. A.P.P.S. provided its members with knowledge about public relations, commercials, and ads. The club presented a beneficial, new perspective to communications majors and others.

Overall, A.P.P.S. provided students with opportunities to have a good time, to make lasting relationships, and to gain knowledge in self-awareness and publicity. Seniors acted as role models for the newer members. Through their actions, others learned how to deal with criticism, faculty, bands, and the general public. A.P.P.S. was a campus-funded club that benefited the individual, not only in the entertainment areas, but also in personal growth.

Bobby Newell

BLACK

S T U D E N T
A S S O C I A T I O N

BSA members discussed activities for students during meetings.

One of the main purposes of the Black Student Association was education. BSA educated African American students about the important role their ancestors had in building America. BSA also strived to help African American students recognize and realize their potentials in the worlds of academia, career, and personal endeavors. To fulfill these needs, BSA brought several speakers and forums to the ASU campus.

During Black Awareness Weekend, prospective ASU students visited the campus and were paired with a comparable upperclassman. These upperclassmen showed the prospective students around, made suggestions about what professors to take, and got them acquainted with ASU. They also went to social events, such as the Ms. Black Culture pageant, and a dance. This pairing was continued throughout the year if the prospective student came to ASU.

During African American Heritage week, a mini-seminar was held for African American students to teach them skills needed to do well in college. There was also a social dinner with speaker, Mabel McLean, former president of Bennett College, on the preservation and celebration of African American heritage. Later in the week, BSA created versions of Wheel of Fortune and Jeopardy concerning the history of African American culture.

In February, BSA held an African American Career Symposium. The Symposium consisted of two lectures, one for males and one for females, on strategies for surviving in college and in the career world.

The attitude at BSA was one of warmth and caring. The members formed a wonderful support group for those who needed "just a little more." They invited everyone, regardless of race, to come to the meetings and activities. Learning and interaction among the students encouraged unity between all cultures.

Students united in song to praise the Lord.

The Black Student Association Gospel Choir completed a successful year, making numerous joyful noises unto the Lord! This dynamic choir of 110 members traveled around the Southeast entertaining people of all cultures.

The Choir traveled to Atlanta over Thanksgiving for the nation's annual gospel choir competition and workshops. The spring tour took them to various locations along the coast of North Carolina. Many local citizens were inspired by their music. A revival, held in November, brought many guest speakers, and the annual Christmas performance was held at the First Baptist Church of Boone.

Mr. Willie Fleming, Director of Minority Affairs, was the Choir's director for the sixteenth consecutive year. Mr. Fleming started the Gospel Choir in 1975 with only 25 charter members. His positive impact increased the membership each year and kept students returning for more Christian fellowship.

Two student directors also helped lead the Gospel Choir. Antonio McNeill, a sophomore Teaching Fellow, added his musical talent the previous year. His training at Campbell University enhanced the Choir in many areas. Terell Pollock, a junior, also contributed considerable talent by writing many of their vocal pieces.

President of the Gospel Choir, Kim Danner, stressed its purpose, commenting, "We're here to connect not only spiritually, but also culturally. BSA is for the enhancement of our culture in a church atmosphere, yet we encourage people of all races and cultures to participate with us."

Angela Lewis and Gary Henderson, both seniors from Charlotte, agreed that the Choir was a spiritual outlet in which they could praise the Lord. Robert Kelly, a senior from Fayetteville said, "The love and fellowship made it special. We just grew up in Christ together and became inspired."

Emily C. Baker

All cultures and races were brought together by the Choir.
Photos by: Ron Seils

BSA

CHOIR

Campus RSA discuss important issues.

Photo By: Darrell Laughlin

Appalachian State created the Coordinating Council of Clubs to benefit all the recognized student organizations on campus. CCC's group of eight hard-working students planned and carried out the many programs offered to the student groups.

CCC created a monthly newsletter to increase communication between the campus' 180-plus organizations. The newsletter contained everything from up-coming events to profiles of key individuals on campus.

The Council also coordinated activities for club leaders. Jean Roberts, Assistant Director for Student Programs, led club presidents in a workshop that taught them "How to Motivate [Their] Club Members." Many activities were designed to assist club leaders in a variety of issues.

Several leadership breakfasts coordinated by CCC gave student leaders the opportunity to hear prominent university figures. For example, Tom Apke, ASU's Men's Basketball coach, discussed keys to successful leadership.

CCC also allocated money to registered student organizations. Recognized student groups could receive up to $100 to help cover expenses for their educational activities. Coordinating Council of Clubs looked forward to offering many more services to assist the clubs and organizations of Appalachian State.

Jonathan Buff

Resident Student Association was a large and well-established organization on campus in which students were able to make decisions for their residence halls. According to Sara Lowery, active RSA member, "It gives people a chance to become involved. It also brings people together and gives the residence hall a sense of community." RSA acted to unite individuals, floors, residence halls, the entire campus, and the community.

Each residence hall had its own RSA group, format for their meetings, and order of business. RSA groups formed committees to make proposals about programs and equipment. Programs included guest speakers, mixers, and other entertainment. Equipment proposals concerned replacement, repairs, and additions. After petitions were circulated, the proposals were taken to Residence Life, Residence Facilities, or SGA for approval.

RSA also participated in a great deal of activities around campus and in the community. They sponsored "theme months," such as alcohol awareness and safety awareness, and participated in homecoming. Because of each residence hall's uniqueness, the programs offered by each were diverse and original. RSA also did co-recreational activities such as Razzle Dazzle.

Ashley Roberts, RSA president in Eggers residence hall, said that RSA had gone through changes over the years. "It is more self-governed, the students have control of their own budget, and they have more power. It is a lot more democratic now."

Gia Seagle

Coordinating Council of Clubs

Council members hard at work.

Photo By: Ron Seils

At Appalachian State, some students found an exciting challenge in the Student Ambassadors Program.

The primary purpose of the Ambassadors was to give campus tours to prospective students and their parents. But they also performed many other functions. Ambassadors acted as a liaison between alumni and the University, hosted alumni rallies across the state, and were involved in the Distinguished Alumni Award and the Chancellor's Committee Dinner. They also hosted the Ooze Ball Tournament to raise money for the Hospitality House.

Photo By: Jason Chamberlain

An ASU ambassador gives a perspective student a tour.

Becoming one of the thirty-six Ambassadors was a challenging and competitive process. First, they had to possess certain qualities: an outgoing personality, a strong sense of responsibility and commitment, and enthusiasm about ASU. Each year about 115 students participated by filling out an application and going through an interview. An average of ten senior Ambassadors graduated a year, leaving only ten positions to be filled.

Ambassadors carried with them a sense of honor and pride. They felt honored because they made the first impression on many prospective students as they represented Appalachian. They were proud because they were often complimented by the prospective students. Jill Wherry, Student Ambassador, described her feelings of honor and pride by saying, "It is a great experience because I get to meet many new people and get to learn all about ASU."

All in all, the Student Ambassadors program was highly successful. Greg Merrill, President of Student Ambassadors 1991-1992, knew the key to success lay in cooperation: "Our group is highly motivated with diverse personalities, but we all have one thing in common, our love for Appalachian. We like to show that off."

Cindy Grimes

student ambassadors

S tudent G overnment A ssociation

The Student Government Association took on a new role for the '91-'92 academic year. With a staff of 15 cabinet members and 73 senators, our main goal was to work for the students at ASU. Part of President Daryl Ghent and Vice President Reggie Murphy's platform was to push for a referendum concerning liquor-by-the-drink, to pursue projects that strengthen ties between Appalachian and the Boone community, and to promote Appalnet on a university-wide level. All of these ideas were pursued.

Many projects were developed through the Student Government Association. There were four committees with the specific goal of helping university students: Academic Affairs, Community Affairs, Off-Campus Affairs, and Student Affairs.

The Academic Affairs Committee, chaired by Dawn Barker, looked into the curriculum on campus and anything else pertaining to academics. The committee produced the Professor's Syllabi Guide which was distributed at strategic locations around campus. This book held syllabi from many ASU professors. Some students looked at the guide before they registered to see if a potential professor was to their liking.

The Community Affairs Committee, chaired by Matt Williford, helped to strengthen the ties between ASU and the Boone community. Their big project was the Holiday Food and Clothing Drive. They asked students to bring in clothes and food that were donated to the Watauga Hunger Coalition. The committee also raised money for the United Way Campaign.

S.G.A. Vice-President Reggie Murphy and President Daryl Ghent address an important issue.

Photos by: Keith Jackson

G.A. shows support for ASU by making a banner.

The Department of Judicial Affairs was created by the adoption of a new student code of conduct by the Chancellor," explained Mr. Lee McCasky, Director of Judicial Affairs. Beforehand, the entire process was almost just a collection of offices. The Chancellor simply consolidated the entire judicial process. The purpose of Judicial Affairs was to educate and correct students concerning violations of the law. The most common violation was underage alcohol possession. Some other violations frequently heard by the Judicial Board were assault cases, violation of visitation, and failure of a student to control guests.

The members of the Student Judicial Board responsible for the success of the organization were Chairperson Debbie Osterhoudt, Counselor Shannon Littleton and Advocate Chip Baggett. There was also a University Judicial Board who worked in conjunction with the Student Board, which included deans, faculty, and some students. Mr. Lee McCasky, Director of Judicial Affairs, advised the entire process. Judicial Affairs was a thriving association that was much needed in the University's discipline process. It was represented by competent students, faculty, and an experienced director.

Jennifer Rimmer
Rebecca Reagan
Amy Lyndon

JUDICIAL AFFAIRS

Photo by: Hak Ung

Student Judicial Board

The Off-Campus Committee, chaired by Kevin Howell, worked hard for the rights of off-campus students. Tipsy Taxi was renewed, which was a service that allowed students to present a card and an ID to an area cab company to be given a safe ride home. On February 25th, a Rental Fair occurred. Students were able to find out about area apartments, get prices, and talk to leasing agents.

Last was the Student Affairs Committee chaired by Douglas Duncan. This committee passed a Pizzeria Delivery bill, which allowed free delivery on campus. Some other areas of concern were bicycle regulations, a new laundry system, and restocking the Market with cigarettes.

The Student Government Association was a body set up to work for and with the students. SGA tried hard to "keep Appalachian on the right "T.R.A.C." through teaching, representation, advocacy, and communication.

Terie McHale

FR: Roger Winsor, Michelle Mills(VP), Kay Salter, Dai Wi, Bill Impevatore. 2nd row: Ole Gade, Art Rex, Jon Wilson, Neal Lineback. 3rd row: Mike Mayfield, Bobby McMillan(Pres.).

A.P.P.S. Club Shows

FR: Mark Loggins, Hollie Michael, Karla Smith. 2nd row: Billy Maupin, P. Rogers Motley, Sharon Shoemaker, Amanda Teskey.

A.P.P.S. Concerts

FR: Kathy Beaty, Michael Andrew, Paul T. Bowder, Marsha Stiles. 2nd row: Tammy Hall, Adena A. Absher, Susan E. Odom, Della Swaim, Neha Shah.

A.P.P.S. Executive Council

FR: Matthew McNaney(Pres.), Phil Arnold, Billy Maupin, Stephanie Kidd, Rusty Boyd. 2nd row: Paul Fleetwood(VP), Spencer Knight, Ana Williams, Marsha Stiles(Concerts Chair), Christie Miller, Ellen Meachum, Lesa Bullock, Jill Hanzlik.

A.P.P.S. Films

FR: Michelle Maddy, Ida E. McNeil, Amy M. Dillinger, Sandra Spencer, Pat Phillips. 2nd row: Teresa Byrd, Rusty Boyd, Neil Brittain, Matthew McNaney.

FR: C. Grant Starr, Rebecca Hurst, Darrell Duncan. 2nd row: Allison Hunter, Donna Spikes, Michael Duncan, Stephanie Rouse, Melissa L. Aller. 3rd row: Timothy Anders, W. Lee King (VP), Amy M. Dellinger, Chris Wood (Pres.), Roberta Van Dyke, Christina Pierce.

CRSA

FR: Lavonne Faw, Michelle Smith (VP), Scott Johnson (Pres.), Carla Herman. 2nd row: Chris Chaffin, Angie Walsler, Lisa Smith, T.J. Peck, Tom Peck, Jennifer Hester, Jeremy Setzer, John Lanier. 3rd row: Eric Eaton, Kelly Peck, Melinda Kennedy, Kendra Sink, Crystal Coleman.

Criminal Justice

FR: Teresa Williamson, Shannon N. Smith, Renee Paricio. 2nd row: Eric White (VP), Judi Craven (Pres.), Anne Mane Breede, Ashley Miller. 3rd row: Wardell Williams Jr., Eddie Burgess, Trent Hall, Scott Shail, Noelle Forcies, Eric Wall.

Photos By: Hak Ung

History Club

.....

Eric Eaton, Judy Austin, Ted Lantaff(Pres.), Dawn Morris, Paul Hespelt.

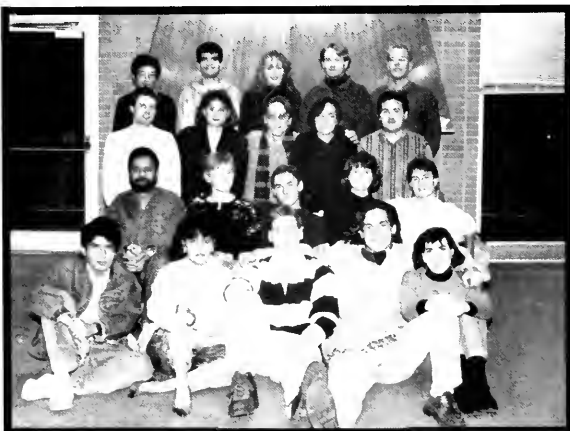

Inter. Relations Assoc.

.....

FR: Colette Pumphrey, Kim Oberle, Sherry Hyatt, Kara Morch, Kimberly Richardson. 2nd row: Roland Moy (advisor), Gebeaux, Mark Howard, Alexander J. Keowr, Brett W. Walters.

Inter. Friendship Assoc.

FR: Paul Meza, Ana Lorena Vives, Jeff Elston, Ricardo Galan, Clara Robledo. 2nd row: David Mehesh, Gaelle Guerard, Marc Dubresson, Ellen Freas, Mike Garner. 3rd row: Stephen Phillips, Babette Vandewes, Chris Craven, Mai Hoang, Guilhem. 4th row: Yong Zhi, Manuel Cobo, Stefania Osk Porisdottir, Fridleifur Kristjansson, Peter- Philipp Schmitt.

Kappa Kappa Psi

.....

FR: Beth Pearce, Kimberly West, Robb Carrington(Pres.), Carol Lee, Teri Thetford, Kerri Wikle, Tabitha Woody, Gary N. Farley, Jennifer Reynolds, Tracy Shea Quinones. 2nd row: Jennifer Vilas, Diane Yarborough, Lynn Norwood, Tammy Parks, Shannon Thomas, Mekel Rogers. 3rd row: Patrick Sloan, Birgitt Blythe, Chad Mirhell, Randy Yelton, Richard Sprecker, Brown Chapman, Danny Swartz, Janella Fawn Tremblay.

Ladies Elite

Kappa Omicron Nu

Edwina Thomas(Pres.), Regina Payne(VP), Tara Vitale, Gina Perkins.

FR: Jessica Chitwood, Patricia Anderson(Pres.), Tracy White, Konnie Stowe. 2nd row: Vanessa Alston, Antonia Adams, Donna Corpening, Monica Turner, Jill Hanzlik, Precious Quire.

LSA

FR: Patty Wooten, Steve Brady, Tracy Carrier(Pres.), Tracy Tarleton(VP). 2nd row: Amy Caldwell, Chris Hullander, LeeAnna Teague, Partier, Jennifer Williams.

Leisure Studies

FR: Tammy Eberhart, Tracy Bodenheimer, Melissa Wall. 2nd row: Eric Lubson(VP), Charles Merrill(Pres.), Bryan Wilson, Scott Henegar. 3rd row: Donna Laws, Lynne Kirpatrick, Tracy Magnum, Jinny Parnell, Lukas Bollinger, Emily Elmore, Bill Norman(Advisor).

Math Club

FR: Aaron Ware, Sims Martin, Tiffany Womble, Crystal Laws, Shannon Harewell, Dale Albright. 2nd row: Ginny Ehasz, Michelle Greene, Gena Krobath, Dana Snider, Kaye Davis. 3rd row: Rodney Dunning, Osego Keobokile, Scott Smith, Wendy Tomberlin, Nancy Bartenstein, Racheal Wortman, Leslie Morrison.

Mountaineer Escort

Shannon Fleshood, John Vickery, Carlton Terry, Wes Calbreath, Sara Taylor.

NRHH

FR: Kristen Cogswell, Beth Rissmiller, Michelle Smith. 2nd row: Kelly Motsinger, Scott Johnson, Lanny Dorsette, Melinda Kennedy, Marnie Nicholson. 3rd row: Roy Lightfoot, Steve McConnell, Jim Jones, Kelly Peck.

Persian Rifles Society

FR: Sharon Steimie, Glenn Schmick, Tina Harkey, Ricky Poole, Jim Ash, James Slaton, Mike Prachar. 2nd Row: SSG Leon Baker, Sharnette Huffam, Stephen Coleridge, Tim Luper, Rock Thomas, David Cheyney, Denise Hewes, Michelle Abrams.

Senior Committee

Rugby

Student Ambassadors

SAI

FR: Tracy Ford(Advisor), Deanne Renner, Teri Barber, Emily Culbreth, Kelly Keith, Nicolle Brown, Joy Koontz, Jill Hooper, Cameron Hall, Amy Holbein, Tiffany Womble, Lisa Maslow. 2nd row: Allyson Mauldin, Trey Harb, Felicia Waugh, Lori Cannon, Cindy Shealy, Stacy Danner, Christina Whitten, Sims Martin, Kristen Meredith, Angel Huneycutt, Edith Featherston. 3rd row: Jeff Reid, Neil Clark, Randy Riddle, Stephanie Lineberry, Tedra Picontinc, Michael Crutchfield, Kristi Wherry, Hope Barwick, Mark Clodfelter, Bobby Martin, Jill Wherry, Mark Weaver, Greg Merrill, Patrick Billings.

FR: Meiling Cheng, Amanda Fields, Jennifer Nance, Kendra Floyd, Joy Lynn Leake. 2nd row: Stephanie White, Leigh Anne Fulton, Carol Lee, Pamela Munday, Beverly Satterfield.

Photos By: Hak Ung

FR: Daryl Ghent(Pres.), Suzanne Swanson, Reggie Murphy (VP), Teri McHale, Randy Yelton. 2nd row: Dan Gurley, Carlton Terry, Kelly O'Brien, Kevin Howell, Doug Duncan, Tom Beaman.

Sociology Club

.....

Steve Brady(Pres.), Jennifer O'Connor, Paula Estep, Tracy Carrier(VP), Jamie Christenbury.

S H E A

Jill Pruett(Pres.), Betsy Blalock, Tara Vitale(VP).

Wesley Foundation

.....

Alpha Kappa Alpha

.....

Westminster Fellowship

.....

FR: Shannon Key, Patrick Shaffner(VP), Kelly Gatlin(Pres.), Sam Walton, April McKie. 2nd row: Henry Crede, Lisa Crede, Chrissie Phillips, Patrick Sloan, Emily Baker, Anthony Imperatore, Lisa Williams. 3rd row: Rocky Ward(Campus Minister), Brian Widener, Andy Kunkle, Webb Ferguson, Holly Daniel, Wayne Hansen, Rachel L'Hommedieu.

FR: Annette Patterson, Robin Griffin, Kelia(Pres.), Vanessa Alston(VP). 2nd row: Adina Watkins, Donna Corpening, Sabrina Hill, Cleopatra Bell.

Alpha Phi

Alpha Delta Pi

.....

FR: Caroline Crawford, Sherry Rose, Stephanie Hayes, Debbie Myers, Leigh Chatagnier, Ashley Stephens, Julie Penn. 2nd row: Heather Heim, Alicia Pace, Kelly Keith, Andrea Hanner, Debra Boyd, Beth Bearman, Tiersa Twiggs, Kathryn Beroth(Pres.), Kim Doan(Exec. VP), Jane Rapallo, Sandy Anderson, Valarie Lutz, Kristine Fulstone. 3rd row: Emily Morten, Darah Couch, Jill Summey, Jenny Selapack, Amy Kirk, Kim Parks, Dana Vickery, Laura Gaertner, Jen Okun, Stacy Isenhour. 4th row: Sharon Strom, Kristin Hicks, Renae Dusenbury, Nicole Disher, Anna Robinson, Danya Jordan, Laura Hobbs, Paige Howie, Raneae Padgett, Sims Martin, Angela Peacock, Stephanie Pass, Michelle Stanley, Jennifer Rhodes. 5th row: Melissa Gragg, Gina Oliver, Leigh Ann Raines, Molly Conder, Gretchen King, Jennifer Beatty, Melissa Allen, Cara Stanley, Wendy Westmoreland, Tonya Harris, Teresa Austin, Heather Gagnon, Kim Allen, Dena Donaldson, Helen Calhoun.

FR: Cindy Stewart, Amy Shiflet, Wendy Gay, Candy Chuck, Amy McCall(VP), Tamara Miles(Pres.), Tina Taylor, Jennifer Trapp, Dana Harrison, Mendy Blair, Ginger Wilson, Sara Hopkins. 2nd row: Ashley Miller, Cindy Council, Lesley Creamer, Amy Fox, Jennifer Wortham, Elnor Holshouser, Tracy Vernon, April Canter, Tammy Phillips, Rebecca Cashwell, Kathleen Murray. 3rd row: Maryanna Rogers, Stacy Fox, Amy Ussery, Dawn Haas, Wendy Henderson, Melissa Bunch, Melissa LeQuire, Amanda Salisbury, Jennifer Rimmer, Beth Kelley, Suzanne Odom. 4th row: Ericka Walker, Nathalie Cozon, Judy Craven, Mandi Coe, Robin Wawak, Jennifer Gentle, Missy Guffy, Hannah Deaton, Alison Williams, Jamie Bennet, Christa Worley, Julie Cunningham.

Alpha Phi Alpha

FR: Gary Henderson, Mike Scales(VP), Gerald Martin(Pres.), Tony Harris. 2nd row: Roger Williams, Larry Hairston, Jeffery Waters, Walter Goodwyn, Steve Patterson, Ali Davis.

Delta Chi

FR: Richard Robinson, Jason E. Meyer, Allen Helms, Brian Jones, Travis Seevers, Nick Coppedge, Phil Fraley. 2nd row: Brian Stanley, Terry S. Bishop, Nader Elguindi, Jamie Guffey, David Hilton(Pres.), Davis Webb, Mike Werd, Trent Berrier, Jon Taylor. 3rd row: Joshua Weaver, Rick Dobbins, J.D. Adams, Chip Baggett, Robert Barton, Dryw Blanchard, Drew Reavis, Robert Houk, Ken McFadyen, Jason Stanley, Scott Marek. 4th Row: Randy Yelton, Scott Barnes, Mike Cawthon, Bill Spear, Davis Hall, Scott Townsend, Wade Hall, Allen Hager, Jim Stemper, Mike Toler, Rich Carpenter.

Alpha Tau Omega

FR: Clay Monroe, Howard Ellis, Robert Wilkins, Damon Mills, Brad Bostic, Juan Granados, James Hucke, Mike Ecker. 2nd row: Peter Clark, Brian Janice, Steve Gentry, Rob Libbert, Jonh Cushing, Travis M. Rhodes, Keith Bell, Jonh Owens, Kevin Rowell, Chip Cox. 3rd row: Marty Flowers, T. J. Wood, Drew Pruitt, Clifton Stone(Pres.), Mike Moss, Jason Ingle, Mark Simpson, Jon Lancaster, Charles Glenn.

Delta Sigma Theta

FR: Mmica Javis(Pres.), Cynthia L. White(VP), Tammie Tolbert, Lesley Barnett. 2nd row: Lisha Moore, Adrienne Davis, Wanjiru Ikuu, Angela D. Lewis.

Pi Kappa Phi

Delta Zeta

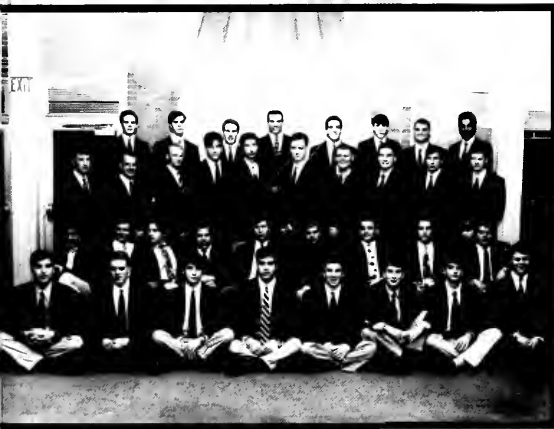

FR: Abby Huffman, Haley Phifer, Suzannah Womack, Amy Creech. 2nd row: Laura McCallum, Cindy Carloni, Cameron Hall, Belinda Price, Lisa Narducci, Anna Wilkins, Marcy Dion, Kelley Jonson, Julia Sullivan. 3rd row: Erin Szymczyk, Amy Ozment, Jenni Black, Jennifer Johnson, Wendy Joyce, Ashley Taylor, Livi Tedesco, Tasha Roberts.

FR: Matt Copley, Jeff Davis, Tim Riviello, Keith Sink, Bobby Taylor, Drock Vincent. 2nd row: Bryan Goodyear, Scott Jenkins, Matt Kyle, Jeff Towson, Curtis Raper, Barry Turner, Brian Goodman, Marc Cribbs, Brian Fjeld, Bill Eskridge. 3rd row: Luther Snyder, Skip Tappy, Scott Wright, Chris Ebel, Randall Teal, Brant Bibbers, Les Ramsey, Ty Reid, Trent Shelton. 4th row: Joe Sturgess, Steve Jenkins, Doug Kinser, Aaron Bachenheimer, Brian Hallaman, Cameron Edwards, Billy Oakes.

Kappa Alpha

FR: Boyd Overman, Hunter Widener, Jon Coffin, Jeff Shouse, John Pigg, Jay Barefoot, Mark Hidenhour, P.J. Caplan. 2nd row: Alex Mistri(VP), Ted Johnson, Vaughn Ford, Chris Bryant, Durl Poole, Brad La Rue(Pres.) John Tumbleweed, Jay Johnson, Mark Forbes. 3rd row: Jeff Larotonda, Mac Mahaffee, Troy Carroll, Chris Leonard, Michael Butler, Jim Roberson, Carl Ward, Taylor Adams, Travis Stroud, Kevin Frost. 4th row: Chris Miller, David Simmons, Brad Larson, Kevin Sikorski, Randy Wood, Brian Seiliff, Jamie Boyer, Jerry Courtney.

Kappa Sigma

FR: Eric Munsell, Paul Kaplan, John Gotti, Brad James. 2nd row: Rommiel Ateinsa, Dan Webb, Bryan Thayer, Mutt Raymer, Darren Eubanks. 3rd row: Adam Kirby, David Morris, Ben Armstrong, Mike Mustafa, Mike Dodson.

Photos By: Hak Ung

Omega Psi Phi

FR: Maurice Daniel Smith, Jamar R. Lane
BK: Kevin Armstrong, Chris Wright
Advisor: Ruffin McNeill Jr.

German Club

FR: Shelly Smith, Tonia Wood, Dr. Kevin Kennedy, Dorothy Bernt, Ute Sartorius, Kristin Hunicke, Dr. Ulrich Froelich. 2nd Row: Ashley Good, Bobby Martin, Peter-Philipp Schmitt, Tricia Mahoney, and Karen Garrett.

Baptist Student Union

.....

SAGA

FR: Ashley Hutchison, Robin Martinek
MD: Tim Barker, Paula Childers, Brad Moorefield
BK: Derek King

Mens Service Club and Little Sisters

FR (Little Sisters): Melissa Woods, Meteza Royal, Mary Howard, Adrienne Davis
 SD: Lyon Allen, Kenyetta Richmond, Leslie Barnetti, Faye Fairley
 BK: Larry Hairston, Dustin Bryson (V.P.), Darrick Claiborne, Wayne Teasley (Sec.), Bill Barge (Treas.), Tommy Brown, Melvin Bankhead, Steve Little, Herrell Fields, David Davenport (Pres.)

A.P.P.S. Stage Shows

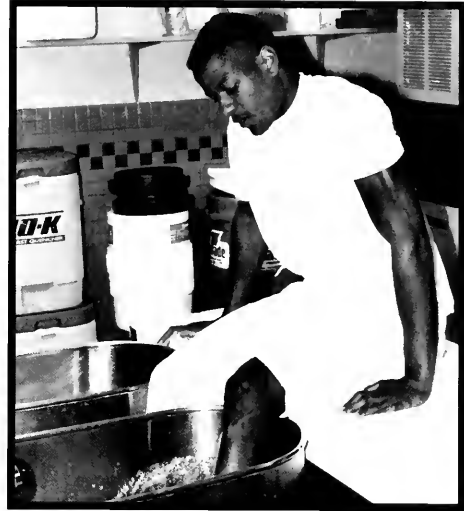

FR: Susan Lee, Amy Adrian, Neha Shah, Cebeaux, John Schriner, Erika Alderson
 SD: Matt McNaney, Stephanie Kidd, Susan Odom, Diane Morrison, Tricia Harvey, Wendy Engelhard, Chris Martin, Dana Deloca
 TD: Sandy Feutz, Della Swain, Heather Carlson, Leah Dick, Shauna Roman, Tonia Patterson
 FT: J.J. Butts, Spencer Knight, Paul Fleetwood, Monisha Poinlani
 FH: Ellen Meachum, Marsha Stiles, Kathy Beaty, Kathleen Pinkston, Mary Alice Askew, Brady Casey, Mark Whitten, Chris Wilson, Billy Mills, Gary Gilbert, Lewis Gunn
 BK: Jason Brooks, Tara Blalock, Susan Granther, Lisa Bullock, Lilana Beasley, Jeremy Loftis, Abby Ebken, Kristen Burns, Adam Eller, Steve Blood, Greg Mosorjak, Sarah Cathey

Photos By: Hak Ung

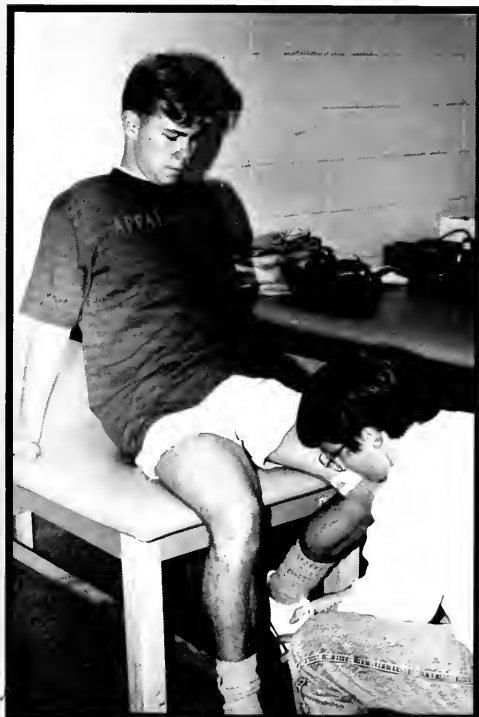

Sports

Trainers

Photos By: Keith Jackson
Steve Wilks testing the water.

John McClure and Hope Hartlien wrapping things up.

The Appalachian State athletic trainers did more than just tape ankles and give the players water at the games. The trainers were in charge of treatment of injuries, rehabilitation, and evaluating injuries when they occurred.

The athletic trainers were assigned to a team when they had completed three out of four levels in the department's competency program. They also had to be recommended by their advisors to be assigned to a team. The trainers stayed with their assigned team for the entire season. They attended every game and practice and conducted treatment and rehabilitation sessions. Being an athletic trainer was like having a full time job, in addition to attending classes.

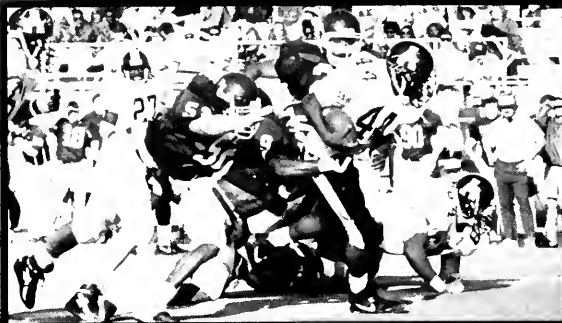

The athletic training program at Appalachian was considered one of the best in the Southeast. The Appalachian graduates had a high pass rate for the National Athletic Trainers Association Certification Exam. Working with the ASU athletic teams gave the trainers the hands-on experience they needed to succeed.

In addition to their regular duties, the trainers were often given the opportunity to watch surgeries performed by area orthopedic surgeons that worked closely with ASU.

Senior trainer Kent Atkins said, "I have gained a lot of valuable knowledge and experience. Hopefully the experience will enable me to get a job in a college setting in the future."

APPALACHIAN FOOTBALL

A Winning Tradition

Give 'em hell Apps! That is exactly what they did, and when it was all over the Mountaineers had captured the Southern Conference Championship.

It started off early in the fall when the Mountaineers defeated Marshall. According to Coach Moore, the win over Marshall got everything rolling for what was to be a great season for the Mountaineers.

The Appalachian football team finished with a regular season record of 8-3, with big wins over conference rivals, Marshall and Furman. The team suffered losses against Clemson and James Madison. The only loss to a conference opponent was to the Citadel, for a total conference record of 6-1.

Several key players stoked the fire of Appalachian's offense. Freshman tailback Chip Hooks led the team's rushing with over 1000 yards, while junior quarterback D. J. Campbell added a strong passing game. Junior field goal kicker Jay Millson led the team's offense in points scored.

The team's defense ensured many of its wins, holding the opponent to under 15 points a total of 5 times. The rock-solid defense held Marshall and Wake Forest to three points a piece. The relatively young Appalachian defensive team was led by the strengths of junior Rico Mack, sophomore Brent David, and senior Gary Dandridge, as well as others.

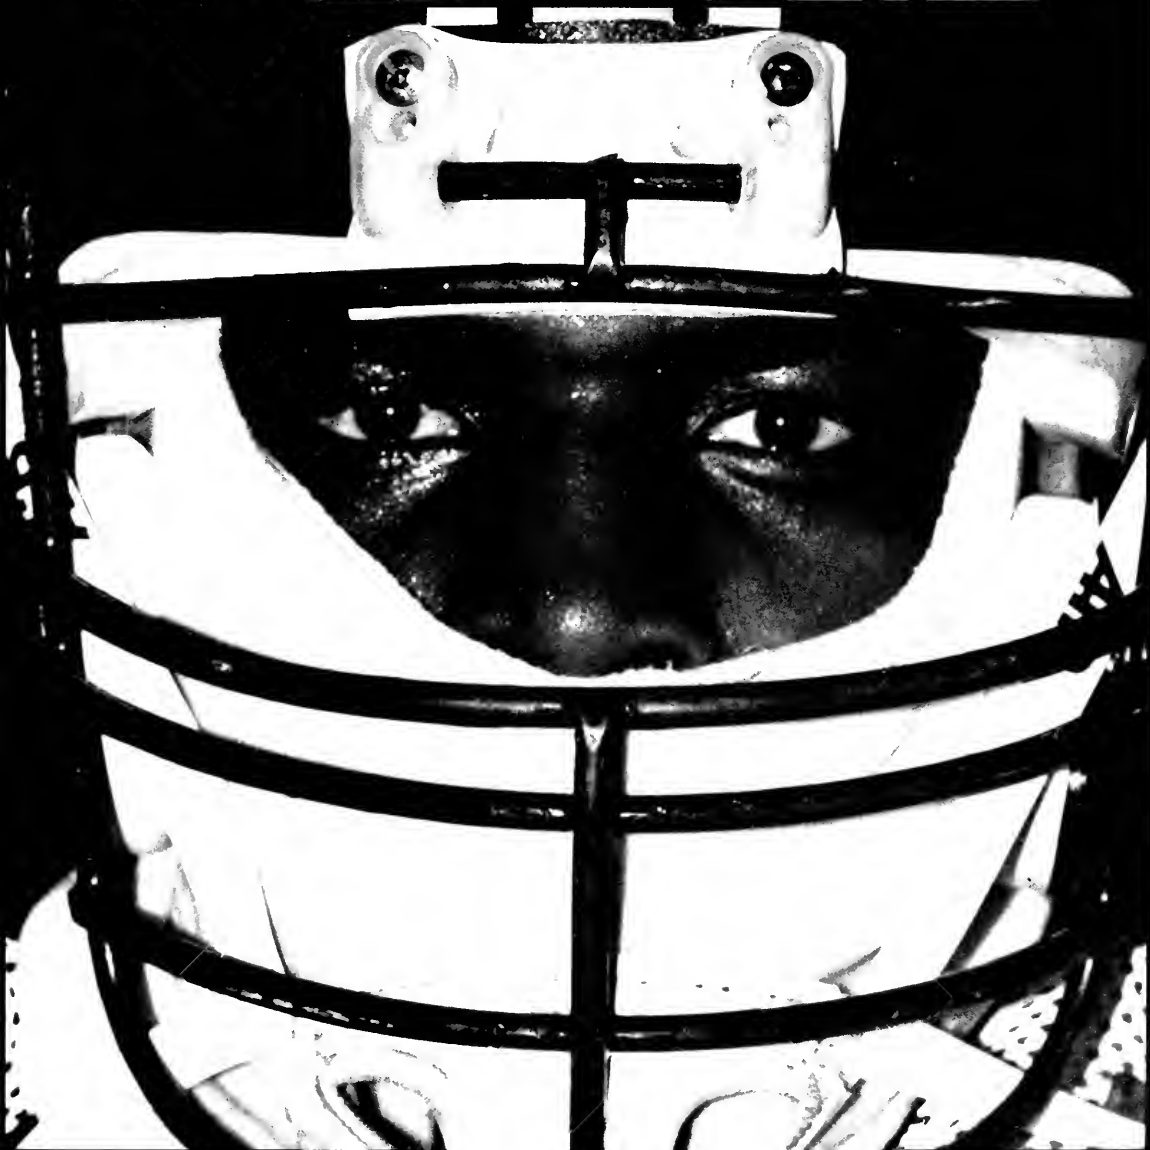

Everyone was on edge when the Mountaineers went into triple overtime with the Furman Paladins. But in the end they came out on top by defeating the Paladins in a game that ended their purple rein over the Southern Conference. "After the shock of the ice water the team threw on me was over, winning the championship was the greatest feeling in my life. I was so happy for the team," said Coach Moore.

According to Mountaineer Coach Jerry Moore, commitment during the off-season, players in top physical condition, and team work were the keys to the Mountaineer's success. Coach Moore said, "There were six teams capable of winning the championship. I am proud we are the sole champions. Every Saturday we had to be ready to play. There was not an easy game on the schedule."

Julie Parham
Scott Plaster

Top Photo: J.K. Reeves pushes forward, determined to make that touchdown.

1991 SOUTHERN CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

Don't mess with RICO MACK!

Photos By : Keith Jackson

ASU Volleyball

In the sport of volleyball there are many important factors that lead to success. Obviously, the team is the focus of the game, therefore, the team must work effectively as a single unit. "The unit is the most important aspect of the game," says Appalachian State University Volleyball Coach, Traci McSee.

As with all undertakings, being a part of the whole has its responsibilities. The coach must be educated in the new techniques and applications of the game to better her abilities and resources as a teacher. The players must be healthy, hard-working, and willing to take action instead of relying on other players to take up the slack.

At ASU, volleyball is and has been a successful area in sports.

Last year the team won the Southern Conference Championship for the regular season. Having procured one championship, the team enthusiastically pursued the Southern National Conference Championship. McSee commented on their next Holly Shambarger prepares to volley.

Photos By Keith Jackson

A Reflection on Success

goal by stating, "The team is definitely a contender for the title."

McCree tried to synthesize a competitive and sportsman-like attitude in the players in order to make them the best team they could be. Along with the hard work and aspirations of their talented coach, the team spent an average of three and a half hours a day plying their skills as team players at practice. The players also spent one to four days a week on the road during the season, during which they spent three to four hours daily in the gym.

The Lady Mountaineers reach for success.

All the energy, hard work, time and passion made the team, as a whole, and as individuals, a success. Team morale took its blows but with time and experience it strengthened. The professional attitudes and personal ties the team had made it the capable and diligent team it had become.

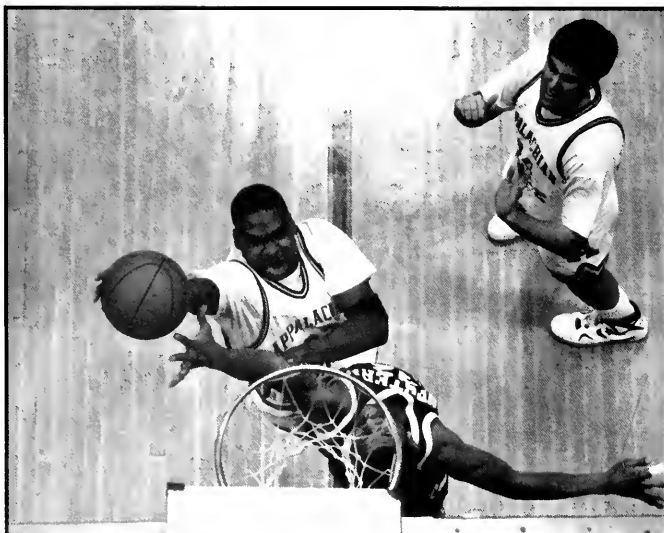

By Nathan Wilson

Men's BASKETBALL

BASKETBALL

Tim Powers # 44 shoots high above the trees.

Steve Spurlock # 32 says, "See Ya !!!!!"

The strength of Appalachian State's 1991-92 men's basketball team was three special senior players: Rodney Peel, Tim Powers, and Steve Spurlock. They helped lead this unique team to a year of enduring efforts and success.

The season started slow with many road games, but eventually picked up momentum as the team ended the latter half of the season with eight home games.

Head Coach Tom Apke, a coach of twenty-seven years, completed his sixth season at ASU. Throughout those six seasons Apke helped turn Appalachian men's basketball into one of the powers of the Southern Conference. Apke said the main focus of the team was to improve defensively. It was a goal worked on all season. The players were thankful to have such a dedicated coach on their side. Apke said, "One of the best parts about coaching has been working with young people in a college setting."

The team continually looked to 6'6" junior, Billy Ross, and 6'8" senior, Steve Spurlock, as its leading scorers.

Spurlock, a forward from Omaha, Nebraska, made all-conference as a junior and became an all-time leading scorer for ASU.

Tim Powers, a center, also from Omaha, was a team starter for two years. He was named to the first-team All Southern Conference Tournament honor squad in his junior year.

Rodney Peel, a guard from Little Rock, Arkansas, underwent reconstructive knee surgery last January. Despite his injury, Peel started every game for which he was eligible. He also broke the career steals record at ASU.

Powers said, "I had an up and down season, but I consistently tried to lead the team by example and do little things to make us better."

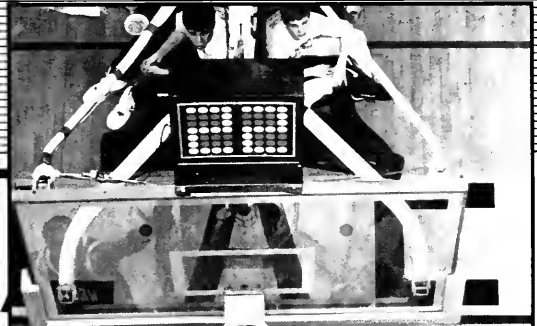

Peel agreed that he, too, "tried to be a leader that the team needed from last year. I played hard and gave all I could in every game."

Spurlock also looked more to playing as a team member and helping his teammates. With a team of twelve members that is certainly what it took. The team unanimously agreed that their camaraderie kept them enthusiastic and always striving to make ASU proud.

Emily C. Baker

Another Appalachian powerhouse move.

A S BASKETB
BASKET
BAS
L BASKET
BASKET
BAS BAS

Go APPS Go !!!!!

Photos By: Keith Jackson

Regina Ikard #11 adds two points to the score.

Women's Women's Women's

Basketball

The 1991-92 women's basketball team was no stranger to winning. In fact, being Southern Conference Champions for five years in a row made them rather accustomed to being on top. Was there some secret ingredient in their success? To hear Mitzi Story tell it, yes and no.

Story, one of the teams' two seniors and captains, played the game for fun. "I've learned to enjoy it (basketball) more. It's not just a pressure thing. I use it to relieve tension."

This casual comment may have led people to believe that basketball was no more than a hobby and a stress reliever. This belief was, of course, not true. The relaxed attitude the players took enhanced their ability to work together as a team. This closeness that the players and Coach Linda Robinson shared was the strength behind the victories on and off the field. As Coach Robinson stated, the aspect she enjoyed most about coaching women's basketball was "the interaction with student athletes and watching them grow over four years. I love basketball but it's much more than that. If you stay in just for love of the game, it's not enough."

The knowledge that the coach really cared about the players as people, as well as team members caused "discipline, self-control, and respect" on the parts of both the team and Coach Robinson. The knowledge that "the coach does know a little more than you do" and the "openness of Coach Robinson and her willingness to listen to your ideas" caused the team to try harder. This closeness and open-mindedness was the secret ingredient to the success of women's basketball.

"Basketball has helped me learn how to work together with people. It transfers over to other aspects. The team becomes a family," said Story. In her four years playing at Appalachian State, Story was an expert on the benefits of basketball.

This year was a struggle. The leading player, senior Shannon Thomas, had reconstructive surgery on both knees and was unable to play. Being unable to play basketball had been rough on Thomas and the team. Despite such setbacks, however, the Lady Mountaineers rose to the occasion. Through Coach Robinson's confidence, assurance, and the close relationship she had with the players, the Lady Mountaineers were still at the top.

Amy Lyndon

Shannon Thomas #20 helps Appalachian win another one.

The Lady Mountaineers turn on the "D".

Two more for ASU.

Photos By: Keith Jackson

Photos By: Ron Seils
Russell Mutz cheers the Mountaineers to victory.

Just how much talent, training, and hard work did it take to do 48 push-ups in one football game? For the Appalachian State cheerleaders it took three days a week of strenuous practice plus two to three days a week of weight training to delight the crowd with cheers, stunts, and do not forget, all those push-ups.

Great cheerleading was a tradition at Appalachian. They had many awards to their name including: '86 and '89 Division I National Cheerleading Champions, '87-'88 Division I Third Place National Cheerleading Champions, '90 Division I Fifth Place National Cheerleading Champions, and Southern Conference Champions '85-'88.

Most people did not realize that the cheerleaders did more than cheer at games. They also led students and fans at the Midnight Yell, entertained parents at pre-game Family Day activities, and welcomed alumni back at Homecoming. The cheerleaders also attended an invitation-only national competition.

The seniors on the squad were Ken Hill, Roddy Cobb, Amy Drumheller, and Russell Mutz. Senior Russell Mutz commented on his first and last year to cheer the mountaineers to victory: "My only regret is that I didn't try out before this year. I have never had as much fun or worked as hard at anything, and I love it."

Faith Fowler
Julie Parham

Senior Amy Drumhelle gets the crowd pepped up.

SOCCER

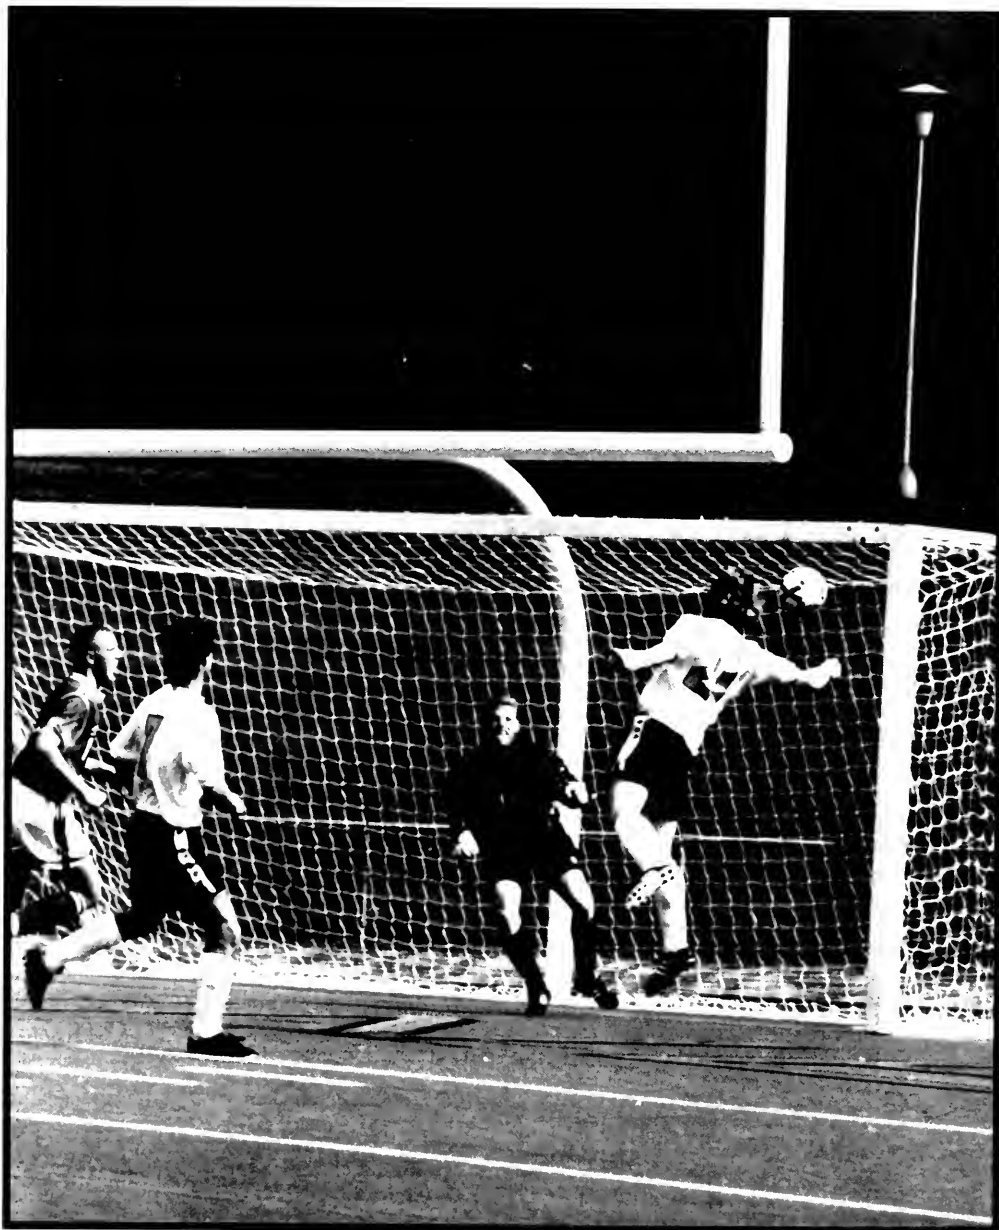

Another ASU goal. Photos by: Keith Jackson

The Appalachian State men's soccer team finished second in the conference and had a good season in spite of the difficulties associated with such an unseasoned team.

Out of 1990's fourteen member lineup, eleven were seniors, leaving only three returning starters: Ashley Good, Jason Levergood, and Kevin Malmfelt. Underclassmen and many freshmen were selected to be starters and immediately given the responsibility of key positions on the field. Foreign exchange students also played a large role as the starting members.

Aside from age and experience, learning to work together and "gel" as a team was the team's weakness. The new faces had to be associated with positions that would apply to the strengths of the players. Each member had to learn how to work with the other teammates, and the team had to work as a whole in order to create a style of its own. This took a lot of time and effort, but by the end of the season, an effective rhythm was finally established. Head Coach Art Rex was feeling good about his team and said, "I'm proud of the team. They have kept their heads up through the first and middle part of the season."

Coach Rex also commented on the strong assets of the team. He said David Terry (the leading goal scorer), as well as goalies, Ashley Good and Earl Morgan, had "great performances". Rex also described Bobby Martin, Brian Jillings and Joel Nesbitt as providing the team with energetic and effective leadership. The 1992 season will hold many promising hopes as only three starters will be leaving the team. All of the molding and determination would be rewarded soon enough.

Which way did it go?

A S U ' S B E S T

WOMEN'S

SOCCER

The Lady Mountaineers led a strong attack against their opponents.
Photos By: Keith Jackson

Is winning always the ultimate goal of a sport? Ask some fans and they will tell you yes. But what would a player's answer be? If you would have asked a member of women's club soccer, the answer would have been no. The team consisted of twenty-four players, including five seniors. Their record was fair, with an impressive win over the University of Tennessee at Knoxville and a tie with Clemson. "We're better than our record shows. We have a talented team," said sophomore Erica Freas.

The best thing about playing club soccer, said Freas, was the companionship and the competition. In club soccer, players had a chance at some fierce competition while having fun with friends at the same time. The players often got together outside of practice and games to have dinner or just to hang out. A sense of support embodied the players and made them a strong and confident team.

The seniors were the strength of the team, some who had been players for four or five years. Seniors Melissa Gibson and Shelley Oberle were the main scorers. However, the younger players continued to look to the future and to the opportunity of utilizing their experience and becoming the new team leaders.

Amy Lyndon

The Lady Mountaineers were a force to be reckoned with.

WOMEN'S

FIELD HOCKEY

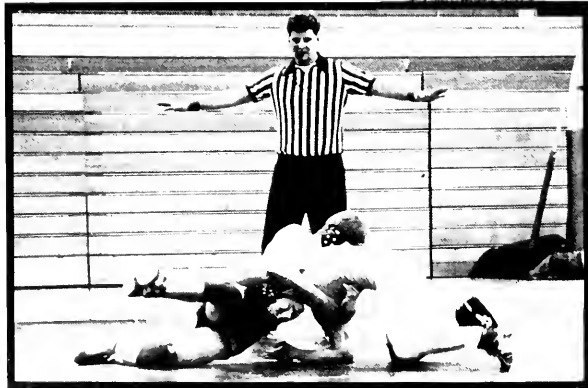

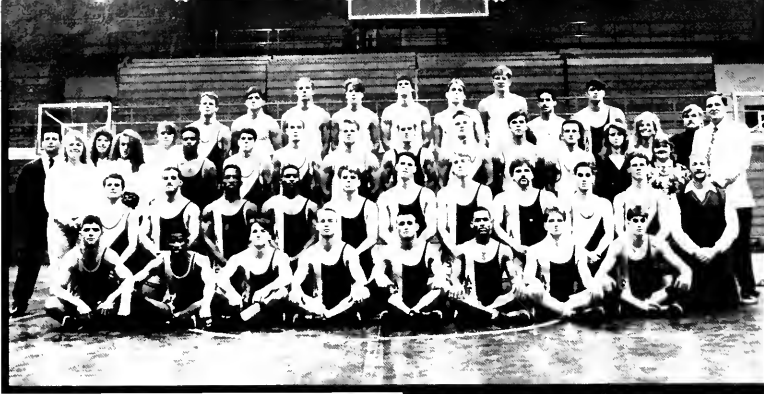

Run! Run! Score for the Lady Mountaineers.
Photos By: Keith Jackson

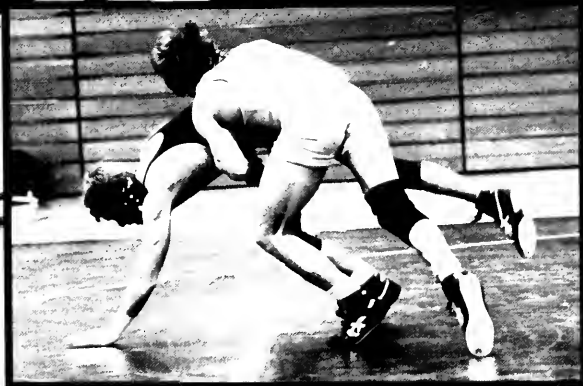

Members of the Women's Field Hockey team rest on the sidelines during a grueling match.

Pam Tingley

Men's WRESTLING

Most people would describe wrestling as something between brute strength and barroom brawling. The last thing they would say is that wrestling is like gymnastics. However, according to ASU wrestling coach Paul Mance, "college wrestling basically is a very competitive, demanding, skillful sport that in a lot of ways is similar to gymnastics." The key to wrestling is body control: not only of the wrestler's own body, but also of his opponent's body. The winner is the one that has skill, not necessarily strength. Coach Mance said, "Brute strength is only good if you're skillful. Skill will win over power. A skillful wrestler will use your strength against you."

In order to gain this skill, wrestlers must learn hundreds of moves. Over half of wrestling practice was devoted to teaching wrestling moves and drilling them to the point that they are automatic.

Wrestling is also a demanding sport. Unlike football, where players are active for "15 seconds and then rest for 45", wrestling is continuous action for "seven minutes that demands all of the body, all of the time." Senior Adrian Hines said that the season "takes its toll, physically and then mentally." What kept Hines motivated: "I like to win. If you're unprepared, you'll lose."

Appalachian grapplers were good at winning. Paul Mance attributed the success of his program to recruiting. "Recruiting is a big majority of whether you win or lose." He also felt that good discipline, attitude, and "wrestlers that want to work hard" are important. He felt that "you always give 100% and always do your best to win at all cost. Never be satisfied with losing. There is always a way to win. You may not win today, but work hard and win tomorrow." Competition was also important: "You can't win if you don't compete."

One of ASU's most competitive wrestlers was Adrian Hines. By his senior year, Hines had been a two-time National qualifier and had placed 13th in the NCAA. Paul Mance said that Hines is "a tremendous athlete" and that "he can go as far as he wants to go." Hines said that "wrestling is demanding, but I love it. Most wrestlers you talk to will tell you they love it." Another senior, Jeff Brinker, did not wrestle his junior year because he served at Fort Bragg during the Persian Gulf War. However, he came back to wrestle his senior year. According to Coach Mance, senior Jason Stock could also be a major part of the program.

As for the future of ASU wrestling, Mance was optimistic. "We're glad to have the kids we have. They'll go a long way. They're led by good kids. I'm looking forward to it."

Bryan Garrett

Just for the fun of football! That's why the ASU club football players practiced for hours and spent their own money traveling to games. The ASU club football team played other club football teams, plus semi-pro teams and some Division-III teams.

Winning championships was a tradition for ASU club football. The team had won eight out of the past eleven years. The winning tradition continued, even though the 1991 season got off to a slow start. The team was shut out by NC-State, which was the first time in the history of ASU club football that the team had not scored in a game. The 1991 team was a young team with only eleven veteran players.

Ted Dean started club football at ASU. He moved here from UNCC and coached for three years. He was joined by Steve Giader who coached with him jointly and then took over.

Steve Giader talked about his eleven years of experience coaching the team. "I taped, coached, and I sometimes played mother and father to the guys." Giader said that the coaching part was not hard because the guys coached themselves.

Twelve of the team's thirty-five players were seniors. Senior Gayland Henson said, "Club football was great. I met good friends. It was like a fraternity, but better." Club football gave people who were not fortunate enough to make the varsity team a chance to play and still enjoy the sport.

Julie Parham

ASU Club Football interrupts State's Pack Attack.
Photo By: Darrell Laughlin

Rugby was a sport that many considered hard to comprehend. There were 35 men in top physical condition that certainly understood the game. They were the Appalachian State club rugby team.

The club rugby team traveled to play other universities in the South. They also played their alumni at their annual alumni game on Homecoming each year. The alumni held the winning record.

The 1991 season was one of the best for ASU club rugby. They started it off by winning a summer tournament. They also had a winning regular season. The team was not only known for winning games, but also for their great parties after the games. Club Rugby was sponsored by London Calling, a local bar, that displayed their pictures and trophies.

Senior club rugby player David Spencer said, "I wish I could stay and play. To me it is the best part about ASU."

Julie Parham

Blood, sweat, and cheers for ASU Club Rugby.
Photo By: Darrell Laughlin

club rugby

Baseball

The Appalachian State baseball team faced its hardest schedule in Coach Jim Morris' 18 years of coaching at Appalachian. According to Coach Morris in order to help the team be successful, with its difficult schedule, he counted on his key senior players: relief pitchers John McAulay and Jim Epler, Joe Bernard at first base, and Paul O'Neil in the infield. "The seniors will be a major influence on the young players that have not been through a season before," said Morris.

Coach Morris said the team had three strong points: pitching, defense, and speed. The veteran pitching staff helped the team greatly. Two junior college transfers strengthened the defense and their increased speed helped carry the team to victory.

The team only had two things that worked against them; they were inexperienced offensively and they had four key injuries. The team lost 6 starters from the past season, leaving its offense inexperienced. According to Coach Morris, "We will count on the two experienced hitters to provide leadership and peer coaching to help in certain situations."

Julie Parham

Everyone is at there position for the practice came.
Photots by: Paul Lampe

at ASU

Men's

Imagine, if you will, that you can drive a golf ball straight down the fairway and a long way, too. Also, imagine what it would be like to never miss a green, and never three-putt.

Members of Appalachian State's golf team consistently play at that level. For those of you who don't play, but do watch golfers on TV, there's not that much difference between the pros and ASU's top players.

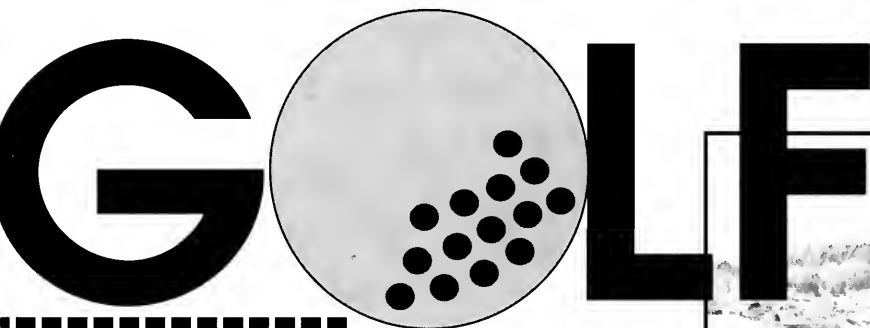

In fact, a former Appalachian golfer, Jay Jamison, hoped to turn pro and join his famous father in the ranks of the prestigious. The team had an excellent season. They won the Cardinal Invitational Tournament at Guilford College. The team also had other high finishes.

Brian Marshburn and senior Travis Isaacs commented about the team's coach, Sam Adams. "Due to extenuating circumstances, our coach endeavored personal problems but was still able to maintain regular practice and do an outstanding job."

According to senior Buddy Lewis, the team "also had a lot of help from a person currently playing at the pro level, Andrew Pitts." Combine those pointers with the coach's guidance and hours of practice each day, not to mention talent, and you have what it takes to become a successful golfer.

For those who can't obtain all these ingredients, you can still have lots of fun on the links.

-Scott Plaster

Photos By: Paul Lampe

Women's

Under the leadership of Coach David Osburn, Appalachian State's women's golf team survived a season full of up's and down's. The team had one senior, Pam Barringer, and six other players: Leslee Gainey, Wesley Hobbs, Mary Louise Lytton, Amy Mouser, Kimberly O'Brian, and Ellen Marie Stewart.

Unfortunately, one of the team's best players, Amy Mouser, was injured most of the first semester. Coach Osburn said, "I hope the scores and finishes will be a lot better as our better players get healthy."

The team played in several key tournaments. They played in the Peggy Kirk Invitational in Winter Park, Florida, and the Charleston National in Mt. Pleasant, South Carolina.

The team made a strong comeback in the spring, showing the players' determination and love of the game.

-Scott Plaster

Women's

Appalachian State's women's tennis program finally got some of the attention it deserved when it was separated from the men's program and received its own coach. Gene Fields was moved from assistant-coach of both the men's and women's tennis team to head coach of the women's. According to Coach Fields, the separation of the teams was a necessary step for the program to go places.

The women's tennis team played in the spring and in the fall. Emphasis was placed on the women playing their best, instead of on them winning or losing. "I just want the players to play their best regardless of whether they win or lose," said Coach Fields.

The women's tennis team had a high level of skill that was not taken advantage of by tennis fans at ASU. According to Coach Fields, "Regardless of conference championships or lack thereof, there is a very high skill level of women's tennis here. It is unsettling to see no spectators. Tennis fans would enjoy live competitive matches that are quite good."

Regardless of its small following, with the help and guidance of Coach Fields, the women's tennis team continued to strengthen and will certainly be a force to be reckoned with in the Southern Conference.

- Julie Parham

Pictured:
Coach Gene Fields
Kimberley Fritts,
Jennifer Krueger,
Kendra Stallings,
Alice Heidgerd,
Julie Sullivan,
Brittany Schwartz,
Jamy Roberts

TENNIS

Men's

Photos By: Paul Lampe

Don't ever ask Dr. Mike Kernobel, the men's tennis coach, about his team's record because he won't tell you. In Dr. Kernobel's words, "I never mention records, ever." When asked why he doesn't focus on whether the team wins or loses, Dr. Kernobel said if the team won, fine. If they lost, that was okay, too. "The main emphasis I place on the men's team is to give their best shot," said Kernobel.

Kernobel knew, however, exactly what his athletes' academic records were. The members of the tennis team were never allowed to let their grades slip due to playing a sport. "We have the highest academics of any sports team," said Kernobel. This claim was no boast. In the Fall of '91, several of the athletes were on the Dean's list.

Kernobel's goal for this year's men's tennis team was for his players to become well-rounded, assured, and disciplined. When they graduated from Appalachian State, Kernobel wanted them to have a firm foundation upon which to build success in life.

This did not mean that the men's tennis team did not work hard. In order to do their best while playing, the athletes had to do their best while practicing. Under Dr. Kernobel's direction, individual athletes learned to improve and perfect certain moves and strategies. Seeing a new player come to ASU learn how to play the game of tennis and seeing him get better and better, "seeing the light go on in his eyes, saying 'I've got it!'" was what Dr. Kernobel enjoyed most about coaching men's tennis.

"I've got a bunch of real good, hard-working kids who do well on the court, but who are extremely high in academics and a group that is fun to be around," Kernobel said. The feeling was mutual.

Men's Track

Photos by: Paul Lampe

The men's track team set high goals for themselves in the 1992 season. Fortunately, throughout the year, they reached and even surpassed many of those under the support and direction of Head Coach Al Fereshetian.

Fereshetian ended his fourth year, reaching a milestone in his career at ASU. His first group of team members graduated this year. "It was real exciting to watch this group graduate. There have been many ups and downs, but because of numerous hardships, they are better and so am I. They will be hard to replace."

The team was led by eleven seniors. Jon Fullen, from Meadowview, Virginia, was one of the team's lethal weapons. He was a defending champion in the conference in the high and long jump, with strong abilities to score in several events. Frank Allen, a returning Southern Conference MVP, was a top contender in relays. ASU was proud to hold the two best hurdlers in the conference, Lawrence Lloyd and Kedrick Ford. Linell Johnson was a defending champion in the Southern Conference in the long jump, while Todd Walters and Steve Simandle excelled in the 3000m steeple-chase. Simandle, the defending Southern Conference runner-up, held the third all-time ASU record with a time of 9:16. Dave Ess was a top runner in the 800m and mile. Rob Grant set a new school record in the javelin, as Mike Bowers continued to excel in cross country meets. And Eric Joe, the team's captain, remained a large component of relays. His experience made him an excellent sprinter.

The team also gained recognition in the classroom, steadily raising its GPA over the last three years. With success like that, it was obvious why Fereshetian thrived in the competition of athletics. Joe also believed competition was the best part of running for ASU. "We now want to teach the younger guys to be good competitors. As we seniors leave, we want them to think positive and move in some direction." There was no doubt that after being influenced by this group of seniors, the team would continue to move in great directions.

The question is who jumped the fartherest?

OR

John

Eric

But... the question is who ran the fastest?

OR

Monica

Sherry

Women's Track

Photos by: Paul Lampe

"Practice makes perfect." The women's track team at Appalachian State knew the meaning of that phrase. Their individual events, as well as team events, were successful because of the dedication and perseverance of the athletes.

Every participant realized that teamwork was the only key to success. Being a part of the track team required patience and determination to be the best. According to Coach John Weaver, "The women show great spirit and dedication this track season. I hope we continue to win the Southern Conference and I plan to send runners on to the NCAA Championships."

The 1991-1992 track season officially began on September 7. The early practice gave runners and field athletes time to prepare for the meets ahead. These practices paid off since three school records were broken. Senior Michelle Rhyne broke the shot-put record by throwing 42'-4 1/2". Julie Anderson, Dee Anna Davis, Jessica Parkham, and Carrie Robinson broke the school record for the distance medley relay when they ran a 12:50.3. Tania Free, Lynette Gardin, Tonia Lazenby, and Monica Teeter ran a 4:14.9 in the sprint medley relay.

The Lady Mountaineers strived for perfection and they continued to be the best in their events.

THE RHODODENDRON

STAFF

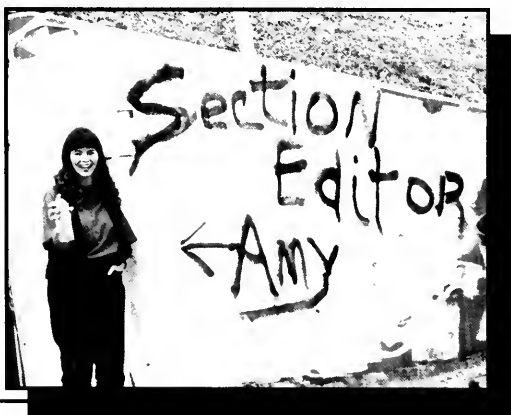

My biggest wish as Editor-in-Chief is that everyone out there could understand just how much hard work was put into creating this Rhododendron. We all spent many long hours compiling a yearbook that some people thought would not even exist. I enjoyed working with a talented staff who managed to survive all of the turmoil of the past year. Everybody picked up the slack when it mattered the most. Thanks to David for coming in and giving us advice when we needed it, and thanks to Dino for helping all of us during the chaos. This was quite a memorable year!

-Deanna Murray

Meeting and working with new people was the most enjoyable part of working for the Rhododendron. The experience was very beneficial and one that I will not forget.

-Julie A. Parham

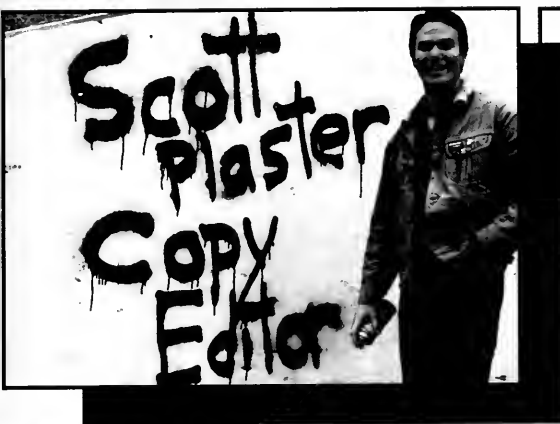

I enjoyed meeting people. Whenever I wrote a story and interviewed someone for it, I discovered someone that, otherwise, I never would have met. I also had the chance to brush up on my writing. I find that I can now write better and faster.

-Amy Lyndon

I learned a lot working for the Rhododendron and enjoyed 90% of it. Thanks to the other staff members. I'm outta here.

-Don Redding

Working with David Freeman, director of student publications, has been a very enriching experience. He is a man full of wisdom, knowledge, and encouragement.

Finding other people's errors is no problem; it's recognizing your own that's the hard part.

-Scott Plaster

I've just got a couple of things to say about yearbook this year: 1) I am genuinely surprised that it came together this well considering the budget cuts and the new book format. 2) I'm glad that we got to produce the first ever issue of the Equinox to reign alongside the Rhododendron. I'm very glad to have been part of this organization this year and I hope to do it all again next year!

-Darrell Laughlin

This is my second year with the Rhodo and I still can't say Rhododendron little along spell it.. I have had a great year at school and with the staff. To everyone on the staff thanks for everything and God bless everyone at ASU!!

-Keith T. Jackson

The on-the-job experience that I learned while working for the Rhododendron cannot be measured in numbers. Meeting constant deadlines outside of class added pressure but the friendships gained made it worthwhile.

-Charlie St. Clair

Imagination + Long hours + Hard work + Pizza + Agreements + Disagreements + Computers (Thank God for the MAC!) + New Friends = The Rhodo Staff

-Robin M. Hilliard

Michelle Abrams (102)
 Adena A. Absher (98)
 Antonia Adams (101)
 J. D. Adams (106)
 Taylor Adams (107)
 Amy Adrian (109)
 Todd Andrew Akins (50)
 Dale Albright (102)
 Kim Allen (105)
 Lyon Allen (109)
 Melissa Aller (99)
 Vanessa Alston (101, 105)
 Timothy Anders (99)
 Erika Anderson (109)
 Patricia Anderson (101)
 Sandy Anderson (105)
 Michael Andrew (98)
 Ben Armstrong (107)
 Kevin Armstrong (108)
 Shawn Asa (50)
 Jim Ash (102)
 Mary Alice Askew (109)
 Rommel Aterza (107)
 Gina Austin (105)
 Judith Michelle Austin (50)
 Judy Austin (100)
 Aaron Bachenheimer (107)
 Chip Baggett (106)
 Emily Baker (15, 93, 105, 116,134)
 Leon Baker (102)
 Melvin Bankhead (109)
 Teri Barber (103)
 Jay Barefoot (107)
 Bill Barge (109)
 Tim Barker (108)
 Jim Barker (47)
 Trent Barrier (106)
 Scott Barnes (106)
 Leslie Barnett (106)
 Leslie Barnetti (109)
 Nancy Bartenstein (102)
 Robert Barton (106)
 Hop Barwick (103)
 Tom Beaman (104)
 Beth Bearman (105)
 Lilana Beasley (109)
 Kathy Beaty (98, 109)
 Cleopatra Bell (105)
 Keith Bell (106)
 Jamie Bennet (105)
 Dorothy Berni (108)
 Trent Berrier (106)
 Kathryn Beroth (50,105)
 Brigett Beyth (100)
 Brant Bibbers (107)
 Patrick Billings (103)
 Terry S. Bishop (106)
 Jenni Black (107)
 Wendy Blair (105)
 Betsy Blalock (104)
 Tara Blalock (109)
 Drew Blanchard (106)
 Steve Blood (109)
 Tracy Bodenheimer (101)
 Luka Bollinger (101)
 Jamie Bondur (12)
 Leah J. Bost (50)
 Brad Bostic (106)
 Paul T. Bowder (98)
 Debra Boyd (105)
 Rusty Boyd (98, 99)
 Jamie Boyer (107)
 Steve Brady (101, 104)
 Anne Mane Breede (99)
 Neil Brettain (99)
 Jason Brooks (109)
 Nicolee Brown (103)
 Tammy Brown (109)
 Jason Bruno (5)
 Chris Bryant (107)
 Dustin Bryson (109)
 Jonathan Buff (94)
 Lisa Bulloch (50,98, 109)
 Melissa Bunch (105)
 Sandra Burchette (50)

Eddie Burgess (99)
 Kristen Burns (109)
 Michael Butler (107)
 J. J. Butts (109)
 Teresa Byrd (99)
 Wes Calbreath (102)
 Amy Caldwell (101)
 Helen Calhoun (105)
 Lori Cannon (103)
 April Canter (105)
 P. J. Caplan (107)
 Cindy Carloni (107)
 Heather Carlson (109)
 Rich Carpenter (106)
 Tracy Carrier (101, 104)
 Rob Carrington (100)
 Troy Carroll (107)
 Rebecca Cashwell (105)
 Brady Casey (109)
 Sarah Cathey (109)
 Mike Cawthon (106)
 Chris Chaffin (99)
 Jason Chamberlain (95)
 Brown Chapman (100)
 Leigh Chatagrier (105)
 Meling Cheng (102)
 David Cheyney (102)
 Paula Childers (108)
 Jessica Chitwood (101)
 Jamie Christenbury (104)
 Candy Chuck (105)
 Darrick Claiborne (109)
 Neil Clark (103)
 Peter Clark (106)
 Mark Clodfelter (103)
 Manuel Cobo (100)
 Mandi Coe (101)
 Jon Coffin (107)
 Kristen Cogswell (102)
 Crystal Coleman (99)
 Stephe Coleridge (102)
 Matt Copley (107)
 Nick Coppedge (106)
 Donna Corpening (101, 105)
 Darah Couch (105)
 Cindy Council (105)
 Jerry Courtney (107)
 Chip Coxe (106)
 Nathalie Cozon (105)
 Chris Craven (100)
 Judie Craven (99, 105)
 Caroline Crawford (105)
 Lesley Creamer (105)
 Henry Crede (105)
 Lisa Crede (105)
 Amy Creech (107)
 Marc Cribbs (107)
 Michael Crutchfield (103)
 Emily Culbreath (103)
 Julie Cunningham (105)
 John Cushing (106)
 Kavid Davenport (109)
 Adrienne Davis (106,109)
 Ali Davis (107)
 Jeff Davis (107)
 Dana Deloca (109)
 Leah Dick (107)
 Marcy Dion (107)
 Rick Dobbins (106)
 Mike Dodson (107)
 Everett Dorsette (50)
 Hope Duckworth (137)
 Chris Ebel (107)
 Abby Ebken (109)
 Mike Ecker (106)
 Cameron Edwards (107)
 Nader Elguindi (51,106)
 Adam Eller (109)
 Britt Dixon Ellis (51)
 Howard Ellis (106)
 Wendy Engelhard (109)
 Bill Eskridge (107)
 Tarah Estes (122)
 Darren Eubanks (107)
 Faye Fairley (109)

Cathy J. Fergusson (51)
 Sandy Feutz (109)
 Herrell Fiedds (109)
 Melissa Fitz-Simons (51)
 Brian Fjeld (109)
 Paul Fleetword (109)
 Marty Flowers (106)
 Mark Forbes (107)
 Vaughn Ford (107)
 Tania Lynn Free (51)
 Kimberly Fritts (133)
 Phil Fraley (106)
 Kevin Frost (107)
 Jonh Fullman (135)
 Pam Gaddy (24)
 Ole Gade (98)
 Laura Gaerther (105)
 Heather Gagmon (105)
 Ricardo Galan (100)
 Mike Garner (100)
 Bryan Garrett (49, 126,127)
 Karen Garrett (108)
 Wendy Gay (105)
 Gebeause (100)
 Jennifer Gentile (105)
 Steve Gentry (106)
 Geuilhem (100)
 Daryl Ghent (4, 51, 96, 104)
 Gary Gilbert (109)
 Charles Glenn (106)
 Ashley Good (108)
 Brian Goodman (107)
 Walter Goodwyn (106)
 Bryan Goodyear (107)
 John Gotti (107)
 Natalie Goyon (18)
 Melissa Gragg (105)
 Juan Granados (106)
 Susan Granther (109)
 Michelle Greene (102)
 Rance Greene (24)
 Robin Griffen (105)
 Shea Griffin (88)
 Janice Griffin (32)
 Cindy Grimes (18,20, 27, 28, 29, 47, 95, 49)
 Gaelle Guerard (100)
 Jamie Guffey (106)
 Missy Guffey (105)
 Dan Gurley (105)
 Sara anne Hadley (51)
 Allen Hager (106)
 Larry Hairston (106,109)
 Cameron Hall (107)
 Davis Hall (106)
 Wade Hall (106)
 Brian Hallman (107)
 Andrea Long Hanner (51)
 Tony Harris (106)
 Hope Hartlien (111)
 Bryon K. Hartzog (52)
 Tricia Harvey (109)
 Alice Heidgerd (133)
 Allen Helms (106)
 Gary Henderson (106)
 Sabrina Hill (137)
 Robin Hilliard (141)
 David Hillton (106)
 John Hogg (52)
 Robert Houk (106)
 Mary Howard (109)
 James Hucke (106)
 Abby Huffman (107)
 Kristin Hunicke (108)
 Mike Ecker (106)
 Regina Ikard (118)
 Wanjiru Ikuu (106)
 Jason Ingle (106)
 Keith Jackson (111,113,114,17,119,122,124,125,141)
 Brad James (107)
 Brian Janice (106)
 Mimca Jarvis (106)
 Lara Jenkins (52)
 Scott Jenkins (107)

Steve Jenkins (107)
 Amy R. Johnson (52)
 Jay Johnson (107)
 Jennifer Johnson (107)
 Kelley Johnson (107)
 Ted Johnson (107)
 Brian Jones (106)
 Wendy Joyce (107)
 Paul Kaplan (107)
 Robert Kasserman (52)
 Stephanie Kidd (109)
 Derek King (108)
 Doug Kinser (107)
 Adam Kirby (107)
 Spencer Knight (109)
 Kristen Kostelinik (52)
 Jennifer Krueger (133)
 Matt Kyle (107)
 Paul Lampe (130,137)
 Brad La Rue (107)
 Jon Lancaster (40, 106)
 Jamar R. Lane (108)
 John Lanier (99)
 Ted Lantaff (100)
 Brad Larson (107)
 Jeff Larstonda (106)
 Darrell Laughlin (17, 21, 22, 94, 129, 128,141)
 Chrystal Laws (102)
 Donna Laws (101)
 Joy Lynn Leake (103)
 Carol Lee (100, 103)
 Susan Lee (109)
 Chris Leonard (107)
 Melissa Le Quire (105)
 Angela D. Lewis (106)
 Roy Lightfoot (52)
 Rachel L' Hommedieu (105)
 Rob Libbert (106)
 Roy Lightfoot (102)
 Neil Lineback (98)
 Stephanie Lineberry (103)
 Steve Little (109)
 Jeremy Loftis (109)
 Mark Loggins (98)
 Chet Longley (47)
 Eric Lubson (101)
 Tim Luper (102)
 Valerie Lutz (105)
 Amy Lyndon (35, 36, 39, 92, 97, 118, 124,133, 140)
 Rico Mack (113)
 Michelle Maddy (99)
 Tracy Magnum (101)
 Mac Mahaffee (107)
 Tricia Mahoney (108)
 Julie Mabe (52)
 Elissa D. Mackie (53)
 Michael Malinovsky (49)
 Scott Marek (106)
 Robin Martimek (108)
 Bobby Martin (103,108)
 Chris Martin (109)
 Gerald Martin (106)
 Sims Martin (102,103, 105)
 Lisa Maslow (103)
 Allyson Mauldin (103)
 Stephan Mauney (49)
 Billy Maupin (98)
 Mike Mayfield (98)
 Amy McCall (105)
 Laura McCallum (107)
 Jenny McClellan (2,17,33,35,43,90,91)
 John McClure (106)
 Steve McConnell (102)
 Ken McFadyen (106)
 Jerie McHale (97,104)
 April McKie (105)
 Bobby McMillan (98)
 Matt McNaney (99,109)
 Ida E. McNiell (99)
 Ellen Meachum (53,98,109)
 David Mehesh (100)
 Kristen Meredith (103)

Charles Merrill (141)
 Greg Merrill (103)
 Jason E. Meyer (106)
 Paul Meza (100)
 Hollie Michael (98)
 Lynn E. Midkiff (53)
 Tamara Miles (105)
 Ashley Miller (99,105)
 Chris Miller (107)
 Christie Miller (98)
 Billy Mills (109)
 Damon Mills (106)
 Michelle Mills (98)
 Chad Mirneel (91)
 Alex Mistri (107)
 Clay Monroe (106)
 Lisha Moore (106)
 Kara Morch (100)
 David Morris (107)
 Dawn Morris (100)
 Diane Morrison (109)
 Leslie Morrison (102)
 Greg Mosorjak (109)
 Emily Morten (105)
 Mike Moss (106)
 P. Rogers Motley (98)
 Kelly Motsinger (102)
 Roland Moy (100)
 Kelly Moxley (88)
 Pamela Munday (103)
 Eric Munsell (107)
 Reggie Murphy (53,18,96,104)
 Deanna Murray (7, 53,140)
 Kathleen Murray (105)
 Mike Mustafa (107)
 Russell Mutz (121)
 Debbie Myers (105)
 Jennifer Nance (103)
 Lisa Narducci (107)
 Bobby Newell (91)
 Marnie Nicholson (52,102)
 Lynn Norwood (100)
 Christina Nowak (53)
 Kim Oberle (100)
 Shelley Oberle (53)
 Kelly O'Brien (104)
 Billy Oakes (107)
 Jennifer O'Connor (104)
 Susan Odom (109)
 Suzanne Odom (105)
 Jen Okun (105)
 Deborah Osterhoudt (54)
 Boyd Overman (107)
 John Owens (106)
 Amy Ozment (107)
 Alicia Pace (105)
 Ranae Padgett (105)
 Amy Page (15)
 Julie Parham (9,10,11,13,26,
 ,33,40,41,30,11
 1,112,121,128,129,130,133,140)
 Renee Paricio (99)
 Kim Parks (105)
 Tammy Parks (100)
 Parlier (101)
 Jonny Parnell (101)
 Stephanie Pass (105)
 Annette Paterson (105)
 Steve Patterson (106)
 Tonia Patterson (109)
 Regina Payne (101)
 Angela Peacock (105)
 Beth Pearce (100)
 Kelly Peck (99, 102)
 T.J. Peck (99)
 Julie Penn (105)
 Gina Perkins (101)
 Tracy Peterson (20)
 Haley Phifer (107)
 Chrissie Phillips (105)
 Pat Phillips (99)
 Stephen Phillips (100)
 Tammy Phillips (105)
 Tedra Picontinc (103)
 Christina Pierce (99)

John Pigg (107)
 Kathleen Pinkston (109)
 Scott Plaster (34,37,42,112,132,141)
 Monisha Poinlani (109)
 Lurl Poole (107)
 Ricky Poole (102)
 Stefania Osk Porisd (100)
 Tim Powers (116)
 Mike Prachee (102)
 Belinda Price (107)
 Drew Pruitt (106)
 Jill Pruitt (104)
 Colette Pumphrey (100)
 Tracy Shea Quinones (100)
 Precious Quire (101)
 Les Ramsey (107)
 Jane Rapallo (105)
 Curtis Raper (107)
 Mutt Raymer (107)
 Rebecca Reagan (14,97)
 Drew Reavis (106)
 Don Redding (140)
 J. K. Reeves (112)
 Jeff Reid (103)
 Ty Reid (107)
 Deanne Renner (103)
 Jennifer Reynolds (100)
 Art Rese (98)
 Randy Riddle (103)
 Jennifer Rhodes (105)
 Travis Rhodes (106)
 Kimberly Richardson (100)
 Kenyeta Richmond (109)
 Mark Ridenhour (107)
 Jennifer Rimmer (14,97,105)
 Bett Rissmiller (54,102)
 Tim Riviello (107)
 Jim Roberson (107)
 Janye Roberts (133)
 Tasha Roberts (107)
 Anna Robinson (105)
 Richard Robinson (106)
 Clara Robledo (100)
 Maryanna Rogers (105)
 Mekel Rogers (100)
 Shauna Roman (109)
 Sherry Rose (105)
 David A. Rosenfield (54)
 Stephanie Rouse (99)
 Kevin Rowell (106)
 Meteza Royal (109)
 Robynn R. Rutledge (54)
 Amanda Salisbury (105)
 Ute Sartorius (108)
 Kay Satter (98)
 Beverly Satterfield (103)
 Mike Scales (106)
 Glenn Schmick (102)
 Peter-Philipp Schmitt (108)
 John Schrinw (109)
 Stephen A. Schmoter (54)
 John Schrinw (109)
 Brittany Schurtz (133)
 Danny Schwartz (100)
 Gia Seagle (94)
 Travis Seevers (106)
 Brian Seiliff (107)
 Ron Seils (25,32,37,41,48,89,94,121)
 Hugh Seinberg (21)
 Jenny Selapock (105)
 Jeremy Setzer (99)
 Patrick Shaffmer (10)5
 Neha Shah (109)
 Scott Shail (99)
 Holly Shamburger (114)
 Cindy Shealy (103)
 Trent Shelton (107)
 Amy Shiffet (105)
 Sharon Shoemaker (98)
 Jeff Shouse (107)
 Kevin Sikorski (107)
 David Simmons (107)
 Steve Simandle (54)
 David Simmons (107)
 Mark Simpson (106)

Keith Sink (107)
 Kendra Sink (99)
 James Slaton (102)
 Patrick Sloan (100,105)
 Canda Smith (88)
 Karla Smith (98)
 Lisa Smith (21,99)
 Maria Smith (48)
 Maurice Daniel Smith (108)
 Michelle Smith (99,102)
 Scott Smith (102)
 Shannon N. Smith (99)
 Shelly Smith (108)
 Dana Snider (102)
 Janice Snyder (106)
 Luther Snyder (107)
 John Sobon (54)
 Bill Spear (106)
 Sandra Spencer (99)
 Donna Spikes (99)
 Richard Sprecker (100)
 Steve Spurlock (116)
 Charlie St. Clair (54,141)
 Kendra Stallings (133)
 Brian Stanley (106)
 Jason Stanley (106)
 Michelle Stanley (105)
 Grant Starr (99)
 Robert F. Steed III (55)
 Jim Stemper (106)
 Ashley Stephens (105)
 Cindy Stewart (105)
 Marsha Stiles (98,109)
 Clifton Stone (106)
 Connie Stowe (101)
 Sharon Strimie (102)
 Sharon Strom (105)
 Travis Stroud (107)
 Joe Sturgess (107)
 Craig Styron (10)
 Deena Suits (55)
 Julia Sullivan (107,133)
 Jill Summey (105)
 Della Swain (98,109)
 Suzanne Swanson (104)
 Erin Szymczyk (107)
 Skip Tappy (107)
 Tracy Tarleton (101)
 Ashley Taylor (107)
 Bobby Taylor (107)
 Jon Taylor (106)
 Sara Taylor (102)
 Tina Taylor (105)
 LeeAnna Teague (101)
 Randall Teal (107)
 Wayne Teasley (109)
 Livi Tedesco (107)
 Monica Teeter (136)
 Carlton Terry (102,104)
 Amanda Teskey (98)
 Bryan Thayer (107)
 Teri Thefford (100)
 Edwina Thomas (101)
 Rock Thomas (102)
 Shannon Thomas (100,119)
 Pam Tingly (125)
 Tammy Tolbert (106)
 Mike Toler (106)
 Wendy Tomberlin (102)
 Scott Townsend (106)
 Jeff Towson (107)
 Jennifer Trapp (105)
 Gonella F. Tremblay (100)
 John Tubleweed (107)
 Barry Turner (107)
 Monica Turner (101)
 Tiersa Twiggs (105)
 Hak Ung (4,5,12,45,97,101,
 ,103,104,107,109)
 Amy Ussery (105)
 Roberta Van Dyke (99)
 Babette Vandewe (100)
 Tracy Vernon (105)
 Dana Vickery (105)
 Jennifer Vilas (100)

Drock Vincent (107)
 Tara Vitale (100,104)
 Ana Lorena Vives (100)
 Kerry L. Wagoner (55)
 Ericka Walker (105)
 Eric Wall (99)
 Melisa Wall (101)
 Angie Walser (99)
 Daniel C. Walsh (55)
 Brett W. Walters (100)
 Sam Walton (105)
 Carl Ward (107)
 Rocky Ward (105)
 Aaron Ware (102)
 Laurie Warnock (55)
 Jeffrey Waters (106)
 Adina Watkins (105)
 Sondra M. Watts (55)
 Felicia Waugn (103)
 Robin Wawak (105)
 Joshua Weaver (106)
 Mark Weaver (103)
 Dan Webb (107)
 Davis Webb (106)
 Mike Werd (106)
 Kimberly West (100)
 Jill Wherry (103)
 Kristi Wherry (103)
 Cynthia L. White (106)
 Eric White (99)
 Stephanie White (103)
 Tracy White (101)
 Christina Whitten (103)
 Mark Whitten (109)
 Dai Wi (98)
 Brian Widener (105)
 Hunter Widener (107)
 Kerri Wikle (100)
 Anna Wilkins (107)
 Robert Wilkins (106)
 Steve Wilks (111)
 Allison Williams (105)
 Ana Williams (55,98)
 Jennifer Williams (101)
 Lisa Williams (105)
 Roger Williams (106)
 Wardell Williams (99)
 Kim Williamson (24)
 Teresa Williamson (99)
 Byan Wilson (101)
 Chris Wilson (109)
 Ginger Wilson (105)
 Roger Windsor (98)
 Nathan Wison (115)
 Tiffany Womble (102,103)
 Chris Wood (99)
 Randy Wood (107)
 T. J. Wood (106)
 Tonia Wood (108)
 Melissa Woods (109)
 Tabitha Woody (24,55,100)
 Patty Wooten (101)
 Christa Worley (105)
 Racheal Worthman (102)
 Jennifer Worthano (105)
 Chris Wright (108)
 Scott Wright (107)
 Diane Yarborough (100)
 Randy Yelton (100,106)
 Todd Yohm (91)

Volume seventy of Appalachian State University's The Rhododendron was printed by Walsworth Publishing in Marcelline, Missouri. Total press runs were 1000 with 9x12 pages and a sewn binding in nine page signatures. The 1992 Rhododendron was produced on the Macintosh Ix by the students of Appalachian State University, Boone NC 28608. The cover was designed by Don Redding, Deanna Murray and Robin Hilliard. The type used for the body copy was Helvetica. The theme "Retrospect" was created by The Rhododendron staff. The marketing team consisted of Amy Johnson, marketing director, and Alan Anderson, assistant. All photos were taken and printed by The Rhododendron staff with the exception of a few submitted photographs. Class portraits were taken and printed by Carl Wolf Studio of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Copyright by The Rhododendron and Appalachian State University. All rights reserved. No part of this book may be copied without the express permission of The Rhododendron.

